

Hot Air Balloon Act 2

By Bartan Tirix

Featuring Jinx Montalgo

The elevator doors opened and the red eastern dragon walked out, maid suit and all. Making her way down the fancy hallway of apartment doors, able to see the darkness of the later night over the city through the window at the far end. Just one more apartment to dust off and she was done for the evening.

Nearly walking past the apartment, catching the familiar numbers 897; the same that matched the card in her hand. Unlocking it with ease and opening the door. Turning on the lights to expect a rather big mess, but it was quite spotless. A relief that the maid's last job for the evening was going to be an easy one, and even better when she found a note with her name on it. Picking up the folded piece of paper and gazing over it with curious white eyes.

Dearest Xia,

Please help yourself to the sparkling water in the fridge. I'm afraid my body doesn't enjoy it as much as I hoped. Even take it home with you, or have a sip while cleaning.

Signed,

Professor Fishsticks

Free sparkling water? How could she say no? Especially when the dragoness felt a little parched from the trip over. Opening the fridge soon after and finding... Well, the canned drink-and only that. One of the six pack missing, but completely empty otherwise.

Usually someone would see that as a red flag, but Xia trusted the Professor quite a bit. Taking one of the sparkling waters and having a drink, the tingly lemonade flavor dancing along her tongue. Reminding her of the 'Dragonade' brand as it settled in her form, finding herself actually taking half the can in a single 'first drink'.

But that was okay, means she could possibly finish the can before she leaves the apartment easily enough. Beginning her work as the fuzz was still felt in her belly, occasionally moving across her opened drink and taking an extra sip. Completely oblivious to the fact that her French Maid outfit was feeling a little tighter, or that her middle was getting more round the more she moved about. Stirring up the bubbles in her body from the drink, and beginning to expand the dragon's white underside.

That is until she needed to dust quite a bit lower, causing her tail to move upwards as she bent over, allowing a lot of the gas created from the soda to sink into her red haunches. Bubbling them outwards in a rounding form, all while she swayed them; having a song stuck in her head. Say... I donno, Mambo No. 5 or something.

Xia's body continued to swell up as she continued her little dance. Still not detecting the buildup in her form even when it was blowing up her chest as well, swelling up the plates in her torso into two large pillows that could barely fit into the padded cups provided by the dragon's outfit. Bouncing with every little movement, while her belly, rear, and inflating tail began to lag a little bit from their size increase.

It wasn't until she finished the can, setting it down and turning rather quickly that she seen it go flying. Getting hip-checked by her enormous rear end, causing Xia to yelp loudly at the sudden change... ""Sudden"". Overlooking her form as the extra bubbles in her belly fizzed up, and then... The dreaded sound.

The dragon hiccuped. Making her whimper a little bit as her middle began to feel increasingly tighter. Causing her shirt to slide up her enlarging belly, prying it away from her skirt and exposing those white plates. Her behind doing the same for her undergarments, blowing out those hinds and thickening that tail greatly, nearly dwarfing the flow of main that went down the rear appendage.

Another hiccup that Xia couldn't hold back, causing her bust to grow magnificently and against her clothing's defiance. Folding over their black padded cups and swelling under Xia's chin, nearly swallowing her muzzle with her own cleavage and making it very difficult to see where she was walking. Causing her to feel out several larger objects; chairs, tables, and desks, with her expanding gut.

Until the dragoness tripped! Falling directly onto that belly and feeling the fuzz inside her frenzy. Soon expanding the red and white one throughout the room, with a primary focus on her belly, bust, and haunches. The objects compressing the living parade balloon and irritating the soda inside, only causing the dragoness to inflate faster and faster. Soon feeling her tight clothing do the same, barely able to keep together before the straps and stitches finally snapped!

And make Xia swell outwards into the room, putting an incredible amount of pressure on the furniture until they finally gave out. Trampled over the ever expanding maid as her form occupied every possible living space, despite her whimpers- mostly towards the destruction of the objects, not the possible danger to her body.

From outside, the lights coming from the room dimmed down. The glass windows were occupied by a red and white inflating sheet that continued to push on the large glass. Testing its durability as the soda forced Xia to grow, to press harder and harder against it! Until the windowed walls popped out, leaving several large bubbles with the colors of the Canadian Flag to swell in their place.

Yet, that still wasn't enough. Her form swallowing the steel beams and beginning to warp them too! Forcing them to bend until one by one they began to be shot outwards by the inflating dragoness. Allowing her side to bloat out and pry the rest of her body into the open air, where she began to float like a blimp!

Steadily expanding as Xia grew to the very thickness of the condo she was in! Matching the upper half of the near-skyscraper until the soda was satisfied. Leaving the living balloon floating there in the spotlight for a bit longer, wondering how she was going to down this time. Just thankful there was only a slight breeze holding her against the building.

