

Sora is now at home laying on his bed and thinking about the many dates that Kairi would have to go on, one for each of his clones. The original had opted out since his girlfriend already knows what he's like. They have been friends forever since childhood; so he's pretty confident that she would choose him to go with to the lovers' recreation center. He thought with a smile, 'There's no way the others would stand a chance. I'm the original! If anyone's going to win; it's going to be me.' He closed his blue eyes as he pictured the fun times that he and Kairi would do at the recreation center. Cub!Sora was also in his room and he was laying on the floor sulking. Because he was an animal, he was disqualified from the contest. Romance between humans and animals was taboo after all. If only Donald had made cub!Sora a human or maybe at least an anthro, then this would not be an issue.

-----

Meanwhile at Kairi's house, the girl and cartoon!Sora were sitting on the couch together watching one of her favorite TV shows. It was an old action cartoon show from a decade ago. Currently at this point of the episode, the main villain was being confronted by the main hero and his ally, the love interest. The hero named Jack Justice told, "The game's over, Dr. Danger!"

The evil scientist known as Dr. Danger let out a sinister laugh and said, "On the contrary, my foolhardy nemesis. This is only just the beginning." Cartoon!Sora touched Kairi's shoulder to catch her attention. Once he had it, he raised a finger, gesturing her to watch what he was about to do. The toon boy went into the TV through its screen and appeared behind the villain. The boy began to make funny faces and gestures at Dr. Danger, taunting him behind his back to add some comedy to the show, as the scientist spoke about his evil plan. "You see? I'm going to bring about the end of the entire world. If I can't rule it under my thumb, then no one gets to. You'll all be wishing you've never crossed me all those times!" Kairi laughed at the silly little show the boy was performing, so too did the heroes in the TV. Dr. Danger noticed his adversaries' laughs and asked, "And just what is so funny? I'm telling you about your dooms." After noticing which direction their eyes were looking at, the villain looked behind. But cartoon!Sora was quick to duck in time out of view to make that pair of eyes see nothing. Dr. Danger looked back to the heroes and said, "Whatever. Laugh it up, Justice, because my doomsday machine will destroy all you know and love around the world." He turned and ran to activate the button on the doomsday machine.

The love interest gasped as Jack cried, "No!" That was when cartoon!Sora cast his Aeroga spell under Dr. Danger's feet, conjuring a tornado that sent the villain high up into the air and throwing him off into the abyss that surrounded the doomsday machine. The evil scientist screamed as he fell. His deadliest plan has been foiled.

Kairi was thrilled with this as she praised, "Yes! Thank you, Sora!" She always hated that part in the show where Dr. Danger activates the doomsday machine, which would then lead to the love interest's death, an important tragic scene of the show, and in the next season, a post-apocalyptic setting.

Jack Justice and his lover went up to cartoon!Sora. The man shook hands with him and appreciated, "Thanks for stopping him, pal. You just saved the whole world." The boy gave him a 'you're welcome' gesture before he hopped out of the TV and came back to the real world.

As cartoon!Sora went to sit with Kairi, she praised him, "Sora! That was awesome! You saved Cornelia's life! You're the real hero of the show!" The boy grinned, feeling flattered; he would have said that it was nothing if he could talk. With Dr. Danger out of the picture, the rest of the episode had been changed to the government awarding Jack Justice and Cornelia for saving the world, and then the pair sharing a kiss on screen. Kairi squealed loudly at the part, "Oh that's so romantic! This is the perfect ending to a show. Don't you think so, Sora?" The boy nodded in agreement. Speaking of which, the show had set the mood for a certain thing he would like to do. He thought that now was the perfect time for it. He gave her a peck on the cheek, making the girl blush. This made Kairi go into romantic mood as well. "Oh Sora, come here you!" They became engaged in kissing one another for a while as the cartoon's credits played.

---

Now it was monster!Sora's turn to hang out with Kairi. The pair was just outside her house. The girl looked at the creature's furry torso, seeing how exposed his stomach was since his only pieces of clothing were his vest and gloves. She said, "Hey Sora."

"Yeah?" he asked.

"Has anyone ever told you how your tummy looks pet-able?"

"No," answered monster!Sora before he quickly figured where this was going. "Why? Do you want to touch it?"

"Of course!" Kairi replied. "Just looking at it just makes me want to scratch it. You're kind of like a big fluffy animal!"

