

A Rare Bear's Rampage

By: A.X. Bueno

In a suburb some distance away from home a certain polar bear is shopping at the mall Buying new clothes, new potion making gear blissfully unaware of who's watching it all
Someone's watching him from their house's comfort and they've cooked up a not so little scheme

There's a fellow magic user, an unknown human laughing as Theo becomes agile
This human has taken control of him and wants to take the bear's powers for a spin
They compel him to use his own magic to grow and that is when the fun begins
The polar bear breaks through the roof thankfully his clothes growing too
Reaching a size he technically could but normally wouldn't alone
He's well on his way to being an enormous two hundred feet tall
And at his feet everything else including the people are rather small
He picks up two humans and a hyena beastman feeling them in his bumpy black pawpad squirm
They try to fight his grasp but it holds firm
The human from somewhere compels him to pop them into his muzzle and send them down his fuzzy, fleshy slide

And as he crashes a house underpaw they land into his stomach where they'll now permanently reside

The bear purrs at the sensation of their fighting and continuing to squirm in his hungry belly
His rampage continues as both he and his magical controller crave more

Houses, buildings and cars all crushed

More people devoured and paw prints all over many streets and floors

With this being a typically quiet neighborhood little resistance is met that isn't soon hushed

Halfway into all the destruction the ice magic of the bear is noticed and remembered

Both by the polar bear mage and the human manipulating this whole mess

This cranks up the damage as the human with his compelling magics continues to put Theo's powers to the test

He continues to smash but incorporates the icy spells now

Leaving a chilly path of devastation but not hitting the people

He wants to enjoy his unfrozen food

Then suddenly a frozen roar erupts as the monumental ursine starts to regain control

Despite that he decides to savor a few last micro meaty morsels since he was on a roll

The human controlling him for whatever reason seems to have fully surrendered the reins

The bear shrinks back to his typical yet still pretty big size at almost 10 feet

And he wonders among the wreckage what happened just now and will it happen again