It wasn't until there was some movement in the waters that made the bay. The black (night time) liquids rippling heavily as the local kaiju was called out. A hybrid look of a feral and anthro wyrm with a few large spikes coming out of his back and at the end of his tail. Emerging from the waters in a slow, dramatic fashion and inhaling to release a roar- the color shifting beast double taked at the large dragon-loon in the spotlight semi-nearby. Then cue some fool practicing Careless Whisper on a Sax nearby as his scales turned a deep purple.

The massive Cryo suddenly had hearts in his eyes as he moved through the city streets to gently cup the massive maid blimp. Feeling out her large, bubbly form as she whimpered a bit confused. Stroking that thick red tail, caressing her haunches and belly. Soft squeezes causing her bust to enlarge, oh yes... She was definitely grand, but the dragoness could get much much bigger.

Taking a deep breath, the kaiju placed his large muzzle onto her smaller one- Only to have her blow into the behemoth's body instead! Swelling out his cheeks and storing most of her gathered volume into the Cryo's belly, letting it swell outwards close to that of a beer gut.

The entire thing took him by surprise, even more so when there wasn't any more movement from the small noodle dragon. Remaining rather lifeless like a deflated balloon, even after he poked her. Wiggled her, and attempted to get any reaction at all. Maybe she was just a balloon? Oh well, one he could possibly have some fun with later. Placing the deflated dragoness into his pocket made of scales- which how does that even work-? "Ah-HAH!"

A sudden surprise voice came from a rooftop somewhere behind the cryo! Causing the massive beast to rapidly look back and forth, trying to quickly find where the accuser came from, but missing him with every quick scan! "Over here." Another several looks. "Turn around. No-no, stop! Here!" Another several looks. "To your left. Your other left. Slowly now- Hey! Slowly!" Those rainbow discs of the Kaiju followed instructions, eventually spotting a black latex anthro dragon standing on a dark rooftop. No wonder Dia couldn't spot him.

"See me?" The Cryo nodded at him. "Good. Now, let's try this again. Ah-HAH!" An overdramatic yelp in surprise from the behemoth as he was pointed at again. "You've fallen for my trap! Instead of... Publicly fondling a blimped out Xia- seriously, what was up with that?" The Kaiju's scales deepened into a shade of purple. "You got my decoy of her, containing- Okay, can you still not see me?" The latex dragon grumbled, still seeing those rainbow irises shift around the rooftop. "I'm right in front of you."

"You know what would help with that-?"

"-No." The black latex one grumbled at a nearby speaker phone, hearing the two young ones on the other side giggle at his sudden response.

"A lightbulb." A moment of silence as the kaiju and Jinx stared at the speaker.

"...I mean, they're right." Dia lightly mumbled.

"You and I both know that they were going to suggest-"

"-Also a lab coat."

"-There it is." The black one covered his eyes with his hand, and a loud gurgle was suddenly heard from Dia's belly. Getting both of their attentions for a few seconds before the larger one met Jinx's sly smirk. Then the pressure began in the Kaiju's center, blowing up his middle like round balloon slowly. "The gas I used for the decoy can easily transfer bodies and containers, expanding even more as it moves. Even within itself! Muhahaha-!"

During 'The Black Hole's' monologue, the Cryo suddenly caught Jinx with those large paws. Making the latex one squeak loudly as he was brought up to that giant red muzzle, witnessing the scales of the kaiju change color to an orange as his lips caught the 'mad scientist's' muzzle- and Careless Whisper started again.

But only for a moment before Dia started blowing into the small dragon! Puffkissing his small anthro form into a spherical house, attempting to once again transfer at least some of that strange substance from his belly into the latex one! Hearing him 'Mmmph~' a little bit as Jinx was inflated larger and larger! "And you could've ruined another lab coat if you just wore it-"

"Don't ruin the mood, you two!" Dia muffed during one of his exhales, while the anthro was blushing too much to think properly. Taking another deep breath but still feeling his belly swell out at the same time, the Cryo's own expansion only slowing down when he blew up the black balloon in his paws. Making him whimper as those scales shifted from orange to purple, as he continued to transfer a large portion of that strange 'carbonation' into Jinx.

And the mad scientist swell out greatly in those massive paws, each palm about the size of a tennis court. Filling them out as the latex creature went from being the cryo's smallest claw size (at best) then turned into a round kaiju sized water balloon. Hearing the micro one almost moan excitedly as he was blown up bigger and bigger, not caring about the transfer of the dangerous gas.

It took no time at all for Jinx to become a large black party-balloon, while Dia's own middle looked like he was smuggling several body pillows. Doing his best to slow down his own inflation while swelling out the scientist, surprised at how much punishment he could take! (Not really, but acting somewhat desperate) Wondering when his own gut was going to stop expanding, soon feeling that underside touch the streets. All of this from just one can of soda!?

