

The Topaz Twins

By Ayn BlackFox

"Boys! Get down here now!" Diana said tapping her high heel dress shoe against the stained wood steps. "Unlike your father, I am not patient, so get down here or you are going to be walking to over Corri and Mevrik's house!" A low groan followed her demand. Wearing an evening dress, Diana was ready to leave to meet up with the female friends for a "girl's night out" but had to drop her twin boys, Anon and Kyon off at a friend's house first. "Don't make me come up there!"

Upstairs in their room, the twin bunnies were just putting on their backpacks, which were stuffed to the maximum with who knows what. Hearing their mother calling them they left the room, dressed in simple blue jeans and a light blue shirts, Anon and Kyon walked downstairs towards their mother, who sighed in relief seeing the twins. Moving away from the stairs, Diana gave the twins a rather hard look. "You sure took your sweet time getting ready. You boys know I can miss this meeting tonight." She said to them knowing that they do not know what is really going on. "You two get in the car and I will be out shortly. You know the alarm has to be set."

Like the good boys they were or wanted to be, they quickly exited the house out the side door and get into their mom's luxury sedan. The one thing they detested as it was not as loud and fast as the truck their father had. Once the boys were clear of the house, Diana pulled out her cell phone and activated the speed dial. "Sherrel? Honey, I am running behind because of my boys... ..Yea they are going to a sleep over at a friend's house....Nah, Karl had to work late, boss went on vacation and work piled up on him.... .. Yea poor guy, any who give me about 15 minutes I will be there." Hanging up the phone, Diana walked over to the keypad and activated the alarm.

Walking out of the house, Diana looked at the boys in the back seat and smiled some. She gets in the driver side and started the car up. Putting on her seatbelt she looked at the twins through the rear view mirror. She slowly started to back out the driveway looking at twins with a bit of a grin. Anon and Kyon look at their mother and then to each other, wondering what going on. They look at Diana as she turns around and putting starts to drive down the street. The car is rather silent and the boys still looking at each other, leaned in towards the other.

"Mom's car sucks." Anon whispered to his brother.

"Yea... It is not as fun as Dad's truck." Kyon whispered back as the car came to a stop.

Looking, up the boys see that they are at a red light. Thinking they where heard, they move to sit properly into the seat not wanting to draw their mother's attention to them. They looked out the window seeing the light traffic wondering which way mom was going. Just as the lean forward to get a better look, Diana presses the gas pedal all the way to the floor. The engine revs up and g-force from itd pull pins the boys to the back seat. She keeps the pedal to the floor until she reaches the right hand turn on the expressway.

Slowing down, just enough to make the corner, she makes the boys slide along the leather seats as the car hugs the corner. She pressed the gas down just enough to get the large sedan around the cloverleaf style turn and pressed the gas to the floor and pins the boys in the set from 30 to 110 mph when lets up off the gas and cruises. Diana grinned and looked at the boys through the rear view mirror. Anon and Kyon look back at her and to each other for a second. Diana puts her eyes back on the road and continues to driver. "That should change their mind about my car."

After 5 minutes on the expressway, Diana slows down and exits the highway. She comes to a stop intersection and turns right. Less than a minute later, Dian pulls up to a drive and turns in. She moves a bit slowly and stops in front of the house. Anon and Kyon giggle and look around to see if anyone was already outside but the large yard was empty. Stopping in front of the house, Diana parks the car but leaves the engine running. She exits the car and opens the door for the boys. Instantly, the twin bunnies exit the car and quickly make their way up to the porch with Diana close behind.

Before they can knock on the door, two solid white otters come from inside the house and tackles the bunnies. The foursome wrestled around on the porch with Diana watching them. A few second later, the mother of the otter boys walks outside and smiles as Diana.

"They have been waiting for this day since they made the plan." The large breasted otter said, wearing just a simple short sleeve dress. She giggles as the boys continue to wrestle, complaints of cheating starting to fly from the cubs.

"Yea, Anon and Kyon have been itching to come over." Diana replied as the boys stood up. "You boys behave. Carol I have to run. Call me something happens."

"Will do Diana." Carol replied as the boys walked into the house. Diana quickly got in the car and speed out the driveway.

Inside, Anon and Kyon are taken to the back porch by the otter boys, who were also twins. Taking off their backpacks, the otter with a blue wrist band on, Mevrik, points to the woods behind the house. "That is where we will be camping. Just the four of us." Mevrik said with a bit of a grin.

