

Blaze's Apotheosis Part 3

The 3 mile tall god of a stallion couldn't help but enjoy every step he took as he ventured out towards the large city in the distance. His eyes scanned the ground as he purposely stepped on the highway leading towards the city. Blaze's hooves easily caught any human foolish enough to think they could escape him, swiftly grinding his hooves as he continued along. He breathed heavily as he felt the tiny cars crunch and even slight pops under his sensitive hoof, knowing they were the tiny drivers he laughed. "I don't even know why you bugs are even running away from me at this point, i mean, there's no way you can escape me!" He sneered at them.

Sadly within just under a minute he ran out of highway to crunch, but he knew that the prize below him would be so much better than those pathetic cars. Blaze's eyes widened as he got a good look at the city below him. His cock slowly throbbed as it hardened at the sight of so many near mite-sized humans fleeing from him, along with all the buildings that barely even reached his hooves. He estimated that by the sheer size of the city and how packed the streets were of screaming humans, that this city had at least a million people, if not more. That number made his mouth water. A million or more bug sized humans at his disposal, and they didn't have a chance to stop him at this size.

Blaze decided that he would show these bugs how worthless they were in comparison to himself and grinned as he slowly raised a bloody, rubble and dirt covered hoof over a few blocks of city. He bit his lip as he had to force himself to resist the urge to smear them all out under his hoof right then and there. He quickly changed his face into a merciless, authoritative one. "Attention humans," He said in his booming godly voice, causing many to stop and look up, while others continued to flee. "Stop running away right now, or I will end every single one of you!" He yelled, the sheer volume causing glass windows to shatter and many people to go deaf. Blaze knew they wouldn't stop fleeing like the pathetic little mites they were, but it entertained him to fill them with a small amount of hope that he would spare them.

Of course, just as he predicted, those who were trying to escape didn't stop, and he grinned evilly. "Shame, I guess you bugs really don't want to live... But if you really want to die, I guess I can grant you all that wish!" He let his hoof hang there for a moment, basking in the terror of all those innocent people begging for mercy. He let out a small huff as he slammed his hoof down with all his might.

The hoof fall could be described as apocalyptic to say the least, not that he intended it to, but the shock wave from the hundred thousand ton hoof slamming into the earth caused every human and building within half a mile to just vanish. any microscopic human near it was blasted to literally nothing as well as the buildings. He let out a small moan as he felt the buildings crunch underhoof, as well as those poor, poor people. "Mmmm... right where you termites belong..." He groaned and twisted his hoof, feeling the rubble grind down into the earth. at the sight of the blast zone of the hoof fall he smirked. "Heh, you all are truly pitiful. You should be glad i'm grinding you all out!" He laughed cruelly down at the rest of the city. he had only wiped out about 50000 lives so far, and he knew there was still a lot of work to do before he was satisfied.

The murderous teen scanned the streets, deliberately picking his next target slowly just to mess with the humans. he tapped his chin in deep thought before smiling, "You know what? I think i'll- the hell?" he felt a few pricks in his eye and blinked. At first he was confused to what happened, and then as he squinted, he saw what had caused his minor discomfort. "Awww.. Isn't this cute? You bugs actually have aircrafts? I didn't think your worthless race would actually have something that cool. Oh well, that's not gonna stop me from destroying you all." He chuckled at the sight of hundreds, if not a few thousand of the tiny jets firing at him. He licked his lips and lunged at a large cluster of them with his mouth open and snapped down. he murred at the slight crunches as he chewed a few hundred little fighter jets, mushing the jets and their pilots to a metallically goo. "Not bad, not bad at all." Blaze said with a grin as he swallowed down his catch. His eyes followed the jets as he saw they were starting to retreat, no doubt knowing it was useless to attempt to fight him, but Blaze wasn't having any of that. "Ugh.. guess i'll have to take care of these stupid gnats..." he muttered and aimed his horn at the retreating humans. The pilots had no time to react as a giant aura surrounded them all and stopped their jets in their tracks. Many ejected, hoping that would help, but unfortunately that just left them even more vulnerable to the teenaged stallion. "And now, for my favorite part!" Blaze said gleefully. For the few thousand people trapped midair they could only watch in sheer horror as a small spark crackled from the tip of his horn. That's when the screams started, and oh did Blaze enjoy it. He closed his eyes dreamily as he listened to the humans scream for mercy and beg him. He listened for a few minutes before opening his eyes. "Well, you wanna fly around and pester me like annoying little bugs, then i'll treat you like them!" With that a blue spark crackled out of his horn and before the humans could utter a single word their bodies were being filled with a powerful electric current. Blaze couldn't see it, but he knew what was happening to them. He could just imagine their pathetic little bodies blackening as they attempted to scream but couldn't as they convulsed and began to melt from the sheer intensity. Blaze ramped up the current and let out a sadistic laugh as everything within the aura popped in evaporated into nothingness.