Larger and Larger 'The Black Hole' became, soon expanding over the apartment building rooftops. Soon getting stuck between two large skyscrapers as Dia's own belly began prying the two away; each getting trapped between the toy buildings as their forms began go blow up. But the Cryo didn't give up! Trying his best to keep latched onto the black one's head as the scientist swelled outwards in all directions.

Until the kaiju lost grip, prying their snouts apart as the giant one's belly began expanding into his chest! Turning his frontside into one giant color-changing bubble that started to deroot the lego buildings from their foundations. Almost causing them to fall over and start a domino effect as the toy people began to hop away screaming.

But the soda finally seemed to run out of gas! Keeping the two large ones stuck in place for a few moments as Jinx wiggled a bit. Trying to visualize his body's position and current volume before concentrating heavily. Worrying the Cryo for a moment, especially when the black balloon began to shift the locations of the air in his own body! Putting tremendous attention into those limbs instead of his middle, as well as his head...?

The Mad Scientist was... He was Upsizing himself! Using the volume the kaiju blew into him to make his latex form a giant version of Jinx! Carefully prying himself carefully out from between the skyscrapers, keeping a massive amount of volume into that black tail. Then reclaiming it into his anthro body in the form of muscle density! Growing out his pecs and abs, deltoids and biceps, thighs and calves. Just massively increasing his structure and giving a flexing pose to show them off, along with some sparkles... And cue Careless Wh-

Such a sight instantly made the kaiju gazing at him turn those scales purple (and occasionally pink), his gut still trapped within the street. Only to witness the anthro shift stances to that of a charge, swing himself inbetween the two skyscrapers and drop kicking that stuck belly! Sending the Cryo backwards with a loud 'thumm!', ...While also accidentally knocking over said skyscrapers. Causing a massive amount of 'property damage' to the lego city.

But the Black Hole didn't care, too focused right now on 'defending the city.' Yes. That's how he'll write up the damages caused. Chasing after the flying color-shifting bubble as it once again got stuck upon landing on his belly. Releasing a whimper just before Jinx rammed that gut with his muscled shoulder. Easily detecting that dense squish of the kaiju's belly before it once again was tossed backwards with a yelp, Then getting stuck again between some taller buildings.

Another shoulder-tackle from the latex scientist/body-builder (everyone needs a hobby), sinking surprisingly deep into that bloated underside as it groaned loudly at the impact. Folding around the black one as those balloony scales began to sink into their body and turn... Orange? The Cryo's aggression/hostile color? Uh oh.

Two large hands squeezed the bubbled part of that belly, forcing the rubber giant to take a couple of steps back and witness the kaiju shift his own volume! Mimicking Jinx's technique as Dia's own muscles grew while his belly shrank. Taking a moment to flex his new structure, a display in challenge. One the black one blushing but doing the same as they took grappling stances.

The Cryo rushed Jinx, attempting to grab his shoulders, but the Black Hole evaded slightly. Countering with his own pull on the arm/shoulder to throw the larger one off balance into a few buildings. Scattering lego bricks everywhere, but Dia quickly recovered. Just in time to duck under the latex one's Lariat [wrestling], grabbing that black waist as a counter and throwing the bulky Scientist over his orange shoulder!

Jinx landed in the streets where a series of lego people panicked and hopped away, attempting to escape the destruction of another apartment building while the anthro got up. Only to find another large structure being thrown at him! Catching it in mid-air, spinning with the momentum at the advancing kaiju and smashing it against Dia's block. Sending a shower of plastic bricks everywhere.

The two caught each other's grapple attempt with their own hands, flexing heavily for several moments as they started to blush/turn purple. Both breaking the grip and going for the shoulders instead, putting their snouts really really close together while still stuck in a stalemate. Identical in size, neither really having much of an advantage over the other- and don't think about how Jinx is hollow. This is not supposed to make any sense.

Until finally, the latex one took a deep breath, inhaling more air to increase his size over the Cryo! Black muscles growing larger, increasing in volume and strength while starting to tower over the kaiju and finally breaking Dia's stance. Throwing the color shifting creature off balance, able to pick him up easily and toss him a couple of streets over. Demolishing several buildings in the process, and then a few more for good measure.

Dia dug himself out of the pile of bricks as more little cries of fear were heard. Only to witness the Black Hole to take another large breath and inflate himself slowly, increasing his overall muscle and size! The kaiju beginning to charge at him to interrupt the latex one, only to hear the high pitch of a whistle down below; where his large paw was just before a road intersection.

A Lego person in a Crossing Guard Uniform held up a stop sign towards the macro beast, as a line of small pets took their time crossing the road. Those rainbow eyes watching them slowly make it to the other side, where the guard then spun the sign around for a Thank You, then move out of the way. Getting a small nod from the attacking beast as he waited patiently until they were safe.