"It is all set up. We just have to get there." Corri said wagging his tail some. He was wearing a grey wristband. "You two got everything you need?"

Anon and Kyon nod and pat their backpacks. They look at each other for a second before looking back at the otters. Anon chuckles and places a hand on his chin. "We even brought our own stuff for smores." Anon blurted out.

"Really? Mevy, why didn't we think of that?" Corri said with a huff, almost not pleased.

Mevrik snapped his fingers and pouted. "Darn! Out done by the bunnies." He sighed and shifted his gaze between his brother and the bunny twins. "Competitive side like to show up but any who Corri, we should get some the rest of the food from the 'fridge and head out the tent."

Nodding in agreement, Corri looks at Anon and Kyon. "You two just wait here." He pushes his brother inside and closes the sliding door leaving Anon and Kyon outside. The twin bunnies look at each other and shrug. They turn and look out over the backyard and towards the woods. The thought of summer camp brings up the memory of nearly being caught having sex in the shower by one of the camp's female consolers. Leaning in towards each other, the bunnies share a brief kiss just as Mevrik and Corri walk outside, holding with small tote bag filled to the top with various snakes and bottled drinks.

With a low chuckle, Anon looks at the two otters. "Are you sure you two have enough stuff?" He asked picking up his backpack.

"Well I know we do." Corri said point in between himself and Mevrik. "But who knows what you do are toting in those bags." The otter sticks out his tongue at Anon.

Looking at his brother, Kyon steps forward and places a hand on Anon's shoulder. "We are only supposed out here for a day right? So why bring a truckload?"

Mevrik grins and looks back at the bunnies. "Well we like to eat. Besides, it's a 2 mile hike to the campsite."

"The same one from before?" Kyon asked putting on his backpack. "The site by the lake?"

Mevrik shakes his head. "No. This one is further down by the river." The otter suddenly grins and looks at his brother. "No one knows about it."

"Oh," Kyon looks at his brother back to the otter twins. "OK!"

The foursome walk down the stairs from the patio to the faded green grass of the backyard. After a short walk through the backyard they slip in amongst the tall pine trees, following purple markers tied to the smaller trees. The forest was quiet except for the crunching of sticks and dry leaves under the cubs' feet. Anon and Kyon stick close to each other walking behind the otter twins, idly holding hands. They look around the seemingly endless forest of pine trees, their noses wiggling to the strong smell of pine around them.

Stopping at an intersection, the otter boys turned away from the purple markers which went to the left towards the lake. The path had obviously been walked several times as the ground between trees was flatten and not as covered with pine straw unless the rest of the forest. The otters stop and turn to look at the twin bunnies, who immediately let their hands go.

"You two better not say anything to mom about this camp site. She does not know that we going to this one." Mevrik said giving a rather serious face to the bunnies.

"If mom finds out that we have switched camp sites, she will punish us. And then dad will get angry and will not be able to have company for the rest of the year." Corri said with a bit a break in is voice thinking about the time they were caught giving hand jobs to each other.

"We won't." Anon and Kyon said in Unison.

The four boys continued to walk down the path with Anon and Kyon holding hands again. He leans a little towards each other and blush slightly thinking about being out the woods with just two friends who are also twins. With chuckle the twin bunnies move up a little closer to the otter boys and grab them from behind.

Mevrik and Corri gasps and whimper as the bunny twins hold on them, tickling lightly for a few seconds before letting them go. The boys stop as the otters catch their breath.

"Don't do that!?" Mevrik said with a bit of a growl. "We don't need that. At least not right now."

They continue down the path reaching a small clearing where a tent has been set up. The otters look over the tent and take the lock off the zipper. They look inside and giggle seeing that the tent is clear. They place the bags inside and looked back at the bunnies, who are starting to set up their tent.

Mevrik and Corri look at each other for moment before slowly walking over to the bunnies who were sliding the support rods through the slots in the tent fabric. Anon and Kyon mumble to each other about the tent not noticing the otters creeping up on them. Sliding the last support rod through, Anon grabs a stake from the bag and hands it his brother. Kyon connects the stake to the loop extending from the seam of the tent and drives the stake into the ground. Looking up, he spots the otters creeping towards them.

"What are you guys doing?" Kyon asked standing up.

Freezing in place, the otters looked at each other and smile at Kyon. "Nothing." They both say in unison. Mevrik steps forward and rubs his foot-paw into the ground a little. "We are just going to collect some firewood while you guys set up."

