

In a galaxy quite close and a time completely synced to ours there is a planet called Ishtahl, a world nearly identical to Earth except 3 things. Within the Pacific Ocean an additional continent called Astelka. The second is that, contrary to our scientific laws, DNA splicing and reforming as well as evolution hastening is fully possible. However some people of Ishtahl are using these for their own personal gain.

Biosplice has taken over control of the continent of Astelka, using the northernmost third for research and development and the southernmost for a sanctioned off territory. Galwin Iterra is the CEO and founder of Biosplice and also implemented the creation of an MMORPG(Massively Multiplayer Online Role-Playing Game) called “Tails Lost Legends” that has rought Biosplice the funds needed for its research and development with its user population just short of a million.

Between the 2 areas that make up Biosplice lies the country of Faustil. A thriving country of modern day people going about their lives not knowing of...