...Only to forget what he was doing, until a loud hiss was heard from afar. Jinx now inflated himself to twice the size of the cryo during the downtime, while also increasing that latex rear a dozen times over! Giving Dia a severe disadvantage- even before the black one flexed and visually stunned Dia, leaving the (now) smaller one opened for a dropkick.

But it wasn't a dropkick! Instead, the latex giant was aiming to tackle the kaiju with that bloated behind! Being just too wide and balloony for Dia to dodge, and getting buried underneath it with a loud Bwoomph! Slamming into the ground and leveling out some nearby buildings in the process, any struggling only causing Jinx to bounce a little more over the beast.

The PA system came on again from a nearby building. "Good job, Jinx! Now keep him pinned there until we get our secret defense weapon ready!" One of the little ones chirped.

"It won't take long!" The other troublemaker added in, making Dia whimper loudly. Pawing at the plushy behind, getting his hands to sink deep into the latex balloon. Unable to obtain a firm grip to roll off the black blimp. He was stuck! Unable to shift his weight or the Black Hole's enough to unbalance him, and all attempts only provided the mad scientist with tickles!

When all seemed lost, a sudden change in music overhead actually got Jinx's attention. Soon feeling a ram against his left buttcheek... Which did, like, nothing to aid Dia's situation. Such a poor attempt that even the music started to fall apart, until a second ram from the right side was felt! The impact was much much greater this time, actually launching the bottom heavy latex dragon forwards several blocks where he rolled to recovery. Turning about during the rebound to spot a large brass dragon pulling up both Dia, and a blue wyrm... That probably lost his balance attempting to shove that bloated rear off the cryo.

The two additional wyrms, one larger than Dia and the other slightly smaller, made the mad scientist curse loudly. "Oh blow me! Reinforcements!?"

"Just keep them busy, Mr. Black Hole!" Lexar added in over the speaker. "We're almost ready!"

"Easy for you two to say-" From a little ways afar, one of the skyscrapers began to mechanically shift apart and transform into a railgun turret of sorts. With the two brothers at the seats; the small wolfling and brass wyrm. Getting a rather surprised stare from the four Kaiju sized creatures. "...Wow, that really didn't take long." Jinx added.

"Nope!"

"Now we just gotta let it warm up for about five minutes!" The small brassling chirped, turning that impressed surprised look from the scientist's gray eyes into one of pure irritation. "...You can handle it."

A grumble from the large latex being as he turned his attention towards the other three, patiently waiting for their conversation to end while in slight poses. "And who might these newcomers be?"

The large Brass one in the center stepped forward and flexed in a pose, making Jinx blush a little bit. "Beo! The Brass Badass!"

The color changing Cryo moved up, taking his own pose. "Dia! The Deed of Destruction!"

...Then a little bit of a pause as everyone in the city looked over at the Blue wyrm, smaller and not quite as fit as the others. Making him grumble and complain. "Do I have to?"

"Be a good sport Thea." Beo stated, still not breaking his pose. Hearing the smaller 'kaiju' sigh and take a step forwards, doing his own flexing pose.

"Thea the... Eiffel 65." A rather confused look from the Troublemakers and Jinx, getting a whine in defeat from the blue wyrm. "I told you nobody was going to get it!"

"What does the Eiffel Tower have to do with...?" Lexar asked his brother, getting a shrug from the other. Making Thea groan and cover his eyes.

"J-just... Move on, please."

"I..." The buff latex one's gaze kept shifting around. "I feel like I'm missing some context."

"Well, he's Blue, so..." Beo stated, not really getting too much relief from the confused looks. Only for them to glance at Dia swaying his head to an imaginary beat, and then it clicked... For Jinx anyway. Getting the black one to nod.

"A bit of a stretch, honestly-"

"Which is what you're about to become." The brass one purred, making Jinx blush a little bit. Unpreparing him for Beo's sudden leap towards the scientist, slamming the ground with both forepaws hard and creating a tremor that shook the black one's balance. While still in the crouched position from the slam, Dia vaulted over Beo's body and kicked Jinx's large body through some lego buildings. Causing pieces to scatter everywhere.

The latex anthro attempted to roll for recovery, but got his arms stuck in some of the streets! Soon spotting the blue wyrm pounce at his prone form, putting his hind legs up for defense in Thea's path. Using the "Eiffel's" own momentum to launch him over Jinx's body with a loud yelp and crash somewhere overhead.

He then pried and rolled himself to the side just as a shadow was being cast over him, the brass one landing in with a Superman Punch. Striking a large building instead and absolutely decimating a city block with Beo's recovery roll. About to go in for an attack while the metallic behemoth's defenses were opened, Jinx's instincts flared up. Barely dodging an incoming Dia with a rotation kick, then a spiked tail attack.

Afterwards, the rainbow kaiju lept towards Beo who caught him. Quickly spinning the slightly smaller beast around and tossing him at the latex one! Assisting Dia's flying kick which the Black Hole barely dodged by 'limboing' back, gripping a couple of buildings to keep himself from fully touching the ground as the color-shifting Cryo flew over him in slow motion, only making contact with Jinx's whiskers before hearing Dia yelp and crash into a few city blocks.

