

Chapter 2: Science Showdown

“Uh, my body, why am I so sore...” Kay said as he finally started to come around, his head still fuzzy and body, mainly his rear and middle, where till throbbing dully.

As he slowly came back around, Kay realized he couldn’t move, and his eyes shot open and he began to struggle “H-hey! Where am I?!” He yelled out, pulling at the restraints, finding the metal bands unmoving, yet not uncomfortable.

“Why, my dear Kaydex, you’re in a lab, don’t you remember? You agreed to take my challenges, and you passed the first one with flying colors!” said the short, slightly chubby otter that had appeared next to Kay’s restrained form.

Upon seeing him, Kay instantly remembered what had happened and growled “You! You tricked me! Aruat you sneak, what are you doing to me!” he yelled out, straining the bands more as he tried to grab the god vessel, who simply chuckled. “Why Kay, I am testing you to see if the town you value so highly is worth my blessing of the fertile earth, remember?”

That was right, Kay slowly calmed down, still growling a little as he started at the short vessel “Right...fine, what is this test? Why am I in such a fancy metal workers shop?”

Aruat only chuckled a little “You’re in what is called a lab, basically a big metal place to test new potions or spells, but it is more...what is the word...modern” He said, grinning as he placed a paw on Kay’s head and filled his mind with some knowledge to make it a little less confusing to the tiger.

“There, I gave you some more idea of where you are so you don’t ask as many questions, now, let me go get your next playmate shall I”

With that, Aruat grinned and turned around, waddling over to a panel, as he did, some blackish smoke swirled around him and soon his robes turned into a lab coat and scrubs. Upon reaching the panel, he began to press buttons and turn dials, lights clicking on one by one until the lab was lit up fully, white floors and ceiling with reflective walls so Kay could see himself fully.

Gasping, Kaydex had to blush a bit; he still had a small belly from the first challenge, but his toned frame was still mostly showing, but what caught his eye was the fact he was stark naked, every stripe visible, and to his shame, his shaft was rock hard and throbbing, showing his eagerness to go to the next test already, despite his denial that he enjoyed what had happened during the first one.

Chuckling as he looked over his shoulder, Aruat continued to mess with the panel, Kay's table rotating so he was being held upright, and the table edges glowing a dull red. Soon, a low hissing could be heard as a panel on the ceiling opened and another table began to lower from it.

Strapped to that table was one of the largest wolves Kay had ever seen, easily 6 or 7 feet tall and barely fitting on the entire table, and built like he frequently hit the weights in the gym. What was hard to miss was the deep crimson spire between his legs and the heavy looking pair of orbs he was sporting.

“Hehe, like what you see kitty? Good, that is your next test, we are going to see how you can handle yourself when you have to be given life one by one without even touching your partner, through the power of modern magic, also known as SCIENCE!” Aruat said as eh pulled down on a single lever on the console.

As soon as he had, the lights went out and the only illumination was Kay's and the wolf's table, the wolf's glowing a light blue. Soon, more loud noises began to fill the air as something began to rise from the floor between the two tables, soon showing to be some kind of odd metal spike pointing at Kay, and a weird funnel pointing at the wolf, the edges glowing the same colors as the tables each was facing.

While Kay looked worried, the wolf looked eager, panting and drooling a bit as the tables began to hum, and soon, he howled as a line of red aura began to flow from him, focused on his heavy orbs and shaft, the sensation of an orgasm constant pulling from him cause it. The funnel slowly growing brighter as it had done so.

On the other side, all Kay could do was gulp as the spike began to glow blue, growing brighter over time, until after a minute it began to shoot a same color light into Kay's body, focusing on his belly.

For Kay, the effect was near instant as he gasped and soon, moaned softly, and soon louder as his muscle tone began to soften again as fat began to form on his body in preparation, his arms softening, rear plumping and hips widening inch by inch slowly. After he had padded up a bit, his stomach growled and slowly began to push out faster than the rest of him. Panting, he looked down, moaning again as his belly lurched out a few inches, feeling full and a bit tight as soon, he could feel a firm kick, only one at the moment, but already quite big, had to be a wolf pup.

