

Are you a friend?

Well a friend is a thing that is always in mind,
So a friend does not hear that they are chance forgot.
When one says to a friend that to them one was blind,
Then one says to the friend that the friendship is naught.

You seem just like others who say they are friends,
But who take without giving a thing in return
Knowing friendship the deepest of wounds still yet mends.
Can a friendship repair when so many would spurn?

Is it true that of me you had nary a thought?
Is my pettiness quite so severe as to care?
Is it ego or id that says I would have fought
For to give unto you that which you would call fair?

Is it you that I hate, or myself I despise?
I suspect that my mind speaks on this only lies.