The black one pulled himself back up, only to feel a concussive force impact directly behind him! Shoving him into Beo's sudden grapple and hip-toss, which the latex one reversed-! ...Tried to reverse, actually only getting one of the brass one's hind paws off the ground and unable to get the titanic beast past the halfway point in the throw. Straining a bit while Beo just looked at him, eventually breaking the two down into laughs when he started to chuckle. "By the holy airtank in the sky, you are HEAVY." Jinx's wheeze made the metallic wyrm purr, taking another couple of attempts, each one weaker than the previous.

"Don't hurt yourself." A few more attempts, accompanied by groans. "You got this-?"

"-I got this!" The black one nearly hissed, taking some breaths and swelling out his muscles a bit more. Getting a little further in the next attempt while that beared metal snout nudged him in a tease. Purring at the firmness of the latex's form. "That's not helping!"

"The throw comes from the momentum and using my own weight against me, not your own strength-"

"I know!" The frustrated hiss finally broke the two down into laughs for a moment. "Okay, okay. I need your help."

"Alright, try again in three, two, one." The brass one then shifted his weight over Jinx's waist and was finally thrown into the ground with a loud quake. Landing face up and meeting that black snout with a large smile. "Good job. Now, watch out for the derg-pile."

"The what-?" The Black Hole questioned before suddenly getting tackled into Beo's prone form by the blue wyrm, and then Dia after that. Adding a couple more yelps and laughs into the mountain of dragons. Eventually getting Jinx to squeeze himself out and rest on top of them.

"Fusion Cannon Charged!" The Troublemakers chirped together, getting several large yelps in question as their turret turned to aim at the four. Seeing Jinx dive out of the way before the laser fired and caused a brilliant flash of light that made the others yelp loudly! And when the brightness faded...

The three dragons were fused into one body! A little chubby, but armored and with three heads! With the brass one's large body structure and underplates, Thea's deep blue colored scales for the rest of the body, save for three large stripes along the back that changed colors like the Cryo. Still only having a total of four legs and a single tail, but with Dia's large back spikes from his Kaiju form.

It took a few moments for them to look over their form before panicking. "Uh oh." The small brassling said over the loud yelps and yells.

"Who would've thought that a Fusion Ray would actually fuse people together!" The wolfling nearly chirped, getting a rather dirty look from the latex one. "We guess this is the reason why people study science first."

"Yeahhhh." Jinx grumbled. "Can you reverse it?"

"Possibly." Lexar (wyrmling) pondered, beginning to fiddle with buttons. "But..." A sigh from the large black one.

"I'll have to distract them in the meantime?"

"Yep!" Rev chirped, starting to fiddle with buttons on his panel too.

"Of course." The black one grumbled, looking over the hysterical hydra from afar.

"Uggggghhhh!" Thea's head groaned with discomfort.

"How did this even happen!?" Dia hissed, wiggling his side's arm to see how much control he had. "I thought all those lasers and stuff were just special effects-!" Another whimper from the blue head interrupted him. Soon hearing Jinx take an additional deep breath to upsize himself and swell up his form, inflating his muscles greatly to match against the mass of the fused kaiju.

Such an event easily caught the attention of Beo; the center head. Looking back and forth at the other two he was connected with before speaking. "Looks like we'll have to defend ourselves by working together. Find out what you can control!"

"I've got an arm here, but I can only pull it backwards." The rainbow head whimpered.

"I can flick the tail a little." Thea mumbled.

"Is that who's doing that?"

"Who's got the left arm then?" Beo growled, watching their opponent grow massively larger and larger before them. "I've got the legs."

"Damnit, and our best fighter is forced on balance and defense." The blue head facepalmed, only to double take at the hand! "Oh! I have the left arm!" He waved at the other heads, looking at him rather unimpressed.

"Great. Sir-Pounce-A-Lot has the offense. First my toaster breaks, and now this." Dia groaned.

"Mr. Shockey?"

"Oooo, I have the right arm too! Well, half of it."

"Worst Tuesday ever."

"It's Wednesday." Beo corrected the colorful one, getting a glare as those scales turned an orange in irritation. The brass one tilted his head in a shrug. "It's past midnight here, so-"

"You know what I mean!"

"Okay, I've got half of the right arm. I can wiggle the fingers and pull it this way-"

"Rest In Pieces, Mr. Shockey."

"Don't you live in a lake or river or something?" The brass one snorted.

"Yeah, so?"

"I know you're immune to energy based attacks- Usually. Still trying to figure out this whole thing, but-"

"Are you implying that Shocky broke because I plugged him in underwater?"

