

Guardian of the forest.

The sound of the alarm clock rang loudly in a small dorm room, Anya surprise fell out of bed and began to hit the shelves with his hand trying to turn the alarm off. She got up from the floor, and began rubbing his sleepy eyes. Going to a basin of water, Anya reluctantly plunged into cold water. From here, cross the bridge, it immediately cheered. Drying the hair, she went to the coffee maker, brew yourself a strong coffee, she sat down at the laptop and opened the news page.

"Yesterday, a group of protesters, led by Anna Forest, blocked the way to the construction site of the new shopping center. They complain that the quote, "For the sake of the construction of this pipeline of money the government is ready to destroy the last forest in the area," end quote. The police were ready to arrest most of the protesters, when a fire broke out at a construction site, the cause of fire is not known, but the sacrament of protesters to this fire is not possible, because the fire started from the roof of the building. As a result of the ensuing chaos, all the participants of the meeting were able to escape. "

Ana was also wondering who started the fire, because as whatsoever the one who did it, too, against the construction. She thought for a long time who could do it, and most importantly how, but nothing had no idea it would be possible only if the arsonist would have had wings.

Thinking about it, she did not notice how the time has come to noon. Today is Sunday, so it was not busy today and Anya decided to take a walk. To not recognize her on the street she was wearing big sunglasses, after yesterday's rally, it is better not to catch the eye of the cops.

After leaving the building, she went into the woods, she was lucky she was not on the way met no policeman. When he reached the forest, she took off her glasses and sighed deeply.

- How well here - she said - I will defend this place.

Anya went to the forest. Strolling through the trees, she felt all the grandeur of the forest, its serenity and beauty. The sounds of birds and animals were to her as desirable as the new hit boy band for fourteen girls.

Suddenly she heard a twig cracked behind her, she turned around, but saw no one. "Probably squirrel" she thought, and continued on. From that moment she felt that someone was following her, this feeling did not leave it on all the way. The sun had already begun to go under the horizon, Anna walked out of the woods.

Approaching the edge of the forest, she heard heavy breathing of a large animal, she slowly turned her head and froze with fear and wonder. Among the trees in the rays of the setting sun was a dragon, he was a little less than the size of a horse, his scales were light blue on the back were two huge wings resembling bat wings on his head was a pair of straight horns, along the spine were spikes which are also passed on his face and ended on the nose. His big yellow eyes looking right at Anna, breathing heavily, the dragon took a step forward, his paws gently stepping on the forest floor. Anya backed away, tripping over a root, she lost sight of the dragon. Not going to find out where he is, she ran home. Going back to my room, she could only take off her shoes and walk to the bed, so she did not run a marathon with in high school, fell on the bed, she immediately fell asleep.

She dreamed that she was back in the forest, she was surrounded by animals who thanked her for saving the forest. She also had a dragon that he walked around her and whispered something.

Anya was trying to hear it, but the closer she came to him the quieter he said. Going into the dense to it, the dragon stopped, he lowered his head to her and opened his mouth and ...

The sound of the alarm clock rang loudly in a small dorm room, Anna from the first hit by the alarm clock. Sitting on the bed, she tried to analyze the events of yesterday. "This could be a dragon," she thought, "they do not exist, I'm probably just tired, that's me and imagined."

Brew the coffee itself she sat down at her laptop. Opening the roundup, she nearly choked on coffee.

"There is a suspect in the arson of construction shopping mall on Saturday, many witnesses claim to have seen in the sky, a huge bird that went down to the roof, a minute before the fire started.

We interviewed the Fire Chief:

- Most likely, it was a new kind of hang gliders. We suspect that the attacker came down from the nearby mountains and set on fire, and then planned on the back of the building.

We also have some pictures of the witnesses, you can find them under the article. We will continue to monitor with the progress of the investigation "

Anya was struck, the "glider" was remarkably similar to the dragon. But why dragon arson this construction, there were many questions, but no answers were none.

Anna studied at the University of Paleontology, today she only lesson mythology, it may be able to find out anything she. After going to his place, she waited for the beginning of the lesson, she could not forget that dragon.

- So, - the professor began the lesson - the theme of today's activity "Pan's Labyrinth."

"Maybe Greek mythology distract me from thinking about the dragon," thought Anna, but every word is a professor flew past the ears. Occupation ended, but Anna was not able to throw out of the dragon's head.

