

((Author's Note: This is the part where I started to call the Chase-LimeX form, ChameX for short, as her (his) old name was a little too long for me to write.))

Once they arrived back at the training ground, Glacies stopped her glider and carried the unconscious Zephyr off as the glider reverted back into a keyblade. The girl sat down holding him bridal style with a worried expression. Glacies asked, "Zephyr, Zephyr, are you alright? Can you hear me?" She checked his heartbeat and pulse to see if they were beating and fortunately, they were. But Glacies was concerned about how long Zephyr was going to be out, she had seen him get hit by a flying object and she wondered how hard it hit him. Glacies frowned and sighed when Zephyr didn't wake up. She thought, 'I guess he really is knocked-out after all.'

ChameX, Leohart, and No Name looked through the portal to monitor the scene at the Keyblade Sanctuary. All of the trees have been blown away leaving torn up dirt and roots all over. Many tall formations of rock began to grow up from the ground from the power radiating from Kingdom Hearts. Xander was about finished with turning all the people he brought there into heartless. After observing last keyblade wielder getting his heart stolen, ChameX said grimly, "This is not good. It looks like Xander has become even more powerful than I imagined, now that he's used Kingdom Hearts. I doubt even the bangles will weaken him now."

Glacies looked at ChameX and asked, "Then what are we going to do? We can't just let him take over the universe like that. There has to be a way to beat him!"

ChameX sighed and said, "I wish I knew how we can stop him, but it's going to take a miracle to destroy Xander." Then after a few moments, she noticed in the portal a lone pair of figures standing on top of a cliff. ChameX recognized one of them as her eyes widened with great surprise and cried, "Master Bihai and Konan?"

"Who?" Glacies asked as she set Zephyr down and went over to get a look at what the temple guard was seeing.

ChameX said, "Konan and our mentor, Bihai. He trained us to be temple guards long before he got killed by Xander. I thought he was dead when I saw him. I'm really surprised to see that he's still alive. It's a miracle!"

Glacies looked at Bihai through the portal and said, "I guess he must be tougher than you really think."

The X-blader said, "Maybe, but it's most likely that Konan must have revived him with some phoenix blood she's stored."

Leohart asked, "So what are they still doing over there now? Surely, they should know the dangerous situation they're in, yet they're standing fearlessly for some reason."

No Name agreed, "I concur."

ChameX said, "That's what I'd like to find out now. Come on guys." Perhaps her master had a plan that would thwart Xander. They all went through the portal and back to the Keyblade Sanctuary.

After Konan's portal took the duo to the cliff top, they looked up at the heart-shaped moon and Konan said, "It has begun... Kingdom Hearts is here... Been a long time since we last saw it hasn't it..."

Bihai said, "Yes. I'd never thought I'd see it again." Then he saw the giant black monster devastating the world and transforming every keyblade wielder he saw, while some were lucky to escape as normal selves. "Oh dear, it looks like our arch enemy has acquired the power of Kingdom Hearts."

Then another portal appeared behind Konan and Bihai. ChameX came out saying in joy, "Master Bihai, you're alive!"

The old man turned to his apprentice, or rather his two apprentices combined into one person with a X-blade on hand, and scolded, "Chase, LimeX, don't tell me you two created the X-blade. Do you realize you've just put the whole planet in danger? Because of that, Kingdom Hearts has appeared and Etutu has gained immense power to become the dark demon god once again. What were you two thinking? What do you have to say for yourself?"

ChameX apologized with shame, "I'm sorry, master. This is my fault; I should have stuck with the original plan. I've failed us all; I'm sorry."

Bihai forgave him and said, "Don't be; we still have a chance to defeat Etutu."

"You know a way, master?" ChameX asked as she started to get her hopes up.

Bihai nodded and said, "Yes! You've never known this before until now and neither did I until I found Konan, but during our first life, the two of us were the first and original keyblade wielders, who created the keyblades for everyone to use and built the temple you've guarded."