The multi-mile tall pony let out a happy sigh as he finished off those pests and turned back to the city. "Okay, now at the task at hoof," He cleared his throat. "As I was saying before i was rudely interrupted, heh. I'm going to give you bugs the honor of being my seat." He slowly turned around, his dark blue ass facing a large portion of the city. His large balls swayed side to side as he teasingly wiggled his plot at them. Every single human saw his titanic cutie mark, which was quite appropriate to what he had been doing thus far. "Hehe.. don't worry ants, I'll be sure to make this quick-" His eyes widened as the all too familiar aura covered his body. "Ooooh... Perfect timing!" He moaned out as his body rapidly began expanding. for the humans below it was the most terrifying sight they could imagine. 4 miles.... 5 miles... 8 miles! 10! His hooves reached the clouds by the time he settled at 12 miles in height. Blaze began to pant from the pleasure ripping through his body, he was so close to orgasm, and he hadn't even touched himself yet.

Blaze turned his head and looked down at the city, that now was maybe the size of his hoof, maybe a tad bigger and smiled happily. "Holy shit! I can't even see you mites now! hahaha! Now I don't have to waste time stamping out sections of your sad little cities," He gave his hips a teasing wiggle as his massive cock oozed a large drip of pre-cum. He watched as it splashed down and flooded a few blocks of the city. It was hard to believe one drip of his pre-ejaculate was enough to drown thousands of people, but he watched it happen. And of course, if the clear liquid didn't drown them, the collapsing buildings did the job for him.

Blaze simply wanted to smash his ass down onto the city, but what's the fun in that? He wanted them to suffer under him. He wanted them to scream and beg as he grounded them out. He licked his lips and smirked. "Well, I guess this is goodbye humans, I hope you are all with your families, because this will be the last time you'll ever see them~" He said with a lustful tone.

That's when all hell broke loose. His two mile long ass began its descent towards earth. Nobody could believe what was happening. What did they do to deserve this? Why was this happening to them? The answers were both simple. This was happening because Blaze knew he could do it, even if they never wronged him, why should he care? He was a god now, nobody below could deny that.

The streets were packed with nearly a million human lives as everyone tried to escape the massive plot of the teenaged stallion above them. Families frantically looked for one another, cars collided, people were stampeded by their fellow humans who were too busy fleeing to watch where they ran. Blaze loved the sound of pure chaos below him. "Heh, Discord would be proud." he joked to himself as he slowly lowered himself onto the entire city. The screaming intensified as his massive ass crashed into the skyscrapers and the sound of twisting metal and grinding concrete began masking the screaming of the mite-sized humans. People looked towards the sky as their doomsday was upon them. Blaze's massive rump effortlessly began collapsing the once proud cities skyscrapers, causing rubble to fall into the crowds of people, many families torn apart by the rubble, smearing innocent humans into bloody smears under tons of rubble in front of their loved ones. The people in the buildings had no choice but to jump out of the thousand foot high buildings. thousands of humans splattered onto the unforgiving pavement below, some unlucky people had those doomed souls land on them, killing them as well. The churches were full of families praying for salvation, but not even their god could help them now, because their god was the one about to end their lives.

