

ARK: Crushing Evolved – Getting Started

You woke up on a beach, naked except for some white underpants and with no knowledge about who you were. In your arm you noticed a strange implant. You tried to scratch it out, but nothing happened.

You took a look around. The beach was on the edge of a dense jungle. In the distance you saw some creatures. Taking a closer look, you realized that they were dinosaurs. Two triceratops and a parasaur were roaming on the beach. You thought about approaching them, but you were unsure how they would react. Even though they were herbivores they could still be aggressive when approached, you thought.

Instead you decided to venture the other direction. A few large boulders were lying that way. They were blocking most of your view but on the other hand they could also give you cover in case of an attack, you thought. Passing the boulders, you started to hear something. Fast but powerful steps, certainly by a relatively small dino but still larger than a human. Then there was a screech and the footsteps stopped. You immediately pressed yourself against one of the boulders to avoid getting seen and then carefully peeked out.

You saw a raptor standing over a dead dodo, his maw covered in blood as he ripped pieces of meat from the dead bird and swallowed them. This was certainly worse than a few herbivores. You were about to start going back, when the raptor suddenly changed its behavior. It slowly walked forward, until it stepped onto the dead corpse. You could hear the bones crack under the weight and the leftover flesh squelch as it was squished underneath the foot. The foot was now covered in blood and flesh, as the raptor kept walking around on the small corpse. You couldn't take your eyes off the event, your dick slowly getting hard inside the one piece of clothing you had. To your surprise, the raptor seemed to share your arousal, as he too got hard.

You watched him trample the corpse a bit more, slowly grinding your boner against the rock you were hiding behind. Suddenly the raptor jumped up, landing with both feet on the still intact skull of the dodo and pulverizing it with his impact.

"Fuck..." you moaned out, struggling not to cum before the show was over. The show was over now though, as the raptor was suddenly staring straight towards you. "Oh shit...!" you screamed out as you turned around and started running as quickly as you could. You could hear the raptors quick footsteps behind you coming closer, until something impacted your back, causing you to fall forward. The raptors feet landed on your back, pushing any air out of your lungs and painfully pinning you to the ground under his weight.

You were certain that this would be the end of you. However, you were quite surprised, when the raptor stepped off your back and allowed you to breathe. Your relief didn't last long, however, as soon one of his feet contacted you again. He pushed his foot against your side, forcibly flipping you onto your back. You looked up, staring into his glowing eyes. His expression was that of maliciousness and pleasure.

He placed one of his feet on your belly, not applying any pressure yet. You felt the sharp claws rest on your skin, as your belly was stained in dodo blood. Slowly, the raptor leaned forward, applying more and more weight onto your belly, until his other foot finally left the ground. His claws dug deep into your skin, and you were unsure if it was still just dodo blood that covered his foot now.

The raptor's other foot came down on your chest, slowly distributing the weight. The more your belly got relieved, the more air was forced out of your lungs. Despite all of the pain you were in, your cock was harder than before. You started to realize what kind of twisted perverts you and the raptor both were. With your lungs completely devoid of air, you eventually started to struggle, trying to make the raptor lift his foot, but he didn't budge. Your vision was already getting blurry from the lack of oxygen, when he finally lifted up his foot.

You gasped for air, but also groaned, as now the raptor's full weight was resting on your belly again. You didn't have much time to breathe, as the raptor slammed down its foot right back down on your chest just a moment later. This straight up stomp didn't just immediately empty your lungs again, it also broke at least one of your ribs with a loud cracking sound.

You screamed out in pain as it happened, tears filling your eyes. As the raptor now sank in deeper into your chest, his claws definitely pierced your skin, drawing blood that mixed with what was already on his foot. And just as you thought it couldn't get any more painful, he began lifting his other foot off your belly, shifting even more weight onto your broken chest. You screamed in pain, before your scream turned into a moan of pleasure, as the raptor's foot came down on your crotch.