Konan said further explaining, "We created this world and with Kingdom hearts we made the universe the way it was today. Without us, no one would be able to wield their keyblades, so this caused us to be constantly reincarnated. Of course, we get all of our memories back after we reincarnate, but we need to unlock them somehow. What we need to do is get Kingdom Hearts away from Etutu and get it for ourselves. We will change the world, but end up being killed in the process. But after that, we'll just be reincarnated."

Leohart said to them, "It is an honor to meet the first keyblade wielders."

Glacies said as she was amazed, "Wow, you must be very special people." Zephyr slowly started to gain consciousness groaning quietly. The girl heard him and looked to see the boy waking up. She smiled at him and said, "I'm glad you're waking up, Zephyr. Are you feeling a bit better now?"

The blonde grumbled a bit before opening his eyes, "I guess...but... Where are we..? This doesn't look like the Keyblade Sanctuary."

Glacies answered, "We're still here, Zeph." Then she looked at the barren surroundings as she continued, "Though it doesn't look like a sanctuary anymore after what Xander did to this place."

"So how we do that?" ChameX asked as she wondered how they were going to perform the first temple guards' plan.

Looking up at Kingdom Hearts, Konan said, "He just tapped into a fraction of its power. Unlike him we know how to tap into its full power, but we first must defeat him in battle. We'd better get going ASAP."

ChameX said her plan, "Right, we need to stop Xander immediately. Glacies, Zephyr, Master Leohart, and whoever-you-are, you all take Master Bihai and Konan up to Kingdom Hearts. I'll go and distract Xander."

Glacies asked in concern, "Are you sure you can take him by yourself, Chase? I mean Xander did beat you once and all. Not to mention he's become even stronger under the influence of Kingdom Heart. You might as well get yourself killed."

ChameX told them, "Don't worry about me. It's more important that you get those two to Kingdom Hearts ASAP. Once they get there, then Xander will be easier to kill. Trust me, I can hold out in battles for a long time. Besides, I want to see what this X-blade can do to huge destructive monster like him. Go now!"

Zephyr got up quickly and said, "Right!" The team nodded as they got their orders and they all made their keyblade gliders appear.

Konan had her own glider appear. At first a giant sheet of paper appeared and quickly folded itself into a detailed raven which flew under her as she jumped on and landed on its back. "Let's go!" she said starting to lead the group to Kingdom Hearts. Master Bihai got on with Glacies and they all took off into the black sky.

ChameX ran and leapt from cliff to cliff until she saw the 175-feet-tall giant black beast and yelled, "Hey Xander!"

The demon god of the dark realm turned his head to the cloaked girl below and spoke in a demonic voice, "Ah LimeX, come to give me the X-blade, huh? Tell me, how are you liking this world I darkened and taking control over?"

ChameX yelled as she got into fighting stance, "I'm not here to play Santa Clause, Xander. I came back to put an end to you. And no, I hate what you've did to this place. I won't let you ruin the other worlds like you did this one, Xander."

Etutu, Xander's real name, recognized the girl's voice and said, "Oh, so you're Chase and now LimeX. You look like a composite bastard child of those two. Anyway, if you're here for a fight, then I'll be glad to obliterate you from the face of this world. Come on punk, do your worst! We'll see who's gonna croak after this."

"Oh, we'll see alright!" ChameX said with a cocky smirk as she knew what was going to happen when Bihai and Konan got to Kingdom Hearts. Etutu brought up his darkness-covered fist and tried to throw a punch at the temple guard to squash her. But fortunately, ChameX jumped up to dodge the punch and landed backwards away from the spot the demon had hit. The punch left a hole on the cliff.

ChameX swung the X-blade at Etutu's black hand and left a cut that was oozing dark steam out of the hand. The dark god roared in pain, "Gah!" Then he scowled at ChameX and growled, "So that's what the X-blade feels like. A bit stronger than any other keyblade, but still not enough to defeat me!"

