

Flash From The Shadows

By Ayn BlackFox

“That was an excellent shoot guys! Let’s call it a day and pick up again Monday!” The white wolf said to her crew as she turned the camera off. Kree, a popular movie director, finished the third day of shooting the movie, Shiloh’s Wake. The actors and even the crew were not pleased with the way she was directing the movie. They kept quiet about their feelings and quickly exited the studio. Kree smiled feeling confident that she did a good job and the actors deserved a well earned break.

After turning off the lights to the studio, she left the building and walked to her car. The moon was full in the starry night sky and the feeling made the white and rainbow painted wolf smile. Her phone chimed in her pocket and she promptly looked at it. Her smile grew wide seeing that her boyfriend, a mixed mephit of some kind, was about an hour away and was going to meet her at the house. “See you soon” was the reply and Kree got inside her two-door economy coupe.

Leaving the studio premises, Kree played soft music as she got on the northern expressway. She looked around some as she remembered the word that there was someone suspicious looking walking around the studio, not mentioning who they were looking for or why they needed to see someone. Kree kept her eyes open but figured that getting on the expressway would deter anyone from following her. The lonely, dark stretch of highway allowed the wolf to relax and think about seeing her boyfriend. Even the idle-patrol in the median didn’t stop her from thinking about him.

After passing a small brightly light section of the highway and dropping back into the darker section, Kree looked behind to notice that a pair of large headlight behind her. With a gasp, the wolf looked around looking for an exit but sped up to about 80 mph but the vehicle continued to follow. Panicking, Kree sped up to 94, taking the vehicle faster than she felt comfortable with. Her heart raced as the small car felt like it was about to go airborne, she whined softly as the car behind her stayed with her for just a few minutes before backing off and vanishing like it was never there. Slowing down, Kree sighed in relief as he left the limited access section and came to a light dominated, slower section of the highway. The scary feeling was still around, not knowing where the car that followed her went or even who it was.

Passing the three gas stations that lined the street, Kree cruised but looked at every single intersection looking for what could possibly be the car that was following her. In her mind, she wanted to report the car but not want to give a false report. With a second sigh, the wolf continued down the dark section of highway towards the small town where she lived. The once clear night sky turned cloudy as she traveled, the wind picked up blowing small, harmless debris at the car. Kree figured it was a freak storm and just ignored the weather as she slowed down to turn into her neighborhood. The wind continued to blow making the tall pine trees bend and sway almost to the breaking point. Lightning streaked across the sky given light to the dark town.

Kree smiled as she pulled to the long drive way the led up to her house. Noting seeing her boyfriend’s car, she figured the chase bought her a little time to get ready for his arrival. With a grin, she felt that dressing up a little sexy would be the perfect way to surprise him. Parking the car, Kree pulled her phone out her pocket and sent a text message to her mom and dad, briefly explaining that she was “being followed” and will talk about it in the morning. She walked up to the house and unlocked the door at the gusting wind ruffled her fur. She opened the door and walked inside just a lightning struck the ground a few feet away from her. Taking it as a sign to get inside, Kree opened the door and quickly closed it. She tapped the wall with her clawed hand trying to find the light switch and flicked it up when she found it. Kree smiled when the lights came up and groaned when they went right back out.

Figuring that a circuit breaker was tripped, Kree felt around on the side table until she found the emergency flashlight she kept there. Turning the light on, she walked thru the dark house looking around slowly. Her heart pounded against her chest like a hammer as the thunder and lightning outside continued. She walked into the kitchen with the flashlight pointed right in front of her. She looked at the sink rack full of plates and cups. Walking around the island, Kree opened the door that lead to the basement and the rear door. Panting softly, the wolf tried to calm herself down but the suddenly loud thunder scared her again as she traversed the creaky stairs.

“Terry if this is your idea of a joke, this is not funny.” She said with her sweet but scared southern voice. “Turn the lights back on sweetie, please?”

Walking into the dark basement, Kree looked around and walked towards the breaker box at the far end of the basement. The thunder and lightning stopped but the wind continued to blow, howling in its own creepy way. Shuddering, Kree walked over to the breaker box and opened it finding the main breaker was tripped. Following what her father told her, she turned the switch to the off position and waited 5 seconds before turning the main breaker back on. Instantly, the lights came back on but just a few seconds a bright flash filled room along and was followed by what sounded like an electrical transformer shorted out. With a small scream and a jump, Kree moved away from the breaker box and slowly backed up towards the laundry room. Trembling, the wolf picked up a rake and clutched it like she was ready to defend herself. Her heart raced as the howling wind stopped, leaving a soundless abyss around her.