As his ass grew closer and closer to the ground many people took to the subways, foolishly thinking that the stallions ass wouldn't sink into the earth far enough to crush them. unfortunately for them everyone else thought the same thing. Within moments the subway was as full as possible and people fought to try to get in, but as the shadow grew darker they accepted their fate. Hundreds of thousands dropped to their knees and cried out one last time, praying to Blaze as their god. Many began to bow before him, desperate to survive, but sadly for them, Blaze was too busy stroking along his shaft to notice this.

The humans could hear their god moan and pant with excitement as he pleased himself. his ass drew closer and closer until they knew they had mere seconds of precious life left. Mothers held their children close and cried. Families embraced for a final time, and those who couldn't find their loved ones sat there crying in the streets, frantically thinking of some way they could escape, but they knew it was impossible. That's when everything went dark. An earth shattering boom rocked the earth as his ass slammed down like a meteor, 700000 dead in a flash under the miles of pony ass. They didn't feel a thing as their insignificant bodies were smeared into his plot and fur as unnoticable red patches. They were the lucky ones who died mercifully and painlessly. For the people who survived however, they could only beg for death to come. his many people were stuck in his fur or in his pucker, along with entire buildings! those in his fur had to deal with a slow agonizing death of suffocation and getting crushed by the fur, while others dealt with the horrid stench and ungodly heat of his asshole. Others were swept into his tail, most dying from the thick but soft fur, while others tried to escape the silky prison that was his tail. They all screamed and screamed as they began to perish under him. But that was nothing compared to the people underneath his balls. Those poor souls could only pray for death as the musk and heat began to melt them away slowly as he rocked his body slightly on them. Those in the subway didn't stand a chance. The ceiling caved in as he took a seat and collapsed hundreds of thousands of tons of rock and earth onto the few thousand people in the subways. None survived as the weight of it all smeared them all into gory messes under the earth.

As for those 'lucky' survivors in Blaze's ass, stuck to his plot, or under his ballsac, they finally got snuffed out as Blaze shifted his ass on them, ripping their bodies apart and grinding them to red smears on his plot and balls. A few hundred survived in his pucker, but they would die within moments from the heat and lack of clean air. hundreds of thousands of men, women, and children all slaughtered indiscriminately under Blaze like the bugs they were.

Blaze murred and moaned out as he drew ever closer to orgasm. every single scream filled him with more pleasure as his ass slammed into the ground. He began panting as he felt all the crunches under his ass and even a few surviving buildings stick into his pucker. "Aahhh!" He clopped faster as he felt crowds squirming under his massive cheek and even his balls. "Yes... so close.." he panted out as he violently clopped. He shifted his ass just to end those stuck under him and let out a loud moan, his cock erupting in a mess of thick gooey seed that shot off miles into the distance. Blaze chuckled as he dripped out more pony cum and let his limping cock droop. Just to be safe he shifted and bounced his ass up and down to take care of any pesky survivors.

Blaze stood up and chuckled at the sight of the plot shaped crater where the city once stood, now a mass graveyard full of rubble and red patches where his victims were ground out of existence. “Hehehe...” Blaze let out a small yawn and glanced around him. “I guess I could use a little nap... Besides, i'm going to need all the energy I can get to destroy this planet.” He sighed happily and slowly laid down near the crater, unknowingly wiping out a small town under his chest. He closed his eyes and smiled to himself, his tail swayed slowly as he drifted off to sleep, any human who had survived in his tail was thrown off and died instantly from the sheer force. For the next few hours the teenaged stallion slept, and when he awoke, the world was going to feel his wrath