As ChameX fought, Limex took their mouth and said, "Xander, there is something you should know. Everything I told you was true, and some of the things you were probably thinking about. The problem is, there is a lot of truth to a lie, and a lot of lie to a truth. I'll let you puzzle over that while you are being obliterated." She retreated and thought-spoke to Chase, 'Throw the keyblade next time you jump back, and I'll cast thunder then fire if he gets too close.'

Etutu said, "Oh, I knew you were just playing double-agent this whole time, but that still pisses me off. But I can solve this little problem by injecting my darkness into you!" Then a black hole appeared beneath ChameX as the girl sensed its presence and looked below at it.

"Huh?" the X-blader hummed. Then at an instant, dark tendrils came out of the hole and grabbed all of ChameX's limbs before she had a chance to move out of the way. The girl struggled to free herself, but the tendrils' grips were too tight to escape. ChameX growled, "Urgh, let go of me!"

Etutu laughed at her futile attempt to escape as he said, "Now why would I want to do that, when I just want to make you my slave?" Then the tendrils started glowing purple auras and started injecting Xander's dark energy into ChameX's body. The girl screamed in agony as her body forcefully absorbed the darkness. "Soon within a few minutes, you will become my servant; a servant of darkness. And with you, the X-blade and the power of Kingdom Hearts within me, my enemies, the light goddess and her lackies, won't have a chance to win this time! They'll be pooped dead before I even break a sweat!"

Xander said confidently about his victory. "You were stupid for even trying to take me on your own, Chase and LimeX. Now this time the both of you are down and owned. So you punks, any last words before your minds succumb to my magic?"

ChameX said, "I just got one thing to say."

Etutu said, "Oh and what would that be? Another few words about me getting blasted. Come on, it's obvious we know who the real winner is here."

The temple guard smiled sneeringly and said, "We didn't come here on our own. We brought a few friends with us. While we're speaking, they're bringing the first keybladers to Kingdom Hearts right now."

"What?!" Etutu shouted in shock. Then he looked up in the sky and saw Zephyr and the others flying towards Kingdom Hearts. The dark demon god yelled, "Noooo! You mortal punks! I won't let you screw up my victory!" Then he looked down at his created creatures, the heartless, controlled the flying ones to go after Zephyr and the gang. They were Darkballs, Invisibles, Shadowstalkers, and Orcuses. Etutu ordered, "Go my minions! Kill them before they get to Kingdom Hearts!"

As Glacies and the others were getting closer to Kingdom Hearts, she saw a bunch of heartless coming towards them. She asked, "Oh my gosh! What are those things?"

Konan answered, "Heartless... Been a long time... Heartless are beings made of darkened hearts. They are basically darkness that has a physical form."

Zephyr asked Konan and Bihai, "Darkened hearts? Don't those hearts need to come from people?"

Bihai answered Zephyr's question, "Yes, every living creature on earth has a heart. But long ago, Etutu created the first heartless by stealing hearts from a few ancient warriors and used their darkness in their hearts to create these very creatures. The purpose of Etutu's heartless was to consume hearts from the darkness of people's hearts, which they're attracted to, and create more of their kind. That way Etutu's army can grow at the expense of our own. Everyone, don't let the heartless get to your hearts. Avoid them until we get to Kingdom Hearts." Everyone nodded understandingly as they flew towards the Kingdom Hearts faster this time. A few Darkballs came hurling towards Glacies as they attempted to tackle her, but she quickly swerved her glider down and sideways to avoid the attacks.

Konan's keyblade glider raven pecked at a few heartless making them disappear in shadows and clearing a straight path ahead for them she began to take the lead. "We need to hurry!" she said beginning to pick up speed.