Shuddering, Kay moaned as Aruat turned the power up “Okay, now time for the real show kitty!” he said, grinning as the wolf howled louder and bucked in his own restraints, while Kay pulled at his own, his belly lurching out again before slowly easing into a steady, but fast swell as his middle jostled more and more, soon two sets of kicks, and then three being felt as his belly spread and swelled like dough, his hips swelling, rear filling and body softening to keep up with the growing life inside him.

In only 10 minutes, the wolf had stopped howling and began to pant, going limp on the table as the red aura finally left him. On Kay's side however, it was still going as his belly swelled and grew, the moans rising in volume as steadily, cub after cub swelled into existence inside his rounding and swelling belly, his bosy swelling and softening to keep up with that dome of moving life.

After a few more minutes, the beam finally died down and vanished, the lights clicking back on one by one, fully showing Kay off as the wolf was lifted away and the machine retreated into the floor once more "Ah, there we go, nice and heavy, did quite a good job already, holding 6 healthy wolf pups in there, that is two more than last round!" Aruat said, clapping his paws together in glee, he sounded quite excited by the development "That means six new lives to join in the following of my teachings!

Kay really didn't care nor listen, his mind was on his belly, and his shaft, that later having been leaking for the entire time he had been swelling, and had been on edge even longer, feeling like he simply could not cum. Trying to get free of the bonds, he moaned, whining a little as the table slowly rotated back until he was laying down once more, his belly moving above him quite a bit with the active pups inside. Looking over at Aruat, Kay bit his lip and finally broke his stubborn pride "C-can you help me please?" He asked simply, nodding to his belly and further down his shaft.

Blinking, rather taken by surprise by the request, he grinned and nodded "Hehe, sure, I would love to" he said, smirking as he came over and placed one paw on Kay's belly and the other on his shaft, the first paw slowly starting to move in circles of varied size from tiny to whole dome covering. His other paw was already sliding along Kay's shaft in a steady rhythm, using the copious amount of pre that had been leaking from it to move smoothly over the entire length.

Moaning, Kay shivered, his tail swiping about under him in pleasure as his shaft throbbed and spurted more and more as time passed. Purring loudly, the attention also caused his pups to grow more and more active. After a few more minutes, Kay let out a long, loud moan and came, cum shooting up into the air and coming back down all over his belly and Aruat's paw in long, heavy ropes, the tensing causing water to gush from his rear soon after and the pups to begin squirming "Hehe, looks like it is time for your final of test two, birthing all these pups!" Aruat said as he tapped on the table and it soon split and spread Kay's legs for him and bent them for a more comfortable positioning.

Moaning, Kay stared through lust hazed eyes as the first contraction ran through his body, starting at his chest and pushing down in wave, ending with a small squirt of birthing fluid, another crashing through soon after in a steady rhythm until no fluid squirted out, but instead, the muzzle of the first of the wolf pups. Moaning, he pushed on his belly with all his muscles as slowly, his rear spread around the pup, panting as he started at Aruat "W-why does it f-fell like this is t-the first time?!" he managed between pleased moans as the entire head of the pup was soon free and the shoulders began to squeeze out. Chuckling, Aruat rubbed over Kay's belly "Because my dear kitty, my magic makes sure you stay nice and tight for all the best pleasure" He explains as one harder contraction soon had the wolf pup shoulders free, and from there he slid free into Aruat's paws, quiet and damp, and soon bundled up and placed on a newly risen table.

For the next few minutes, the pattern repeated itself, the pups pressing out one by one, Kay's belly slowly deflating inches at a time with each one, the pups swathed in blankets of every color on the nearby table. Soon it was the last pup and Kay was panting, his eyes drooling as exhaustion was already setting in, but he pushed with all his might with each contraction, his sore, tired muscles slowly pushing the pup out little by little. Even as it did, Aruat grinned, his other paw had returned to Kay's shaft each time, resulting in quite the mess of tiger cum on Kay and himself "That's it kitty, just a little more" he urged, and after a few more hard pushes, Kay yowled and came hard, his shaft even sore from it, and pushed the pup free the rest of the way.

Once he had time to catch his breath, and was let free of his bonds to allow Aruat to clean him up, the god led Kay to a small room, being oddly kinder as he helped Kay lay down in the pillow like bed "There we go, can't have such a good, strong kitty getting to tired now, you have one more test to go after all before I can give you my full gift" he said softly, the room swirling as Kay's vision faded to black and he passed out to the soft, yet gentle sound of the otter's chuckle