You wanted to hump the foot, hoping to finally get off, but the raptor was too heavy for you to move. You didn't have to though, as the raptor lifted his foot back up and began to use one of his sharp claws to cut up your underwear. As soon as your precum covered cock was exposed, he stepped back down on it, making you moan again and mixing the precum with the dodo blood on his foot into a pink slurry.

The raptor then lifted up his other foot from your chest, that was now not just covered in dodo blood, but in yours too. As he did so, his entire weight rested on your cock. You moaned out in pleasure and pain, but were soon shut up by his foot coming down on your face. His other foot began sliding around on your cock, using the blood and precum slurry as lube. One of his claws got dangerously close to your balls, threatening to pierce the skin, and the foot on your face wiggled. The message was clear – lick or get neutered.

You immediately stuck out your tongue, pressing it into the rough and bloody surface of the foot. It tasted salty and metallic, and you could make out particles of dirt that stuck to his feet. It was repulsive, yet you just pressed your tongue against it harder. As a reward, the raptor slowly began slowly stroking your cock with his other foot. You started licking faster, and you noticed that his strokes were getting faster. You pressed your tongue deeper between his claws, and in return he shifted more of his weight onto your cock.

You were getting close, yet it was not quite enough. In a desperate attempt at getting even more stimulation, you repeatedly slammed your tongue against the foot on your face. The raptor lifted up his other foot from your cock, resting his entire weight on your skull and making it feel like it was about to crack, before stomping down on your cock with all of his weight. He did it in sync to your tongue, stomping the cum out of your dick. It only took a few stomps, until your dick shot out its load, you ting the raptors foot and your belly in a layer of gooey cum.

You were panting against the raptor's foot, out of breath from the hard trampling and intense orgasm. Most of your body was in pain, and even though you just had the biggest orgasm of your life, you began to realize what prize you had paid for it. Looking up at the raptor, you were expecting him to step off you now, to allow you to rest. Yet, when looking up to him, you only saw a predatory stare. Looking further down, you noticed that his cock was still hard and throbbing.

"P-please... I n-n-need t-to re- rest..." you pleaded, barely able to speak with your broken ribcage. But he didn't listen. Instead, the raptor moved his foot from your cock to your balls, and began shifting his weight onto them. "Please! I did... did what y-you wanted..." you screamed out as the pain got stronger and stronger. His other foot finally lifted off your face, the raptor's full weight now resting on your balls. Slowly, you could feel them getting weaker, as the raptor's weight crushed them into paste.

With you being a lot less male than you used to, the raptor stepped forward onto your chest. You could see his cock throbbing more, seemingly getting closer to orgasm the more he tortured you. He was now standing on your chest with his full weight, though this time it was distributed on both feet. You were in pain, the raptor not caring that your ribs were already broken. You could barely breathe, and your vision was getting blurry.

You could feel his weight shifting around, but you were unsure what he was going to do. Then, he jumped up. You knew that because suddenly the weight was gone. You tried taking a deep breath, but it burned in your lungs. Your vision came back for a moment and you saw the raptor's feet coming down again. Your heart sped up, beating faster and faster until you thought it would jump right out of your broken chest.

The you felt the impact. A gigantic burst of pain shot through you, you heard a loud crunch, and then nothing. The pain was gone. The last think you saw was the raptor's cock squirting cum all over your face, before your consciousness faded.

You woke up on a beach, naked except for some white underpants. You looked at your arm. A strangely familiar implant sat in it. You started remembering things. Painful, pleasurable, horrifying. It must have been a dream, right?

You took a look down the beach. In the distance you saw what looked like a bloody corpse. Against better judgment you decided to approach it. When the face came into vision, you shrieked and stumbled backwards. It was your corpse. The body covered in bloody footsteps, the chest crushed so thin that the ground underneath was shining through, and the face covered in cum. 'No way that was real...' you thought, but deep down you knew it was. And that excited you. Bloody footsteps were leading away from the corpse. You decided to follow them, your cock already getting hard again.