"Right!" said Master Leohart also adding speed to his glider followed by Zephyr. Leohart also smashed a few Heartless out of the way with No Name casting Blizzard spells at them. He commanded his apprentices, "Glacies, Zephyr stay in the center of us, you're not trained in aerial combat yet." Zephyr moved next to Master Leohart on the inside of Konan while he took the outside.

The two apprentices got to the center and Bihai defended the left side. Three darkballs tried to charge at the group in an attack to tackle them out of the sky. But Bihai destroyed the trio of heartless before he destroyed an invisible who was attempting to take Glacies's life with its sword. Soon, they saw that they were reaching Kingdom Hearts. Bihai told them, "We're almost there, keep flying."

As they neared the heart-shaped moon, a cluster of twelve heartless stood in their way as they attempted to block their path. Glacies said, "Oh no, we're blocked!" At first it seemed like it would be troublesome for the group until Konan's raven pecked at a heartless and buffeted two others with its wings leaving six left. Master Leohart went forward and three of them surrounded him. He then did a spinning attack that hit all three of them, returning to his position. No Name took care of his trio by blowing them away with his Aero spell.

Getting more and more excited as they got closer, Zephyr said, "All right, now we can get to Kingdom Hearts!"

But suddenly the keybladers and their gliders stopped frozen in the sky. Etutu had used his Stop spell to keep them from going any further and keep them from being aware of their surprise fall. ChameX attempted to lift the X-blade and throw it at Etutu. But when her arm came up within two feet, a spasm of pain shot through her body as the darkness was beginning to take its control over the body. The temple guard let out an agonizing scream of pain as a large aura of darkness engulfed her body. The god turned his beastly head to see girl as he smiled and said, "Hahaha, so you're finally mine, Chase and LimeX! Soon, I will destroy your friends and then use you as a pawn to bring darkness to all the worlds! Mwuhahahahah!" The tendrils, now done with corrupting ChameX, dropped the hybrid onto the ground and let her fall on her knees in fatigue.

Meanwhile, inside ChameX's heart, Chase saw a massive flood of darkness seeping into the heart. He said, "Oh no, it looks Xander's got to us!" He summoned his keyblade and tried to hack at the darkness. But no matter how much he cut, the darkness just keeps regenerating itself every second. As the darkness covered most of the heart, Chase became grim and said, "Darn, it looks like we'll never escape out of this one." Then as the darkness came to engulf the entire heart along with Chase and LimeX, the man looked up and prayed, 'Master Bihai, Konan, everyone. The rest is up to you. Stop Xander!'

LimeX, who had been separated by the darkness's intrusion, sensed Chase's disappearance and screamed in a mixture of grief and horror, "No!"

The god turned his attention to the keybladers and fired a beam of darkness from his hand to obliterate them. Etutu said, "Now die, you light-loving faggots!"

As the beam rose up for the kill, Bihai and Konan suddenly regained their senses and cast Esuna to free their comrades from the Stop spell they were put under. The group resumed their flight and finally reached Kingdom Hearts and he said, "At last, we've made it! Konan, now!" Then Bihai jumped towards the giant heart-moon and touched it to absorb its power.

Etutu looked up at them with a distressed frown and said, "No!" Now the tables have turned. The heartless have failed to stop them, his enemies received the power of Kingdom Hearts, and now they were going to destroy him again. Etutu was in a state of anxiety until he remembered that he was under the influence of Kingdom Hearts as well. 'Wait, what am I getting so worked up about? I have Kingdom Hearts, too, and I can just blast them all with my powers and summon as many heartless as I can to destroy them,' the dark god thought with a confident grin. 'It's only a few of them and more of me. I won't lose like last time.'

Konan nodded and jumped up with Bihai touching it as he had. She said to the dark god, "You may have your heartless, but unlike you we know how to harness the full power of Kingdom Hearts." Suddenly, the very last of the live greenery in the area started to die off. The temple started to crumble into dust only to be blown away. All the nutrient rich soil turned into hard, dry rock. In seconds, the destroyed jungle became a barren waste land with the keyblades of the fallen all sticking out of the ground and the dead bodies between them as if it were some sort of grave.

