

“Woolette! Get down here!” Cattleline said as she rocked Sheepena who cried for her sheep mother. Woolette came down in drowsy state. She still had her rather wide thighs but they weren’t as large as before. Some of the fat had went straight to her chest while some remained in her stomach.

“Give me her.” Woolette took the little sheep girl from her new partner’s arms and sat on the couch rocking her daughter back and forth.

“There, there. It’s all right.” Woolette said trying to calm her child down. Sheepena finally calmed down and fell asleep allowing Woolette to put her on her lap.

“It’s pretty hard to raise a child when she constantly wants the mother who’s always asleep.” Cattleline said,

“Just wait until she gets older. That’s where they become incredibly easy to care for. She’ll be taking naps far too often to cry for her mother all the time.” Woolette said before sighing. Sheepena was now 2 years old and had developed horns unlike her mother along with black wool instead of the usual white.

“But she’s a black sheep Woolette. You said those are far more active and energetic than the white sheep.” Cattleline said reminding Woolette of sheep,

“And you other animal women wonder why it’s so hard to for us to tell the difference between family and friend...” Woolette grumbled, “Anyway... I’m going to go and clean out the barn. Have fun with the child.” Cattleline said only to find her sheep friend asleep with her little girl. Cattleline sighed and left for the barn.

Cattleline adjusted her “sports” bra (a weird name the humans gave it) as she walked to the barn. When she opened it up she saw that the barn was empty, ‘Perfect...’ Cattleline thought to herself as she uncovered a simple bucket of milk.

“Finally some peace and quiet...” Cattleline said before picking up the bucket of milk and licking her lips. She quickly took the bucket and drank it all down. She dropped the bucket and rubbed her stomach underneath her overalls. She then decided to take it off to settle in for a nap. But before she could get comfortable on the hay she felt a rumbling in her stomach.

“What the heck? What’s going on down there?” She felt a bit more bloated than she should be. Cattleline took a look down at her stomach she shrieked in panic. It actually was growing before her very eyes!

Cattleline sat back up and gripped her filling stomach. She could feel it slosh around as it filled with a liquid,

“Milk! It must be filling with more milk! But why!?” Then Cattleline remembered. Woolette had spiked one of the milk buckets as revenge for what her friend did to her but Cattleline saw straight through it. Now though she fell right into the trap and there was no stopping the spell from making her grow out more and more until she filled the entire barn. She rubbed her stomach as she made worried moans wondering how much she’ll fill before exploding. She then remembered something in her overalls. She pulled them next to her and reached in to pull out a vial of blue goo. She pulled the cap off and poured it all over her stomach and rubbed it all over until she was sure that she was safe,

“Good! Now I won’t explode with this elixir! Though how long will this spell last for...?” Cattleline said still quite worried she might destroy the barn. She wondered how Woolette would react when suddenly the barn doors opened causing Cattleline’s heart to sink.

“Well, well, well... what do we have here? Looks like our mouse fell into the trap.” Woolette said putting her hands on her hips,
“What!? You planned this all!? Why you little...” Cattleline growled at Woolette feeling betrayed,
“Don’t worry you won’t expand super large. But you will certainly will expand bigger than I did when you did that to me!” Woolette laughed,
“Whatever... can you at least stay with me?” Cattleline asked,
“Sure thing! Let me just get our little girl so she doesn’t get lonely.” Woolette said before leaving to get their little daughter. Minutes later Woolette came back with the baby girl in hand squirming around quite a bit.
“But mommy... I want to pway outside!” She whined, Cattleline walked to the middle of the barn where Sheepena saw her.
“Is this what the spell does?” Sheepena asked as she rubbed the cow woman’s stomach which now reached around 3 feet.
“Yes now stand back. Your cow mommy needs room to grow out.” Woolette said picking up the girl and going up the ladder to the upper floor. Cattleline soon felt something new growing out,
“Woolette... what else will this potion cause to grow?” The cow woman asked cupping her breasts,
“Oh... just your hips and breasts.” Woolette replied,
“Great...” Cattleline grumbled under her breath.
“Don’t worry! Everything will be fine. Just... it might be a while before we’re done...” Woolette laughed nervously as Cattleline glared at her.

Thirty minutes in Cattleline was now lying on her stomach which was now 15 feet around and her breasts were 5 feet around. Sheepena had hopped onto Cattleline’s stomach and seemed to enjoy hugging her soft and squishy breasts.

“Looks like someone’s enjoying those new pillows of yours!” Woolette said before giggling,
“Real funny...” Cattleline glared once more at Woolette,
“Speaking of pillows Sheepena it’s time for bed.” Woolette said picking up the sheep girl,
“Aww but I want to see cow mama grow more!” The girl complained,
“It’s past your bedtime. Let’s go.” Woolette said and she left the barn for a bit but soon returned.
“How was it?” Cattleline asked,
“Not a problem. Now let’s get back to you.” Woolette said giggling as she hopped onto Cattleline and hugged her.

After about an hour more Cattleline had grown to be 55 feet around with her breasts being 10 feet and her bottom being 8. Woolette decided to make the growing stop with a little spell of hers.

"Thank goodness I finally stopped growing..." Cattleline sighed in relief,

"Hey Cattleline... do you think those other worlds are real?" Woolette asked her love,

"What do you mean?" Cattleline asked sizing herself,

"Like the bug land and underwater land. You know the ones we've been hearing about from the other animal people." Woolette replied,

"There's only one way to find out. After my fat wears off we'll go traveling with our daughter to these lands." Cattleline said referring to her current state,

"Right... anyways... let's just get to sleep for now..." Woolette said getting comfortable on Cattleline's stomach and falling asleep and shortly after Cattleline herself.

A week later when Cattleline was back to normal the two packed up for their travels and were ready to leave with their daughter in hand.

"All right we're set. Now let's get this show on the road." Cattleline said,

"What? What show?" Woolette asked,

"It's a saying from humans." Cattleline answered,

"Ah... Now let's go!" Woolette said as the three set off on their journey to find these supposed alternate lands.