The monster smiled, thinking, 'And I thought lion me was the only one she'd pet.' Then he said, "Well if you want to pet me, go ahead and do it. I don't mind."

The girl smiled, "Thanks, Sora!" Then she started to give his torso a light scratch.

The sensation on his soft spot tickled the monster, who began to laugh. "Ah! Kairi, that tickles!" Seeing what she was doing had him act like this, the girl decided to get playful and give me more scratches there, going deeper than the first time. Monster!Sora began to tense as he laughed some more, instinctively falling on his back and curling in his stomach to defend his weak spot. "Hahahaha! Kairi, haha! Stop! Hahahahaha, please!"

Kairi smirked, replying, "Not until you tell me I'm pretty."

"Hahaha! Okay, okay! Heh heh haha! You're so- hahahaha! Beautiful! Hahahaha! Now let me go! Hahahaha!"

The girl ended her tickle torture on him and the boy sat himself back up. She commented, "You know, Sora. You're so cute when you get tickled like that. Are you always ticklish there?"

Monster!Sora replied, "No... Maybe; I don't know."

Kairi said, "Then I guess I'll have to tickle one of the other Soras to find out."

"You go do that; just don't make it as good as mine was."

The girl giggled and said, "No promises."

-----

Afterwards, Kairi had gone to the park with cyber!Sora. There was no one else there at the moment, which left the whole place to themselves. The girl asked, "Hey Sora, do you ever listen to music on your gummiphone?"

"No, never," he responded. The topic immediately intrigued him that he got excited, asking, "Wait, the gummiphone plays music?"

Kairi nodded, "Yes, didn't you know? Axel and I would play a song to get us going in training. Didn't you see the app for it?"

Cyber!Sora shook his head, "I never noticed it."

Kairi offered, "I can show you where it is." She brought up her gummiphone and turned on the screen. Then she pointed to the app and said, "This is it. That's where you go if you want some jams playing."

"Sweet!" the boy replied with grin. "Now I know what to touch for some tunes. So are there any songs you like?"

"Yep! Listen to this one!" The girl pulled up one of her favorite songs and then a funky music began to play. She got up from the bench and said, "Let's dance!" They began to dance like they were in a nightclub to the song, enjoying its high-spirited rhythm and beats. Pretty soon, the song was over.

Cyber!Sora beamed, "This song was awesome!"

"Sure was!" the girl replied.

"Are there any more like this?"

"Oh yes, there's-" Kairi stopped speaking when another song from her playlist began to play. It was a slow & smooth love song. "Oh, I forgot to turn off the autoplay. It's another favorite song of mine, but it's not as funky as the one we danced to." Then she got an idea and asked, "Hey uh, do you want to waltz with me?"

"Sure," cyber!Sora responded. They got close together and held onto to each other before they began to waltz along to the romantic music. They gazed into each other's eyes, staring into their hearts and souls, feeling the connection they have for one another. Near the end of the song, they kissed. Once the song was over, the music changed into a foul-mouthed metal song. Cyber!Sora looked weirdly at the gummiphone for a bit before asking Kairi, "Kairi, you're into music like that?" He thought that was pretty unusual for her. Was there an edgy side to her that he did not know about?

Kairi shook her head, "No, that's Axel's song. He likes it."

Suddenly, they heard an angry woman yelling, "What the tap-dancing heck is this?!" The couple looked to a mother had entered the park with her children. The woman ordered them, "You turn off that wretched music right now! My little babies shouldn't be hearing it!"

Kairi quickly picked up the gummiphone and closed the app, silencing the song. Cyber!Sora apologized to the mother, "Okay, okay, we're sorry." He mentally insulted her, 'Karen.' He verbally continued, "We'll just go somewhere else. Come on, Kairi." The two left the park.

-----

Later, Kairi went with merman!Sora to the beach for a nice swim and some surfing. The pair stood waistline in the water, waiting for a big wave to show up. When it did, merman!Sora asked, "Ready to do this, Kairi?"

The girl holding her surfboard nodded, "Yeah."

"Alright, here we go!" Merman!Sora took Kairi and swam with her to the wave. Once there, the boy helped her onto her surfboard and they both began to ride the wave. Kairi smiled in excitement at the thrill she was getting. She had never surfed before and wanted to give it a try. Merman!Sora had surfed before with Riku, but never as a merman. So surfing like this felt different; he was practically in the water while the wave carried him. But this was still just as fun as surfing the normal way. Soon, the wave reached the end and crashed down, sending them back to the shore with Sora laying on top of Kairi, whose back was on her surfboard. The faces were perfectly aligned with each other's with their lips touching, too. Any stranger passing by would think they were kissing. Kairi quickly noticed that and gave the boy a surprise kiss. They giggled and laughed together until the merboy was suddenly snatched off of her.