'What?!' Etutu's confident grin turned upside-down into a frown when Konan told him that she and Bihai had the ability to harness the full power of Kingdom Hearts, which means that the dark demon god hadn't gotten all of its power like he thought he did.

Bihai's body started to shine with light as the power of Kingdom Hearts charged him up. "Konan, now!" he said to her. Konan nodded in response before they unleashed their huge beams of light at the dark god. The giant beast howled in agony as his body was hit and all around, he felt himself burning up very badly in a terrible way.

At the same time, a large wave of light illuminated the sky and spread throughout the planet, banishing the darkness that Etutu brought to the worlds. People looked up at the sky as they had mixed reactions to the phenomenon with some thinking that the darkness before its disappearance was simply the work of a powerful sorcerer, and others wondered what would happen next. Those who fought the Heartless were relieved to be saved by the light.

Withing seconds, Etutu's whole body started to slowly disintegrate. Etutu yelled, "Nooooo! This cannot be! I've been defeated again! Curse you, Konan, Bihai, and the rest of you guys!" Then he looked up at Zephyr and the others as he formed a dastardly grin on his face and said, "Oh and before I go, I want to tell you some little spoilers about what you'll be seeing pretty soon and a few insights on what will happen after three millenniums. Zephyr, your descendant and his friends will fall into an eternal naptime, get trapped in my realm, and have his heart consumed by darkness before getting possessed by an evil old coot respectively. And then, someone's going to create a bunch of new heartless and have them all, along with my purebloods, roam the entire universe as they collect a mass number of hearts and send the worlds into darkness! And when I'm done talking, you all are going to have a fight a friend of yours and maybe whack him or her, whatever he or she is now, to death! Oh and Glacies, I wonder if your precious mommy's ever going to make it without that surgery she so desperately needs. And even if she does somehow manage to survive, that won't stop the grim reaper from making her kick the bucket eventually."

Glacies let out a quiet gasp as she started to get very worried about her mother. 'No... He's not really saying that mom's...' she thought before she shook the feeling out of her head. 'No, I don't want to think about it. Not when she's still and alive and there's still hope she might live.' The last thing she needed after all she's lost today, was her mother's death.

As Etutu's body was almost done disintegrated into nothingness, he said, "Oh and one more thing, don't think this is over yet! Mortals cannot kill a god so easily; all you did was put me in a coma. Sure, I won't be around now for the rest of your lives. But about five millenniums later, I will be back! Stay tuned, Realm In-Between!" The demon god made one last laughter before he was completely gone from this world. The tendrils disappeared as well, leaving ChameX alone on the cliff. After Kingdom Hearts had faded away, Bihai and Konan started to feel weak and light from exhaustion caused by using too much of Kingdom Heart's power to obliterate Etutu. The elderly man bent his back over a little as he clutched his chest with one of his hands, while Konan fell down next to him.

The group looked at the first keybladers with worry as Glacies asked, "Master Bihai, Konan, are you guys alright?"

Bihai said hoarsely, "Nngh, don't worry about me. See to Chase and LimeX. If I recall, Etutu said that we may have to fight one of our own. If this is true, then he may have corrupted my apprentices' hearts with darkness. Please, banish the darkness and return them to their senses." Glacies nodded a little and looked at Master Leohart to await his order.

Konan said with a smile on her face, "It is time... For us to leave from these lives... See you again in the next life..." With that she started to fade away like all of the other people had. Her keyblade stayed in replacement of her body, but disappeared a few seconds later to go wherever she went.

Glacies reached her hand out to the woman and cried, "Konan!" But the dark-haired bluenette was gone before she could even touch her.