"Wha... What else is a toaster for?" Jinx joined in the conversation, getting a double take from the others and now realizing the latex dragon was now twice the Hydra's size. Towering over all the buildings around them, even if he was sitting down. Regardless of such an intimidating presence, he still got that irritated glare from Dia.

"Not for making toast underwater! I'm not an idiot!" The rainbow one snorted loudly. "I accidentally knocked him over and stepped on him, and so I came up to get a new one."

"But we can never replace Mr. Shocky- Why do I suddenly feel bad for the demise of an inanimated object?" Thea questioned.

"Because Dia feels bad about it."

"We're even sharing emotions? Is that why I feel... 'Heated'?" A questionable look from the other three; the third being Jinx. "Like... Blushing?" The others suddenly look at Beo's head, looking a bit shy and stealing glances at the latex one's muscled form. "...Right. But let's keep it in our collective pants, shall we? Keep this rated-"

"Don't break the fourth wall, Thea." Dia snorted.

"So, wait..." Jinx got their attention, gesturing to the rainbow dragonhead. "Is that why you came to the surface? Because you were looking for a replacement for...?"

"My toaster, yes." Dia nodded. "Then I got distracted."

"By my trap-

"Trap?" Beo and Thea double taked.

"Actually, by the city lights. Then by your trap."

"What trap?" The two other heads looked over Jinx and Dia, who looked at them back blankly. Only for the blue and brass one to focus on the rainbow head, starting to detect some... Feelings. Making Dia's ears fall and his scales turn purple. Getting the other two to toss their snouts in sync. "Figures your friskiness would get us into trouble again." Thea snorted.

"Shhh! And this is only the first time!" The two glared again. "...This week- Look, can we fight now?"

"Don't you want to get your toaster?" Thea grumbled.

"The store is closed." Jinx and the Troublemakers all chimed in, making Dia grumble in frustration.

"There goes my waffle craving-

"So you WERE going to plug it in!" The brass head accused.

"Waffle Take-Out, You-!" A sudden 'body blow' (more like an uppercut due to the size difference) from the black one caused the hydra to stagger backwards some steps. Knocking over another building in the process as the three recovered, blocking the next one a bit poorly. Then making Thea yelp when Beo's leg control ducked under the low hook, lightly grazing the blue head and bumping Dia's against the latex muscled abs. Weaving almost to the black one's side and freezing for a moment, getting Beo's head to glare at Thea, and the blue to double take.

"W-what?"

"This is the part where you punch him, Mr. Control-Of-The-Arms." The brass one snorted.

"R-right." Thea's maroon eyes looked over Jinx's still opened form, then their left fist. Then looking directly at Jinx, who was just waiting patiently for the hydra to make the move. Jabbing the muscled ribs and taking the fist back with a whimper, shaking it.

"It didn't hurt that bad, you Kreskre." Beo grumbled at him.

"You didn't feel it!"

"Actually, we did." Dia snorted. "And we barely felt that impact."

"Well, your threshold for pain is significantly higher than mine! The worst I've ever done was slap an empty mug out of a badger's hand!" Unimpressed stares from the other three. "And yes, that did hurt a little. I toughed it out for the dramatic moment, but my paw still stunned for a little bit after."

"We're boned."

"Yeah." Beo sighed, soon feeling grabbed by the waist and lifted up by latex giant, flipped over and slammed in the ground like a Power Bomb. Shaking the ground heavily while Thea wheezed, getting the wind knocked out of him while the other two heads just looked at him, almost unphased.

That is, until their ankle and tail were taken hold of by Jinx! Releasing faint whimpers as the Scientist started pulling them sideways, spinning them around in circle while using their momentum to keep them in the air waist-high. After several rotations, the Latex one let go, sending the hydra crashing into a few buildings where bricks scattered everywhere.

"That wasn't that bad." The brass one shook his head, removing some of the lego pieces.

"Ass."

"No name calling, Dia, we need to start working together-" Beo scolded the rainbow one, only to hear Thea yelp.

"No! ASS!" A sudden look to the sky where a leaping Jinx was nearly over them! Shifting a lot of his volume to his black behind, expanding it greatly as he fell directly onto the distraught hydra! Squishing the massive rubber 'mattress' over the kaiju's body, letting it expand as it stretched in slow motion over each of the panicking heads. Completely engulfing them in a black balloony plush that folded over their entire form, peerlessly unaffected by any claw, fang, or pointy scale. However, the latex one landed on them perhaps a little too hard, actually bouncing off the fused dragons by accident. Leaving them in a crater with a conversation of whimpers.

"...Did you guys feel that one?" Thea grumbled.

"Maybe."

"A little." Beo pried his head out of the plastic toy ground. Feeling some water begin to enter the crater with them. "We need a new strategy of attack."

"We need to downsize him somehow." Thea grumbled, as they worked together to get back on their paws. Finding the water coming in quite fast as Dia observed it. "Oh no..."

"Or..." The rainbow head looked at the other two. "Find a way to grow?"