Kree didn’t stop walking until she touched the cold metal of the washing machine. Swallowing nervously, she kept the rake armed close to her as she thought a shadow moved across the doorway. With a growl, Kree swung the rake at the doorway hoping to drive off whatever she thought was there until the rake was suddenly yanked out of her hands and a large, glowing, yellow hand reached out the darkness towards her. It stretched to make five tentacles which quickly wrapped around her arms, legs and muzzle as second hand appeared. The second hand also stretched into five tentacles and quickly slid under her shirt and down her pants, ripping them from her body. Unable to make any cries for help, Kree could only watch as her plump nude body was at the whim of the tentacles. After discarding her clothing, the hands cocooned around her from her hands to feet-paws and pulled across the basement to a pool of glowing goo on the floor. Struggling in the tentacles, Kree tried to squirm out but they only squeezed her into submission until she poised right over the goo puddle. After a three second wait, the cocooned wolf was pulled into the puddle with loud “sploosh”.

Reappearing in an old mine, Kree is placed on the floor of the mine in front of a pile of old wooden crates. The portal just behind her closes, sounding an electrical transformer short circuiting as Kree looked over to spot she thought was a bright yellow rabbit with a black, clip art style lightning bolt on his torso. His erect ears were black and clipped at the tip to form crescent moons instead of the normal pointed tip. Shoulder length purple hair gave the 6 and a half tall bunny an introverted gothic look. The neon yellow tentacles partially withdrew from around Kree, returning their owner.

As the bunny walks silently towards his catch, Madilivani appears from behind a corner with her arms crossed. She wore dark grey, padded latex, which looked like metal full body armor which squeaked softly when she walked. Using her own powers, she summons blue tentacles of her own and uses them to make a chair and promptly sits on them. "I heard the WayGate close and I swear Rizor if brought another piece of junk, you're going straight to brig duty like your roommates!"

"No no Lady Vani, I'm sure you'd like what I brought." Rizor said lowering his ears some. "And will pass me this time so I can join the army."

Standing up, Vani walks over as Rizor steps to the side putting Kree into view. Using her powers, Vani wraps her cold tentacles around Kree's arms, legs and plump torso. She grinned and circled around the now shivering wolf, examining the wolf and running her claws through Kree's soft fur. Vani looked at Rizor who stared back at her almost like he was lost. Looking back at Kree, Madilivani stopped in front of the wolf to look eye to eye with Kree. Just as Vani as about to say something, Kree snaps trying to bite the latex-clad lady but is met with a cold tentacles that snap-wraps around Kree's muzzle to close just an inch away from contact.

"Lady Vani, are you OK?" Rizor asked hearing the snap.

"I'm fine." She replied but looked back at the bunny. "You're taste in earth-furs has improved. I'm impressed. For now, you can have you way with her. Later, I'll teach this little firecracker not miss with a walking nightmare."

Walking over to Kree, Rizor and Vani swap the hold on the wolf without giving Kree the change to react. Like she stopped caring, Vani walked over to where she was before and reformed her tentacle chair, laying back to watch. Rizor looked at Kree and chuckled some. Using his powers he attached tentacles to the top of mine and wrapped them around Kree's all the way to the shoulder to hold them up above her head. He used four more to trap the wolf's legs in a spread position, two tentacles per leg but just at the right height for Rizor's now fully erected penis to line up with Kree's back side. His electrified tentacles press against Kree's anus and vagina gently shocking her, making the wolf twitch.

"Try any funny business with me and I will add more juice to that shock." Rizor said as he pushed the tentacles into Kree's orifices firmly.

Whining, Kree nods to Rizor, submitting to him. She squirms in the binds as Rizor slides the tentacles back and forth slowly working her body up. Vani yawns and watches them, simply playing with a tentacle hand she summoned, poking it and watching it move away. She listened to Kree's whining only to smirk as she turned her forehead jewel on. Closing her eyes, Vani concentrated her power, focusing it on Kree.

Rizor grinned as he sported an 11 inch erection, pressing it against Kree's soft furry rump. Moving his tentacles around, the bunny pushed the two tentacles he had into her anus. Kree shook her head and groaned feeling her virgin anus spreading by the electrified tentacles. She snuffles and whined feeling the quarter sized tentacles moving in 6 inches before they start thrusting in tandem into her. Rizor grinned more and pushed his even bigger penis into her, forcing her to take its full size. With a groan, Rizor quickly thrust into Kree keeping in time with his tentacles. Shaking her head again, the weeping Kree pulled against her bind only to have Rizor take a hold of her tail and pull it, trying to keep her still.

A tentacle moved around and pressed against Kree's trapped muzzle. The tentacle that held her muzzle closed loosened its hold just enough for Rizor to push the next tentacle into her muzzle, forcing oral attention from Kree. Rizor moaned softly and worked the wolf's body quickly as she seemed to calm down some. He closed his eyes and concentrated his powers to give Kree low, stimulating electrical shocks to force her body to tighten up when the current was applied. Moaning a bit louder, Rizor held his pace, waiting for his lupine to reach her climax before him.

