

A Preface

Irbisgreif

This poem here was hard to write,
Because while it is not that long
It was difficult the words to right
When they wanted to come out all wrong.

It is not really much at all,
These sonnets I for you create.
Just scribblings on the madhouse wall
That I find it easy to relate.

So I hope you like all my poetry
If it helps you to grin or crack a smile.
And if you want to give my shoes a try
Then my poems would show you my best mile.

So I hope, all things accounted, you find
That these few short lines helped you unwind.