"Why did I know you were going to suggest that?" A whimper from the blue one as they all took a deep breath and dove their heads into the water. Drinking it quickly and rounding out their gut, making it slosh heavily until it hit the ground. "Great, now we've taken on a good 40 tonnes. What now, geniuses?"

"Place our paws on the belly." Beo instructed, concentrating and diverting the gained mass into the other parts of the hydra's body. Actually increasing their overall mass and size in the process, but not by quite enough to rival Jinx. "We need more water."

"The river?" Dia suggested, getting a nod from the other two as they climbed out of the impact zone... Which honestly looked like a pair of- you can picture it, you can picture it.

"Over there-!"

"INCOMING!" Thea panicked, interrupting Dia as they were butt-checked by a large black behind. Sending them back quite a ways and rolling, but not prone. Watching Jinx shift the volume back into his upper body and charge at the hydra, hearing the three yelp and scamper towards the open water source. Very quickly finding out what they were up to and tackling them just barely at the edge of the waters. Enough to get Dia's head in it, but not the other two!

"Not this time, Dia!" The Black Hole playfully growled, recalling the previous recorded session they had. Attempting to pull the rainbow head out of the water while struggling to keep the squirming hydra body prone and in place, Thea's weaker arms making it much easier for such a task as the two other heads attempted to bite into the latex skin with no avail! "I'll-!"

As soon as Jinx opened his muzzle again, Beo snatched it with his own! Sealing it tightly before taking a deep breath and making the black one release a muffled whimper, soon feeling a deep pressure as his rubbery cheeks began to inflate. Getting puffkissed by the brass one as the hydra grew larger and larger with every gulp Dia took- significantly slower with just one head, but ground gained was ground gained.

However, the Black Hole wasn't submitting so easily, blowing back into the hydra during the brass one's inhales in a Battle of the Breaths! Causing the kaiju's multi-colored body to inflate in the center a bit, but Beo had an idea amidst the struggle. Shifting the gathered air in their shared body into a different location, while giving Jinx a slight upper hand. Making the latex one appear to be winning the duel as he felt himself being lifted up while on the Hydra! But then it set in... Why was he leaning more forwards than expected?

A bit of feeling around with those black muscled limbs and the Mad Scientist felt two... Globes? Towards the lower half of the fused behemoth, right around where their hips should be- Instantly, the anthro blushed! Deeply! Losing most of his concentration as Beo inflated his rubbery body greatly. Using those haunches as a distraction, knowing Jinx could not resist! Hearing them groan as they rubbed up against decimated toy structures, flattening over a fire hydrant that actually had water connected to it. Groaning loudly as they stretched and squeaked against the anthro's latex body-!

No, the black one could definitely not resist such a thing. Even while trying his best to battle with the metallic head while dividing his attention in two; attempting to stop Dia from causing the Hydra to upsize. But the thoughts of those glorious metal buns nearly put hearts into Jinx's eyes! Trying not to inflate the beast directly there, but for every blow Beo took, those haunches seemed to grow- almost excessively! Making them rounder and rounder, nearly tripling the volume of the hydra, bouncing the latex giant over them as it began to break his pinning hold.

Until eventually the brass behemoth overpowered his puffs!

Breath after breath, Beo inflated the Scientist larger. Swelling his chest and belly out so much that they pressed hard against the scaled one, overfilling that muscled balloon to the point where Jinx began to feel his belly push himself up a little! Losing his pin against them... Kinda. Doing his best to shift the extra volume into his other body parts in order to keep a grip on Dia's long neck, attempting to pull it out of the water!

But even with the volume shifts, inflating out that black tail greatly, leading up to those massive rubbery hills and bloating muscles, Jinx was struggling! Eventually breaking his hold on Dia's head and trying to pry off Beo's bearded muzzle, taking several moments before getting that seal to break and blow out to aid his escape! Holding back the brass muzzle as it grew in his hands.

However, the Black Hole was stuck! He needed both arms to hold back a single head, and there were two that were dangerous! ...Yes, two. Thea's nibbles honestly don't count, nearly hurting himself attempting to bite the latex muscle. Lacking a breath weapon as well, and not having the arm strength to match Jinx's own, the blue head felt useless.

"Inflator Ray ready!" Some chirps were barely made out through the squeaking, gurgling, and groans! Only by Thea though, as he double taked to see everyone's reaction was completely unphased by the Troublemaker's statements. Maybe the others didn't hear them? Before he could think of what to do, the blue one detected the ray of light against his open side, instantly causing the hydra's middle to begin blowing up! Even more rapidly with the water Dia drank!

But to the other two head's perspective, they were finally getting the upper hand over the Latex Giant! Not realizing the danger they were in, only having about a dozen or so seconds left before they were nothing more than a series of spheres! Shifting his gaze around to find anything- Anything that could be useful, simply warning the heads wouldn't be enough!