Vani opened her eyes and turned her forehead jewel off and simply watched Rizor work. Her expression remained blank as he focused her gaze to Rizor's tentacles. Moving away from her tentacle chair, Vani walked over to Rizor and Kree but kept some distance. She looked closely at the tentacle in the wolf's muzzle seeing that it was covered in saliva as it slid back and forth against the wolf's tongue. She turned her forehead jewel on again and looked directly at Kree who just stared back at her with a most evil gaze. A fire was burning in her eyes like she was ready to take action against Vani once she was released. Moving her chair over, Vani sat in front of Kree and crossed her arms.

Looking at Vani, Rizor blinked and looked at Vani for a moment before continuing to thrust into the wolf. He groaned and gave a series of slower but hard thrust into Kree's vagina. Come on! He groaned to himself wanting Kree to orgasm. His leg twitched a little as his own orgasm was approaching. Pop bitch! POP! A several seconds later, Kree's body tensed for just a second and the wolf's eyes rolled a little as she climaxed. Finally! Rizor gave three more hard thrust and he climaxed as well. His penis gave a small electrical jolt before releasing the gooey semen into her vagina. Coming back to her senses, Kree looked at Vani again, giving her the evil stare. Rizor grinned as his tentacles released their slime into her anus and mouth. Kree squints but never takes her eyes off Vani as the thicker slime fills her intestines, making her belly swell. She swallows the slime in her muzzle as Vani moves closer to her.

"Well...Rizor, I must say that I am impressed here." Vani said with a chuckle as she stared at Kree. "You've shown me that you can handle Earth-Furs."

Smiling, Rizor pulled his tentacles out of Kree's well used body and crosses his arms proudly. "I'm glad to hear you say that Lady Vani." He looks at Kree and his smile turns into a grin. "Going to join in on some of her malady?"

Standing up, Vani dismissed her chair and summoned tentacles of her own. "No. I have my own plans, Rizor." She said walking around the still trapped and slime covered wolf. As she walked passed Rizor, a tentacle chair formed behind the bunny and grabbed him.

"Wait! What are you doing Lady Vani?!" He yelled as the tentacle held him down like he was in a sleep sack only keep his head and penis exposed. "Let me out! You said I passed! Why are you doing this?" He pleaded and struggled in the cold chair, shivering someone feeling the cold building against him.

Kree gasped and looked away for a second before looking at Vani again. She didn't say anything as her tear streaked face, and reddened eyes just focused on the circling Vani and her hand-like tentacles. Her anger was slowly building, the thought of just going berserk on the “alien” in front of her laid prominent in her mind. What plan does she have in mind? All I need is a tooth and claw in her and I’m going to teach her a lesson about us, “earth-furs”.

The mine went quiet as Vani just walked around Kree like she was studying her. She stopped in front of the wolf again and pressed a hand tentacle up against her lower jaw so she can lock eyes with Kree. Her forehead jewel turned on as she looked straight at Kree. Panting Kree just looked back at Vani and growled softly.

“So is this all you do, capture and torture innocent people?” Kree asked keeping her gaze locked with Vani’s.

“You Earth-furs as we, the Anombrasonians call you; need to know the truth behind your nature. The truths about Earth-furs as you exist.” Vani said without blinking. She moved to the side and used her powers to change the mine into a large city. Kree is freed from her binds as well. “This is your world, Earth, a very beautiful place, I will admit that and without the corruption of humans any more, you’ve turned the place around.”

“That’s rather odd coming from what we’d call an alien.” Kree said as Rizor struggled in his chair. She looks at her body seeing that is clean and tentacle free.

“Well don’t get your hopes up.” Vani warned as she floated over a busy city street slowly following it. “Allow me to explain why I and those I command do what we do.”

“You don’t have to explain anything you freak!” Kree yelled and snarled at Vani.

Vani turns around and quickly wraps a tentacle around Kree’s muzzle to keep it closed. “Oh, bad doggie. Let’s keep the muzzle closed.” Vani said pulling the tentacle apart to leave a ring of goo around the wolf’s muzzle. “This is your society as you know it. Seems like a good thing right? Well that’s far from it.”

Kree pulls at the goo ring some until Vani takes it away from her. “Yea we love the way we live so why are you interfering?” Kree said wiping her muzzle off. “And I’m a wolf!”

“Because I read your mind and I know what you and other Earth-furs like you do.” Vani said turning the scene into a couple arguing over their relationship. “Conflict is extremely common in your relationship. It’s like you can’t live without it. You use what you have, your vagina, to your advantage. Girl power.”