Looking from the other side of the tent, Anon nodded. "Oh OK."

The otters walk off and disappear beyond the trees as Anon and Kyon continue to stake their tent down. A few minutes later, the bunnies walk over to the fire pit which was metal box, 1 foot tall and 3 three feet long on each side. The metal was painted black but had some light scratch marks on the inside. They walk back over to their tent and start to sort through the packages of food.

Kyon looks at his brother and blushes a little. "Anon? Can we...play? While other two are away?" He asked holding a package of crackers.

Placing the bag of marshmallows back inside the backpack, Anon looks at his brother and smiles some. "Sure Kyon. It has been a while since we have done anything." He moved over and kisses his brother on the cheek, lying him down.

Blushing a little, Kyon looked into his brothers eyes, silently pleading to mirror of a twin for the attention he craved. With a smile, Anon laid his brother on his back, kissing his neck and cheeks softly. Kyon gasped and places his hands on Anon's back lightly holding his brother lightly. Slipping his hands under Kyon's shirt, Anon rubbed over is brother's chest softly. Chirring lowly, Anon removed Kyon's shirt and giving long, slow licks to the smooth furred chest, making the bottom bunny gasp and moan softly. Kyon moved his hands down and slowly unzipped his brother's pants, sliding them down to his knees. He blinked looking at this brother's underwear with the dragon on them. Smiling some, Anon slipped the underwear down and rubbed over his brother's crotch slowly. Kyon gasped and moans softly writhing against his brother's touch.

Having a full sized, 5 inch erection, Anon continued to writhe under his mirror brother. He moaned lightly and suddenly covered his muzzle realizing that the otters could come back at anytime. Keeping his muzzle closed, Kyon squirmed and closed his eyes as his brother took a hold of the small erection and quickly starts to strokes it. Anon smiled slipped down his own pants showing his brother that he too was hard. He pressed his fingers against his brother's anus making the bottom positioned bunny groan as two fingers push inside with out lube of any kind. Kyon closes his eyes and plants his feet-paws into the bottom of the tent. He arches his back as his small penis throbs and starts to squirt pre-cum.

Anon started to pump his fingers into his brother's anus slowly at first before building pace. Kyon unable to hold back, he moaned loudly and gripped the bottom of the tent. Anon grins and continues to stroke his brother's pre covered erection a bit quickly, panting as his own erection was dripping with pre. Moving his fingers, he pressed his pre lined erection against his brothers and held both in one hand. Both bunnies moan out as his the hump into the hand, the lust taking over them. The brothers look at each other, locking eyes as their bodies move in time with other. The moaning between them continues as they push each other towards climax.

Squeezing the penises in his hand, Anon continues to stroke them a long the thrusting. His feet-paws press against the bottom of the tent as he arches his back feeling his orgasm building. Kyon closes his eyes and grabs the sleeping bag as he reached orgasm faster than Anon. "Ahhh! ANON!" He cries out as the thick, warm cum squirts out from his throbbing cock and splatters against his nose and cheeks. Some of it even goes into his open maw causing him to cease his moaning. Anon moans out and starts to ejaculate just a few second after his brother adding his own semen to Kyon's nose and face.

Outside of the tent of the incestuous bunnies, Corri and Mevrik pause hearing what sounds like crying at first. Holding fire wood, they rush do the campsite wondering if something happened to their bunny friends. The otters dump the firewood in front of there tent and move over to the tent where Anon and Kyon were. They look at each other and swallow thing it was a bad idea to leave the bunnies alone wondering one or both of them had gotten hurt. They step away from the tent and look at each other.

"Oh no! What is mom going say about this?" Corri asked in a whisper with his ears down not really wanting to be on punishment because their mom had to pay medical bills.

Mevrik covered his crotch and blushed a bit like he had urinated on himself but was just really nervous. "Corri, I am scared. Should we look inside?" He whispered back.

Nodding, Corri slowly approached the tent and slowly unzipped with Mevrik standing behind him, still in the "I have to pee" stance. Moving the flap, Corri peeks inside and gasped. He fell back against his brother, knocking him over so that both fell on their back. Anon and the cum covered Kyon looked back at the otter twins as they had just finished their play just to be found by their best friends. Corri and Mevrik look at each other and look at the bunnies with a totally surprised look on their face. "Anon? Kyon?"