

The Magic of Love

Written by BlueKittyTales.
03/05/13

From the very first moment you walk on this Earth
An unspoken mission is assigned to you from birth.
It can't be escaped no matter how you try
No matter what your time of life or indeed your girth.
No matter what personality you form
No matter what routes you travel in despair or mirth.

Time is said to heal all wounds
And time prepares you for the next road.
Even at your lowest ebbs
Hope still remains there and sets the code.

The heart has a need to search for your soulmate
The predetermined need to win the game of love.
It doesn't come easy but effort pays off
You'll find your love someday like a gift from above.

The right connection is one that overwhelms the mind
The heart races and you start to feel weak.
Whether too nervous to talk or very outgoing
The feeling makes even the strongest meek.

When two pieces of the puzzle fit together
And your true and burning love is reciprocated
Taken to a whole new level as your souls link
By each other's sides and blissfully allocated.
Nothing will please you more than being with your love
In each other's arms no matter where you're located.

But this is merely the beginning of your quest
It could be a year or the rest of your lives.
Playing out like the scenes from a romantic film
The bond remains tight throughout each rise and dive.

Love stories are so often spoken about
And so often experienced, sometimes without knowing.
It's an experience you'll never forget
The needs and desires harboured for each other growing.

But it doesn't stop there, oh no it doesn't
Once the chains are linked, your adventure unfolds.
In the magic of love, it's all possible
Nothing can stop you, you can take the hold.