He waited until everyone leaves, she went to the professor.

- Professor, - she said - can I ask you a few questions about dragons?

- Of course Miss Forest that interests you?

- Are there any legends or myths about forest dragons?

- I only know one. It is said that forest dragons are the guards of the forest. Their lives literally depend on the forest, if the forest is dying, from a fire, or at the hands of a man, he killed the dragon. Also, if the dragon dies, the forest and begins to die.

- It turns out that they are immortal?

- No, when it comes to their "hour", they transfer to the new forest dragon, then the wood comes to life as if by magic. May I ask why you are interested in this?

- And I'm writing a paper on the theme "Dragons and legends about them."

- Well, I hope my information will you enough.

- Yes, Professor, thank you, goodbye.

- Goodbye Miss Forest, was glad to help.

"If the legend is not lying," Anya began to argue, "that dragon out of the forest is very weak, because the forest was cut down by almost half, for the construction of the shopping center."

Anya went to the forest, this time to find the dragon, she put on that together they figure out how to save the forest. When he reached the forest, Anne stopped, inner fear would not let her go, because if this legend is fiction, it risks becoming dinner for the dragon. Clenching her fists, she went into the woods, passing a tree behind a tree, she carefully peered into the thicket, trying to see anything.

- Hey! - She cried - Dragon, I have to talk to you.

She imagined how silly it looks, is on in the woods and tries to talk to the dragon. Suddenly she heard a rustling behind him, panting beast appeared behind her, as well as last time. She turned around, it was the same dragon, but he looked much worse than last time. He slowly began to approach Ana, took a deep breath, she went to meet him. Coming at arm's length, they stopped in front of each other. The dragon stared at her, then lowered his head to sniff her, sniffing her hair, he opened his mouth and said, drawling:

- It's you ...

- Can you talk? - Anya surprised.

- Yes, it's you ... - dragon did not seem to hear her question - I knew you'd come.

- I want to save this forest, I heard the legend of the likes of you.

- Yes, the legend does not lie - it was obvious that every word was given to him with difficulty - now you replace me.

- But I'm not a dragon.

- It does not matter, the forest needs you.

The dragon raised a paw to his forehead and pulled out a white flake. Incredibly beautiful flake, pearl color, it fascinated gaze of Ani. The dragon raised flake forehead Ani and as soon as she touched her forehead scale disappeared.

- What did you do? - Rubbing his forehead, said Anne.

- Save the forest. - The dragon said, and fell down dead.

Anna ran to him, she wanted to touch him, but he began to turn the soil, the wings have become, in the trees, the grass has scales, he was part of the forest during his lifetime, he was left to her after death.

Anya brought tears to her eyes, she felt sorry for him as a brother, but she still could not understand how it will protect the forest. Returning home, she calmed down a little, a little more thought about what she had seen in the woods, Anya decided to go to bed. She dreamed the same dream that was yesterday, but this time she was also a dragon.

The sound of the alarm clock rang loudly in a small dorm room, a familiar movement Anya hit the alarm clock, but this time the alarm clock did not resist shock and split into several parts.

- Damn - she grumbled sleepily, - told me that sooner or later it will break.

Going to a basin of water, Anya plunged into cold water, wiping his head with a towel, she saw that it was a tuft of her hair. "This is probably due to the stress," she thought, for the last two days there so many strange events. Brew the coffee itself, she sat down at the laptop, nor any news about the fire at the construction site. Today, the university, she had three lessons, but she did not want to go there. She ran her hand through her hair to make sure they are dried up, looked at his hand, she was very anxious and in her hand was a thick strand of hair. Anna ran to the mirror, she was almost bald, she looked at the bed, the pillow was almost all her hair.

She did not know what to do, she suddenly became very ill hand, at that moment she heard the sound of the saw, which is sawing wood. She felt the same pain as if sawed her wrist. Anya found in the wardrobe of baseball and a jacket with a hood, wearing them, she went into the forest. Reaching the forest, she saw the lumberjacks. Not controlling herself, she ran into one of them, took him by the collar, lifted off the ground and threw her to the side.

