

So many wasted lives,
So many wasted times,
So many people on life support,
By their own hands.

Cellphones are not a life,
Facebook's not a lifestyle.
Now so many people are trapped,
Within this social mire.

What will they do when the networks die,
And the Internet ceases to be?
Will their lives crack and crumble,
Because they have no signal?

I have a landline for a phone,
Not tethered to a cell.
I have no Facebook, MySpace or Twitter,
For I am the Social Network Rebel!