Bihai was also disappearing as well, but before he could go he made a final statement to Zephyr, Glacies, No Name, and Leohart, "Everyone, before I go, there's something I need to tell about the changes we've made to this universe."

The nameless man asked, "What sort of changes?"

Bihai explained, "We had to split and separate the worlds into stars so that no one will come here to this place again and start another Keyblade War. We've also removed the ability to wield the keyblade from most of the next generation and from now on, so that only those with the strongest hearts will wield them and to even further reduce the chances of another war occurring. If you sense a strong will within anyone of the next generation, then that means their hearts are strong and thus chosen to protect the balance of light and dark in the universe. You are to perform the Keyblade Inheritance ceremony on them so that they will wield their own keyblades."

Glacies asked, "But how we do that?"

Bihai said as he became a bit more faded, "I don't have much time to explain it all." He was using his will to remain in the world to tell the four more before he would vanish like Konan did. "But listen, I've created a new world out among the stars. It's known as the Land of Departure. There you'll find a book that explains all you need to know and where you'll be training future apprentices and them theirs," Bihai said as he was now very close to fading. "I suspect you must be thinking that this should be left to Chase and LimeX, but they're going to need all the help they can get." He looked to Leohart and said to him, "Keep training and teaching your apprentices all you know, so that they can be better prepared, my old friend."

Leohart nodded, "I will."

Bihai said to all, "Goodbye, everyone. Thanks for helping us to destroy Etutu and save the worlds from his wretched greed. And don't forget to tell Chase and LimeX about what I've said." Then the elderly man vanished into dusts of light.

Zephyr said, "Of course. We have to do it." He had another question, but both of them had disappeared before he could ask them. "Master... If the worlds aren't connected, then how do we get back home?"

Leohart answered, "Through the Lanes Between. Those are the portals that Chase and Limex often make. Everyone can make them under the right circumstances, but not many know about it as it is uncommon for people to use them. But first we have other matters to take care of."

Glacies said, "Then we can go and ask Chase and LimeX to take us home. Come on, let's go see to them." They started to go towards ChameX to check up on her. They had seen what Etutu was trying to do to her earlier and wondered if she was all right after that.

ChameX gazed at them, watching their every movement with LimeX's eyes. She gripped the X-blade harder and simply said, "Stop." There was something in her voice, the way it was monotone that seemed to make it sound like an order that had to be followed. She relaxed her grip on the blade, but only slightly.

Leohart stopped as he waited for his apprentices and the other man to join him. The three joined right behind him shortly after. Glacies asked, "Chase, LimeX, what's wrong?"

LimeX didn't move an inch. Nothing of her, but her mouth moved as she said, "Chase is gone... Light is gone...."

Everyone gasped, while No Name kept a cool mask over his surprise at the news. Glacies looked at ChameX in confusion and asked, "Huh, what do you mean?" What was LimeX talking? What did she mean by Chase was gone? "LimeX, what's going on?"

Violent thoughts began to occur in LimeX's head and she closed her eyes tightly as she tightened her grip on the keyblade. She had a strong urge to attack, but she fought to keep her arm back from taking a swing at the others. "Don't come after me." Turning around, a portal appeared. She staggered towards it, forcing herself to leave before she goes berserk on them. Turning her head slightly she gazed at them with blank eyes. "Do not follow me...to your deaths." She turned and stepped into the portal. It began to vanish rapidly.

Zephyr asked, "What? Where is she going?"

"LimeX, wait!" Glacies called after her. Unfortunately, her words fell on nothing as the black-haired girl was already gone. Glacies thought with a sigh, 'Great, now how are we going to get home the easy way when we don't even know how to use portals?' There was a possibility that she and the men may get lost in the Lanes Between for a long time while trying to find a way back home. Then she started to think about LimeX's last words and had a bad feeling about it. She recalled Etutu saying that they may have to fight one of their own and assumed that he had been talking about ChameX. Master Bihai also said that if their hearts were to be corrupted with the god's darkness, they were to banish it out of their hearts. They had a message to give to both Chase and LimeX, but they couldn't do so, with them being in their current state.