A man had grabbed merman!Sora by the tail. His open smile was wide in excitement. "Hee hee hee! What do we have here? I'd never thought a mermaid would exist. You're going to make me rich and famous, boy!"

The man began to run off as he dragged merman!Sora away. The boy yelled, "Hey! Let go of me!" He tried to dig his hands into the sand to hold himself to the land. But the loose grains kept sliding through his fingers; they were unable to secure the boy from his kidnapping.

The man refused, "Nope! I'm going to show you off to the world and make munny! No way I'm missing out on a chance like this."

Kairi had to save the poor boy fast. She ran after the man, summoned her keyblade and then cast, "Stop!" The man became frozen in time, leaving merman!Sora feeling relieved and safe.

The boy appreciated her, "Thanks, Kairi!"

The girl pulled the man's fingers off of the merman's tail and carried merman!Sora away from him. She said, "Come on, Sora. We're getting away from this creep." She put him back in the glass tub and drove him off to another beach.

There, the pair continued to spend time with each other and have fun. But then pirate!Sora showed up and said, "Alright, alright, break it up, you two. It's my time to hang with Kairi."

The girl gave merman!Sora an apologetic look and said, "He's right, Sora. It was fun being with you. Don't worry, I still love you." Then she went off with pirate!Sora to a boat as merman!Sora looked on with jealousy. The pair got on the boat and pirate!Sora drove it to the sea. Kairi looked around at the white & blue metal boat and asked, "Wow Sora, where did you get this boat?"

Meanwhile, Wakka and his younger brother, Chappu, were carrying fishing rods to the docks. The brothers were off to go fishing when they discovered to their surprise that their boat was missing. Chappu asked, "Hey! Where's dad's boat?"

-----

The early evening has arrived and Kairi was now with Halloween!Sora at the town again. They were walking together with hands held and ice creams being licked. Soon, Halloween!Sora saw that they were coming across the lovers' recreation center. Smiling at the opportunity to take advantage, he asked his girlfriend, "Hey Kairi, there's that place we wanted to go to. Still want to go?"

But the girl declined, "Sora, I can't. I haven't decided who I wanted to with yet."

The vampire said, "You don't have to. The other Soras aren't here, so they won't judge. What they don't know can't hurt them. Besides, it'll only be a little while. Just have some fun for now and then when we get home, you can choose another Sora to go there. Trust me, it'll be fine."

Kairi thought about his plan. "Well, you do have a good point there... I guess we could-"

Suddenly, toy!Sora popped out of Kairi's pocket and pointed at Halloween!Sora accusingly. He yelled, "Hey! You were going behind our backs, weren't you?!"

Kairi was taken by surprise, "Ack! How long have you been here?!"

Halloween!Sora glared at the toy, yelling, "Hey! This is supposed to be our date! Get out of there!" He took toy!Sora out and threw him away. The toy screamed as he flew.

Halloween!Sora turned back to Kairi and said, "Now where were we?" He was about to take her to the recreation center when the bad timing of the rest of the Soras showing up happened. The vampire grimaced, "Ah crud!"

The Soras all scowled at him as the pirate one asked, "And just what do you think you're doing?"

The original one said, "We made a deal for Kairi to test us before she chooses, remember?"

Halloween!Sora talked back, "So what? This is still my date. I can do anything on want on this."

Cyber!Sora argued, "Not for this place, you won't. You better stick to the plan, Sora, or we're going to have to cancel your date."

Merman!Sora suggested, "You know? Since we're all here? Let's just end that guy's date and let Kairi choose one of us."

The original agreed with him, "Hey, that's a good idea! Who are you going to pick?"

Monster!Sora patted his chest with his hands and urged, "Pick me, pick me!"

Pirate!Sora said, "Nuh-uh! Pick me, Kairi."

Toy!Sora went back to the girl and stood next to her foot, begging, "You should go with me, Kairi! I may be small, but we can still have fun."

The Soras kept begging her to go with them. Kairi looked at them all nervously, indecisive as to who she should go with. After they gradually closed in on her, eager to hear her answer, the girl screamed and ran away. "Kairi!" the Soras shouted before they all began to chase after her.