

Schadenfreude Profile

Name:

Unknown

Villain Codename:

Schadenfreude

DOB:

Unknown

POB:

Unknown.

Age:

Varies by form, presumably early 20's

Gender:

Unknown, but varies by form.

Species:

Varies by form, but is normally a panda.

Nationality:

Unknown

Height:

Varies by form, but normally 5'7"

Weight:

Varies by form, but normally 145 pounds.

Eye Color:

Varies by form, but normally green.

Hair Color:

Varies by form, but normally black

Physical Appearance:

This varies by the forms taken by this character. Normally, this character wears a gray hoodie with jeans and black shoes. The hoodie is placed over their head to hide their hair and upper facial features, which is unable to be removed due to the Bracelet of Eris attached to their wrist. The bracelet is an amethyst gem made into the form of a broken heart set on a golden band.

Occupation:

Mercenary/Assassin

Areas of Operation

- United States
- United Kingdom
- Mexico
- Canada
- Western Europe
- Japan
- China

Weapons/items

- A pair of 10mm pistols with clips of hollow point rounds and silencers
- Bracelet of Eris
- Combat Knives
- Taser
- Lockpick tools
- Carjacking tools (screwdriver, pliers, etc.)

Personal Transport:

Utilizes whatever is on hand, especially other vehicles found at hand.

Powers

- Can transform into other forms with the power of the Bracelet of Eket, gaining their strengths and weaknesses.
- Expert in using pistols, able to fire shots that are rather difficult for the average person.
- Can project illusions and negative thoughts towards a target, leaving him or her vulnerable and able to take out.
- Increases in power and speed with the misery of others.
- Skilled at Martial Arts
- Bracelet heals damage via power of misery.
- Enhanced senses from the bracelet

Fighting Styles

- Close Quarters Combat
- Sharpshooting
- Yau Kung Moon
- Street Fighting
- Chow Gar
- Yiquan

Strengths

Blending In: Schadenfreude is capable of shifting from one form to another with incredible ease thanks to the Bracelet of Eket. Its power allows the mercenary/assassin to change without relying too much on DNA or other tools. and thus escape through crowds with incredible ease.

I Can Shoot That With My Eyes Closed: Schadenfreude is able to hit a mark with pistols from quite an impressive distance farther from typical fursons.

Eris Guides My Hand: The power of Eris' Bracelet has given enhanced strength, speed and senses for the mercenary/assassin, allowing them to hold up on the field.

Your Tears Are Delicious: Schadenfreude is empowered by the misery of others, especially if the subject has something that makes them happy. This misery is drawn into the bracelet and makes the panda stronger.

Weaknesses

Why Aren't You Crying?!: Schadenfreude power has virtually no effect on individuals with perpetual misery due to their lack of finding some kind of happiness. This also fails around individuals like Eldritch, who are protected by beings like the Lacunae.

The Power of Love: Ironically, Schadenfreude is weakened by positive emotions that becomes overbearing if enough people are protected from Eris' power. Also, individuals that can wield such things like French Rose will be targeted immediately due to the panda's disgust towards "a weak emotion".

Not My Bracelet!: The Bracelet of Eris is directly bonded to the panda and thus connected to its lifeforce. If the bracelet is hit by a powerful blow, the panda is weakened. Should someone attempt to remove the bracelet or destroy it, Schadenfreude will be killed.

My Guns Don't Work!: Because of the forms that Schadenfreude uses, some of them are not able to use their pistols as efficiently as other forms. This can come into play if the panda is first trying out the form and must practice with it.

Outfits:

The outfits vary with each form that the panda takes. However, it technically wears a gray hoodie with the hood pulled over their head and zipped up. Blue jeans and black sneakers are worn on the panda's person as well. The bracelet is hidden in the panda's clothing somewhere on their person.

Bio:

Not much information is known about the panda. Those who know them have perished or disappeared from the public eye, unable to be found. All that is known as that the panda held absolute contempt towards people's happiness. To the panda, only people's misery made life worthwhile. One day, it had somehow stumbled across a gold bracelet with amethyst gems set in it. After the panda slipped the bracelet on, a voice filled their mind...

"Oh, young one! I have sensed your contempt towards weak emotions such as happiness and love and it pleases me greatly.”

The voice belonged to a deity from the days of Ancient Greece: The Goddess of Strife and Discord, Eris. Her bracelet had been floating across the world since the day she had it crafted and thus seeking out those worthy for her. She spoke to the panda and dubbed it her champion. The panda’s sinister smile flashed across their face as they felt a great power flowing into them. The new Champion of Eris would then use the bracelet to become a prominent mercenary and assassin, tormenting their targets with glee. From then on, the panda had been given a new alias...

Schadenfreude, The Mercenary of Misery and Woe.

Personality:

Schadenfreude is malicious and lives true to their name. Taking delight in the misery of others, the mercenary will do what it takes to spread sorrow and anger throughout Earth, causing strife and chaos in their wake. They consider concepts such as love and camaraderie “weak emotions that make others into fools”. Thus, the panda is a loner and prefers not to make any social contacts.

On the job, Schadenfreude enjoys using the bracelet’s power to spread confusion and chaos amongst their enemies. Using illusions and implanted thoughts, the mercenary/assassin slips in during the chaos and gets the job done. Although they’ve accepted contracts from many associates, the panda doesn’t use their true form when conversing with them, using many forms to hide from the authorities or bounty hunters.