Out of his impulsion, the boy ran into the portal to follow after the LimeX-controlled ChameX. Leohart yelled after him, "ZEPHYR, NO! COME BACK! YOU HAVE NO IDEA WHERE YOU WILL GET TAKEN TO!!!" But it was too late, the portal had closed up with the blonde going into wherever world it took LimeX to.

No Name commented, "That fool is just going to get himself killed."

Glacies turned to Leohart and asked, "Master Leohart, what do we do?" She was also worried about how Zephyr was going to fare against ChameX as he fought them alone by himself. She wasn't certain how skilled and strong the temple guards were, so Glacies had no idea if her best friend would be able to survive or not.

Zephyr came out through the portal in pure darkness and seemingly standing on a pitch black ground. In front of him was a small gray podium where LimeX was also standing. She gazed at him evenly. He summoned his keyblade, the light of it coming through making the area around him also turn grey, but only for a second. He told her, "You need to stop this! You need to return to your original form!"

That idiot, doesn't he realize the danger he's putting himself? Etutu's darkness was controlling LimeX to kill him immediately and she herself was struggling to resist his influence over her. LimeX closed her eyes and said, "I will let you off with a warning this time. But do not follow me into the town." Suddenly the darkness came alive and threads of dark blades began to slice the air around Zephyr. His armor was unable to withstand the attacks and soon disappeared, leaving him vulnerable for all the attacks. Cuts formed all over his body and small rips in his clothes appeared. Another portal appeared behind him and he was spit out onto the ground of the Keyblade Graveyard right in front of Glacies, unconscious. Blood soaked some parts of his clothes and mostly had many rips and tears in them. The portal vanished a second later.

Glacies was horrified to see the state he was in and shouted, "Zephyr!" She knelt down to feel his pulse if he was still alive as she cried desperately, "Zephyr, oh my gosh! LimeX did this to you, didn't she? Please... Please be alright!" She wrapped her arms around the boy's upper body and lifted him up a bit before she turned her head to Leohart and said, "Master Leohart, we need to help Zephyr now! I've lost someone dear to me today and I don't want to lose another again."

Leohart said while summoning his keyblade, "Glacies, put his armor back on and get out your glider. We need to take him to the castle." He pointed it at what seemed like nothing and a beam of light appeared from it stopping in mid-air opening something much like the portals that Chase and Limex used. "This will take us to the Lanes Between where we can go home, but unlike the portals Chase and Limex use it won't take us directly to our destination." He threw his keyblade back then jumped into the air landing on his glider.

While subconsciously brushing her hand through the back of Zephyr's hair, Glacies said, "So we have to find our way home through the Lanes Between then. I hope we make it back in time, master. I really hope so." Then within moments, the girl realized what she was doing and looked at her hand stroking Zephyr in a little surprise and stopped as she thought, 'Huh? That's a little bit weird.' Did she stroke his hair because she... Glacies shook the little feeling out of her mind as she had more important things to do than stare and she went to get Zephyr's armor. After she put it back on the boy, Glacies transformed her keyblade into a glider and made her own armor appear on her. She helped Zephyr onto the glider before she and Leohart rode up to the Lane's Between portal. As she flew on, Glacies looked at Zephyr and whispered to the unconscious boy, "Don't worry Zephyr, you're going to be okay. We'll get you healed up and then we're going to find LimeX and Chase."

After entering Lanes Between, the unnamed man, whose helmet appeared around his head, went away from the group. Leohart asked him, "Young man, where are you going?"

No Name replied, "My job here was to help protect the universe. Now that my mission is complete, there's nothing else for me to do with you lot. Therefore, we shall part and go our separate ways from here on out." Then he rode away to go to parts unknown. After watching him disappear, the master and student continued on their way home.