

Uneventful Morning - by mmanm

It was morning, not that ilbv could tell from where he was. The dull thud thud of the large orca's heart greeted his ears as he squirmed around in the squishy sack he was held in. His squirms drew a dull murr from his 'captor' as he started to wake. The small human felt the orca lift his hand and gently rub his bulging gut.

With a contented sigh and a great stretch, the orca woke up and smiled. "Well, look who's up. How you doing in there, little guy?"

"I'm f-fine," said ilbv, still ever so slightly afraid of what the orca was capable of. Was this it? Would the orca suddenly get hungry and decide not to let him out? His heart rate rose slightly as the thoughts and questions flooded his mind.

"Good," came the response. The orca smiled and slowly got up, walking to the watery exit and simply slipping into the water before swimming towards the exit.

The human was thrown around a bit, especially as the orca's belly hit the water. "W-where are we going? I-is it over already?" He asked. He didn't really want to leave the orca's belly, nor did he want the orca to leave him.

The belly walls squeezed and squished upon the small human, a few quiet gurgles accompanying the soft body massage. The sounds of the sea were muffled in that white gut, creating quite the calming "white noise." The orca's powerful heart pumped rather loudly, mingling with the noise of the outside in a chorus of bodily functions and nature outside the fleshy prison, adding timing like a metronome.

Wade was silent as he swam to shore. Just out of the water, he dropped to his hands and knees just before he started heaving. Inside his belly, ilbv was squeezed and pushed upward, taking the trip he had earlier, only in reverse. He felt the orca's strong esophagus press and massage every inch of him just before he feels the cool sea air on his face and in his nose. Slowly, he is pulled out of his wet bed and placed gingerly on the sand.

When the orca had finished with his earlier dinner, he smiled and started cleaning the human in the beach water. It wasn't the cleanest bath, but it would keep the human from getting sticky. After a few moments, he helped ilbv to his feet and stood by him.

"Well, welcome back to dry land!" the orca said with a hearty chuckle.

"Th-thank you Mister Wade," said ilbv with a smile.

"Oh please, just Wade. Mister Wade is my-" Wade stopped and thought for a moment, before continuing, "Actually, my father's name was Jim.

Anyways, anything else I can do for you, little guy?"

ilbv wrung his hands together, blushing brightly. "W-well, actually, um, if you were hungry, I was thinking we could, um, go someplace to eat." He looked up at the orca, expecting Wade to be annoyed.

Touched by the human's apparent gratitude, Wade smiled warmly. "That sounds very nice. However, you need to get changed, and possibly take a shower. We can stop by your place first if you'd prefer."

The human was surprised at Wade's excitement; surely if he had a tail it would be going a mile a minute. His face shone as a bright smile planted itself there. "Oh, wonderful! Yes, you're right. I-it's this way," he said, starting to lead the way to his home.

Wade couldn't help but chuckle to himself as the soggy little human walked happily towards a small patch of houses in the distance. He followed happily, his tail swaying in guarded excitement. The little guy was adorable, and Wade was excited to spend some more time with him.

ilbv walked right up to a very small home on the outskirts of town. Modest didn't do it justice. It was very small and dilapidated. Wade's heart went out to the little guy. He is so cute and innocent, he thought to himself, he deserves better than life hands him.

"It's not much, but it's home," ilbv said quietly as he stepped inside. "W-would you like to come in?" he asked, stuttering again.

Wade walked in and looked around. He was saddened by the state that the human seemed forced to live in. He smiled outwardly, but was nearly crying inside. "Well, it's certainly cozy."

The human blushed and smiled, quickly disappearing into a small bedroom to get changed and dried off. Moments later he walked out dry and in comfortable clothing. "I'm ready." He said, walking back to the door.

Wade held the door open for ilbv and walked out after him. "Look, I'll be honest, you deserve a nicer home than this."

"W-well, I-I, um," ilbv responded, rubbing the back of his neck, "i-it works for me."

Wade tries to make small talk as they walked, but it was slightly difficult with someone as, well, submissive as ilbv was. Eventually, they reached a good little restaurant. They entered and each ordered.

The service was good, and the food better than expected. Wade still preferred his food squirming, but there was no way he was finishing off ilbv; the human was too cute. He watched the little guy, his mind going back to that dingy home. No way he'd be allowed to take ilbv home, he'd probably reject that idea.

"What?" asked ilbv as he noticed the orca staring.

Wade paid the bill and chuckled. "Nothing, just thinking," he said.

"W-well," said the human, "if you don't mind me suggesting, you could have me for dessert." He looked down. What if he blew it? What if the orca was offended now?

Wade, on the other hand, grinned. "Well, I do like that idea." Wow, he thought to himself, not only do I get to eat this human again, but this is the perfect opportunity to take him back home. "Let's go back to the beach," he said. He reached into his pocket, checking that he had large plastic bag. He then stood and walked out quickly. He was certainly excited.

ilbv was quite shocked by Wade's apparent excitement and hurried after the orca. There was very little conversation, as the both of them were too excited to talk much.

In time, they reached the beach and Wade sat. "Head first or feet first?" he asked, pulling out the bag.

ilbv didn't notice the bag and smiled. "Head. I like going head first," he said.

Wade nodded. "Alright. Strip to your undies and put your clothes and shoes in here," he said, holding out the bag.

ilbv blushed brightly and sat on the sand, quickly removing his shoes and socks. "E-everything?" he asked.

"Yes, everything," said Wade.

The human shivered a bit and slowly removed his shorts and shirt, putting everything in the bag. Wade zipped it up and set it aside. "Alright, in you go." He said, opening wide.

ilbv wasn't used to the orca being so forward, but he didn't complain. He did as he was told, slipping his hands into that soft, hot maw. That soft tongue was so inviting, and slippery. The human couldn't resist a wide smile as he slipped his hands and arms into that tight, pulsing gullet.

Wade smiled as the human dipped his head down and pushed himself between the orca jaws. The orca was sure to reach up and guide ilbv in, helping to push him deeper. He gulped gently, saliva squishing between each part of the human as his head was squeezed into that tight gullet.

The human had quite the wonderful taste, and made Wade salivate more. Drool snuck out of the sides of his mouth as he gulped, tilting his head back and using gravity to help. His dessert squelched and squirmed on his way down, creating a great sensation for Wade.

ilbv squirmed and stretched a bit, creating a lovely bulge in the black and white neck of the orca. Little did he know that orca was about to become his new landlord. He felt his waist pass the powerful jaws of the sea creature and enter the pulsing esophagus. He slid and was pushed deeper, his head squeezing back into that gurgling gut.

Wade felt the human begin to curl in his gut, pushing it out nicely. He slurped those smooth legs down and smiled, drooling a bit more, some glistening on his neck. With one last powerful gulp, he sent ilbv's feet down to join the rest of his body. Wade licked his lips and brought his head back down, rubbing his belly.

ilbv smiled as he curled up in that belly, squirming around to get comfortable. The familiar metronomic sound of the orca's heart greeted his ears as the post-meal gurgles rang all around him. He sighed and relaxed, wanting to stay in that safe gut for a long time.

Wade smiled, standing and grabbing the bag, walking into the ocean. "You will live with me from now on," he said, "no question, it's happening." He didn't wait for a response as he slipped into the water and began swimming back to his cave.

In such a warm, safe place, ilbv couldn't be expected to answer with all his faculties. His response, however was simple, and quite audible.

"I love it," he said. It didn't matter if he was talking about his current location, or his new home in Wade's cave, both were awesome. However, the squishier the better.