Nodding Kree grins and crosses her arms. “Yea? So what, that’s what happens?”

The couple appears to be arguing over a change being made to move to a better city where they can live a little more comfortably. However, the female of the couple does not want to move over her photography hobby and friends. She even goes through the person’s social website page looking at messages he sent to other friends. She sees a message that makes her angry over how attractive a female actor is and even aroused him. She later tells him that that message was wrong to say and she’s breaking up with him.

“Until this happens, one little message to a friend and she’s got her panties knotted up.” Vani said. “Sadly, Kree this gets deeper.” She changes to scene to show several brief scenes where the said female is talking to a friend about her sour relationship. She calls him and talks to him telling him that she is really thankful for him being there and love him.

“Well, she needs someone to talk to about it what so bad about this?” Kree asked.

“Watch and learn Earth-Fur.” Vani said as the scene changes to a secret conversation to another fur who seems to really like the female even agrees to date her. She then tells friends on social websites that she is dating this guy and is never been happier. The other guy she was talking to and got along very well with is now devastated and turns away from her, hiding and silently crying inside. “And she leaves the other guy hanging, never telling him that she was already seeing someone to let him off easy.”

“Oh well...she does not have to tell all her business to someone.” Kree said with a smile. “People move on and fall in love again so C’est La Vie.”

“C’est La Vie? Really?” Vani said with a growl as she dismisses the scene returning to the mine where Kree is bound again. Vani moves over and presses her latex bodysuit against the wolf. “Well let me tell you the truth then. You Earth-furs are disgusting creatures. You play other’s heart and mind and you don’t give a damn where it hurts them or not.”

Kree growls and bares her teeth at Vani. “So what, why are you so concerned?” Rizor blinks and watches Vani, scared to the point where he’s almost frozen.

“Because you and your kind would rather let someone be hurt than help them and by the time you realize what you’ve done, it’s too late.” Vani said not intimidated by Kree’s expression. “You Earth-furs are the scum that me those like me despise. It’s why we do what we do, to teach you sorry excuse of an anthropomorphic animal a lesson. Just one person can’t change the world it takes many.”

Kree blink and nose bumps Vani. “You’re just a freak alien who knows nothing about me or others around me. You’re looking to cause trouble.”

Growling, Vani takes a step back and slaps the side of Kree’s muzzle. Kree yelps and whimpers looking at Vani trying to figure out what she did. “Just shut up and listen you fool! It’s the lies and deception you use to get what you want no matter the cost.” Vani said growling. “Then once the damage is done and the person pursues other interests, you feel that the person hates you. Then and only then do you want to try to fix it.”

Looking at Vani, Kree whimpers and lowers her head. “I understand.”

“No you don’t... You never did and never will.” Vani said opening a portal. “Now that you’ve seen a reflection of yourself you feel sorry but the truth is that you’re just scared. Like the countless others who done all the same things, you’re see the nature of your ways and you’re scared to face it. Too bad Earth-fur.” She frees Kree from the tentacles holding but wraps her own around the wolf.

“Now what are you doing?” Kree asked Vani almost in a submissive tone.

“We’re done here.” Vani said moving Kree over to the portal. “Have a nice day Kree.” She flings the wolf through the portal and dismisses her tentacles. Freeing Rizor, she helps him and grins. “Sorry but I had to do that.”

Rizor brushes his chest down and nods to Vani. “It’s OK but what was all that about with the wolf?”

Vani sighs and crosses her arms. “Earth-furs like her are the absolute worse. It’s why we do what we do Rizor. Instill fear, to those who don’t cherish their life.”

“I understand now. I will admit I was afraid unsure if I can handle what came through the portal.” Rizor said with a smile. “But I’m better.”

“Good Rizor, now let’s get that promotion of yours.” Vani said walking out the mine with Rizor right behind him.

Back in the basement of the house, Kree came to her senses and looked around, finding herself lying on her side on the cold basement floor. Standing up, Kree walked back upstairs, still naked and covered in slime. She walked towards the bathroom but suddenly bumps into someone. Looking up she gasped, seeing her boyfriend Terry. Kree hugs the male tightly and nuzzles into his white furred chest.

“Happy to see me or a naked...gooey surprise?” Terry asked with a chuckle. He hugged Kree softly and kisses her forehead.

Looking up at Terry, Kree shook head. “Just me, you don’t want to know what have I’ve been through just now.” She said stepping back from him. “Still on for dinner and movie?”

Terry chuckles and nods slowly to her. “Yes of course.” He said winking at her. “And it’s on me like normal.”

“Yay! Just let me go clean up.” Kree said running up the stairs like a giddy cub.

“I’m not going to ask any more.” Terry said taking a seat on the couch in the living room.

The END