Nearby was a large billboard, built with two sides in mind. One the blue head could nearly see himself in! Was it reflective? It was Thea's only shot! Grabbing it within his jaws and popping it off the toy pillars (maybe with a bit of struggle), keeping a hold of it in his maw as he shifted his head into the danger zone of the laser! Causing the light to make a sharp turn as soon as it touched the large rectangle!

It took some practice to aim it directly into the black latex form, making it expand rapidly and sending the other two heads in a little bit of concern. Until they realized that even Jinx himself wasn't sure what was happening! Blushing and bloating as his middle expanded so much that it pried his arms and shoulders away, releasing his hold onto the brass muzzle. Taking the opportunity to once again snatch Jinx's snout and blow into it, expanding the black one even faster!

Then Dia's head came out of the water, spending a moment to observe what was going on. Blushing deeply at the inflating black blimp over them as the bloated arms attempted to wiggle free. Only for the one closest to Dia to be caught by the rainbow head, instantly forming a valve of sorts where the cryo could start injecting the water into Jinx's body! Adding some weight to the black one to make him stay within range.

Faster and faster the Black Hole inflated, both in consistency and in two pulses. Once Dia was out of water from his muzzle, he started using the liquids gathered to upsize the hydra's own body. Making the kaiju smaller in the process, but the Scientist much much bigger! Growing spherically over top of them and quite far behind the black blimp as his longer-anthro form stretched out into the city!

The swelling blackness quickly crept through the toy streets like a growing blob, knocking over the plastic light posts and traffic signs. Squeezing inbetween structures everytime and spreading out whenever a new intersection was reached. Squeaking loudly as his latex skin rubbed up against the glossy bricks and clear windows. Easily knocking over buildings while also making his black form a near trivial target for the inflation ray. Removing almost all muscle definition from Jinx's form and replacing it with black bubbles.

Eventually, Dia ran out of water, but he wasn't out of tricks yet! Placing his half-in-control paw against the latex, he started altering the liquids inside with his magic. Turning it into something rather fizzy and carbonated, soon causing the black one to swell out even faster. Giving Jinx time to detect... Helium? And feeling himself become a little lighter.

It was definitely Helium, but where did they get it-? Then it hit Jinx, something that he invented years upon years ago it feels like... Helium-Infused Soda! Soon enough, even Beo could taste it, taking a few moments to recognize what was going on. Let alone his voice start to change a little from the lighter gas.

Perhaps it needed a push to become further irritated. As much as he would like to bench press the black blimp over them, Beo still lacked any arm control. However, he began nudging and lightly slapping the latex balloon with his tail, and pushing Jinx up and down with those hind legs. Making the (much, much, Muuuuch) larger one begin to wobble heavily and quickly bloat out into one giant sphere!

A massive dark oval that expanded over city blocks by the second. Knocking over all the tallest buildings it came into contact with and well over the large turret. The one operated by the TMs and equipped with their fusion/inflation ray. Only getting them to observe as their toy city was cast in shadow, watching their 'teammate' inflate massively to the size of the city!

Yet, keep going, aiming for the entire horizon as the heavy creaks and groans echoed over them like a thunderstorm. Forcing the black one to continuously swell massively larger and larger, well into the clouds. His balloony skin still attempting to touch down into the buildings, but the helium was still keeping him too light for it. The rumbles overhead matching the pulses of Beo's puffs into him, as the ray continued to swell him up-!

"Rev! Lexar! Snack time!" A familiar voice caught the attention of the two smaller ones, and even the hydra. Making them all double take, and the brass muzzle to break his seal over Jinx's maw. Causing quite a bit of pressure to leak out, as the two little ones chirped loudly and scampered down off their turret. In through a magical door that soon closed afterwards. Leaving the kaiju and scientist stunned for a little bit.

"Wait-" Beo started, his voice relatively normal compared to the deep vocals he normally had. Only to realize that he just let go of the black latex anthro; being the only thing tethering him down. Causing Jinx to suddenly start flying away like an inflated balloon across the city while deflating. The three heads trying to keep up with him, but soon got dizzy attempting to follow it and stopped. "Wait... How are we going to get...?"

"Unfused? Defused? I donno the term." Thea grumbled, after finally spitting out the mirror and avoiding the ray that was still activated. Now noticing how high pitched his own voice was as the other two chuckled. "Annnd now I sound like a chipmunk."

"...They are coming back, right?" Dia asked, and yes. His voice is squeaky too. Getting the other two to look at him, and then look at where the magic door vanished. "...Right?" Another whimper, making the other two take turns whining as well. Thea's lasting a surprisingly long time until Jinx crashed into the city like a meteor from space. Causing a nuclear explosion and absolutely totaling whatever was left. Sending plastic bricks freaking...EVERYWHERE.

"...Did you guys feel that one?"

...Watch where you step on your way out.