Scroll to herself, she caught the surprised looks on himself loggers. Feeling uneasy, she fled into the woods, going deep into the forest, she decided to rest. Anna took off her jacket and threw it to the side, taking off his hat, she realized that she was completely bald, because the remaining hair in the cap. She sat under a large oak tree, holding her head up, she watched the green leaves fall, forest died without a guardian. Anya held his hand on the head, her guess was correct, on her head was left not a single hair, but on top of the head there are two cones.

Anne felt as her body began to itch. The hands have started to scratch the whole body, "what's happening to me." She looked at her hands from under the skin began to grow dark purple scales, she grew up all over the body. Anna felt her shoes have become compressed, its socks sneakers began to swell, of which there were three claws, the next second sneakers burst, but instead of her human fingers were three large dragon finger, which continued to grow. Her ankles began to stretch out after a few seconds, Anya instead of human feet were dragon paws. Anna felt her thighs began to increase in size, her jeans began to pop soon seams on them parted, revealing the purple dragon's claw.

- It can not be! - Choking she cried - What about my feet?

Anna felt her ass was getting wider as she felt something pulling inside the remains of her pants down, a moment later her new tail broke loose, continuing to grow and thicken at the base. "No," the remains of her pants completely torn, now the lower part of her body was completely dragon.

Anya tried to get up, but immediately fell forward, her body is no longer able to stand upright, she went on all fours to the nearest puddle, she stared at his reflection, but it was not her. Covered with purple scales of a person's face looked a reflection on his forehead was a pearl flake, Anya touched her finger, she was warm.

"You have to replace me," Anna remembered the dying words of the dragon, at that moment she felt out of her shoulder blades began to grow new limbs. Her T-shirt began to tear through the back of the moment began to grow limbs resembling hands, but the fingers grew longer and longer, at their end-grow black nails and leather webbing between them. Her new wings up to three meters in length.

Anna felt her spine began to crack, a feeling as if the stones are inserted between the vertebrae of the spine began to increase, there were new vertebrae. The back Ani increased two and a half times, then Anya felt the same sensation in the neck. Her neck became longer, until stretched out on the meter.

Unable to withstand the weight of the new body, Anne fell on his back. She felt her whole body began to rise, her breasts grew with every breath, the remains of her shirt soon began to break, exposing her more human and chest. Anya looked up and saw her nipples and navel disappear under a dark purple scales. She could feel her internal organs began to rise, increasing the visual of her belly.

- My body, my voice - her voice was much rougher - I'm so much more than the dragon.

This was indeed the case, it was two times more than the last keeper of the forest. Anna felt her hands swell force, her fingers became thicker and longer. The nails become thicker, longer and sharper turning into big dragon claws. Her biceps are becoming more and more of the elbows there were small spikes, her human hands finally took the form of dragon legs. She rolled over and tried to get up, her new limbs can support the weight of her body.

Anya felt out of her head began to grow horns, she went to the pool, and watched the final process of its transformation. Unlike other dragon horns were twisted her, she saw her ears began to lengthen and taper, she soon realized she could move them, and to listen to the world. She felt her teeth began to taper, and grow, she opened her mouth and saw a puddle of her fangs grew to the size of tiger and other teeth sharpened. Her face began to stretch, her nose was getting wider and wider. Her eyes began to turn yellow, the pupils of her eyes and stretched her eyes became dragon. Anya felt all along the spine shiver ran, she looked on my back and I saw that from the tail of each vertebra grew spike, the last spike up on the tip of her nose.

"I am now the dragon" Anya examined his new body, it was about six feet long and four and a half tall. With the habit it was hard to walk on all fours, as she could not get used to his new limbs, its tail and wings randomly beaten on the ground. After about ten minutes she was accustomed to it.

Suddenly she heard the cries of loggers and immediately ran there, she ran extremely fast, in just a few seconds she stood on the edge of the forest. Loggers ran out of the woods, their frightened about what began to grow new trees, as it was told in the legend. Cut down the forest has grown again to its original form.

"Now I am Guardian of the forest and I'm not going to let this ever cut down the forest."

Much time has passed since then, when the leader of the "Greens" Anya Forest disappeared. Also, no one could explain how the cleared forest again grew out of nowhere. Many say they saw a purple dragon hovering over this forest, and this does not want to go into it, the dream has come true Ani Forest, stopped the construction of the shopping center and the forest made a sanctuary for rare animals. Wherever she is, she can be happy.