
A Spot Out Of The Rain (Goodra TF)

You've been wanting to go hiking for a while now. And today seems like the perfect day to do it. So you lace up your boots, grab your backpack, and go on a hike through the lush forest.

The mountain path you've chosen is known for it's breathtaking views and relaxing atmosphere. You're excited to experience it for yourself.

As you trek higher and higher the terrain becomes steeper and steeper. Tree's becoming sparser.

Opening up a beautiful view onto the area below.

Though as you appreciate the view. The sky slowly turns a menacing gray, as rain starts to pelt you. Your mood quickly sours as you start walking again at a quicker pace.

Wanting to be out of the rain as quickly as possible.

Looking around for a couple of minutes you spot what seems to be a cave hidden away between rocks.

The entrance is partially obscured by plants and moss.

You enter the cave, glad to be out of the rain.

Taking a moment to catch your breath.

Seeing as you're going to be stuck in here until the rain stops. You decide to venture further into the cave.

As you go further in you notice something strange. The ground is covered in pale green slime.

Making it harder for you to walk.

You stop to consider your options. There might be something dangerous ahead that created all the slime.

Though in the end your curiosity got the better of you.

Going further into the cave.

You notice the cave getting increasingly covered in more and more goo. Though the goo never goes up further than your shoes.

Getting further and further. You eventually take a step forward. Only to unexpectedly step in more goo than you thought.

Your leg getting swallowed more than halfway into the goo.

You immediately feel a strange tingling sensation on your leg.

Panic sets in as you realize it might swallow you whole.
Desperate to escape you reach forward trying to use your arms to pull yourself free.

The more you struggle. The more the goo seems to cling to you.

As you keep trying to free yourself. The tingling sensation intensifies.
Moving your hands to get a better grip on your leg.

You notice that slime is coming off of your leg even though that part isn't covered in the goo.

It's then that you notice your leg has grown thicker and your skin has turned a pale purple hue.
As the tingling sensation spreads upwards.

So does the slime and purple hue take over your skin.

Realizing the goo is changing you. You redouble your efforts to escape. But you only manage to get your arms stuck in the process.
As the goo touches your arms.

You notice your clothes disintegrating where the goo touches.
Arms becoming thicker and more gooey. You feel your fingers merging together. Leaving you with only two fingers on each hand.

As the goo covers your body. You feel yourself growing more chubby.

Skin turning a pale purple hue.
Though your belly is a darker shade of purple.
A thick pale purple tail grows from the base of your spine. Each side growing three green spots.
The tip curls up.
The underside of your tail is a darker purple.

Your neck lengthens as the goo continues to cover more and more of you.

Your breathing becomes heavier as the goo starts covering your face. Your face starts changing.
Growing into a short and round snout.
Somehow you're still able to breathe through the goo.

Your once human eyes now take on a bright green colour. Two green spots form on each cheek.
Two pairs of antenna-like horns begin to sprout, the smaller ones in the front and larger ones in the back.
The tips of the larger horns curl slightly, much like your new tail.

It's when your change is finished that you're able to move normally again. This new body seems to be used to moving through goo.
As you swim to the surface. The goo sticks to most of your body. Dripping off from everywhere.

Your mind is still struggling to understand what just happened to you. As your panic slowly gives way to calm.
You wonder what you will do now.