
Charizard TF

You're sitting in your room when you feel a sharp pain in your shoulder blades. You hunch over in pain. Arms over your shoulders.

Draconic wings burst out from your shoulders. Ripping off the top half of your shirt.

They're covered in orange scales, with a blue-green membrane and a rounded spike halfway through at the top.

Surprised and confused. You touch your wings. Feeling the foreign limbs. You don't know why this is happening, but you're intrigued by it.

Orange scales spread out from your wings towards the rest of your body. As they reach your neck it starts to lengthen. Growing more than twice as long.

Arms grow shorter as the scales start to grow there.

Fingers merging together to form three fingers, complete with sharp white claws.

You flex your new fingers. Admiring them.

Your face stretches out into a long muzzle. Nose shrinking until only two holes remain. Teeth sharpening and lengthening.

Two of them even grow so long they don't fit in your closed maw.

Two rounded horns grow from the back of your head. Eyes changing colour to a light blue.

Your entire top half is now that of a Charizard. You're still confused, but the changes feel exhilarating.

Once the scales reach your belly they turn to a cream colour. Your belly grows larger. Destroying the rest of your shirt. Leaving you slightly chubby.

You feel a pressure at the end of your spine. It gets stronger and stronger.

Until a large tail burst through your pants. Destroying them. Your new tail's top half is covered in orange scales, while the bottom is covered in cream ones. The end of it lights up into a small flame.

Lastly, your legs grow shorter.

Feet growing stumpier. Toes meeting the same fate as your hands. Merging together to leave three. Tipped with sharp white claws.

Now that your changes are finished and you're a complete Charizard. What will you do?