

The screaming Kairi ran as hard as she could across the beach to try and escape the horde of Soras chasing after her for the date to the lovers' recreation center. They called, "No Kairi, come back!" "We just want to hear your answer." "Don't go!"

The girl ignored their pleas and kept on going like her very life depended on it. Then Toy!Sora, who had climbed back into her pocket earlier, popped out again and said, "Kairi, don't run. I'll be the best date for you; fun-sized!" He grinned at the end of the pun. But the girl was not having any of that as she took him out of her pocket and threw him away. The toy screamed as he flew.

Cub!Sora, the fastest out of all of them due to his 4 legs, was easily able to catch up to Kairi. When he got close enough, he jumped onto her leg to grab hold of it. He let out a tiny roar, begging her to take him. "Get off!" Kairi yelled before she took the little lion off her. She may love Sora, but she was not into animals the same way.

Merman!Sora was swimming like a dolphin in the water alongside the shore. He had gotten out of his tub to chase after her from the ocean. "Kairi!" he called as he jumped from the water. He made continuous hops through the sea as he said to her, "Don't be afraid; we just want to know who you're going to pick!" The girl never answered as she began to go further into the land away from the beach. Merman!Sora was no longer able to pursue her as the other Soras, who were mobile on land, kept going after her. He swung his fist down into the water, making a small splash, as he cursed his form, "Rats!"

Tidus was practicing his sword swings when he saw the girl running over his way. He greeted the passing girl, "Hey Kairi, what's up?" Then suddenly, he got knocked up and ran over by several pairs of feet. The Soras' calls for their girlfriend gradually faded into the distance as the blonde was left on the ground, feeling the throbbing pains of footprints on him. "Ow..."

Kairi was beginning to get tired of running, but she must not let the horde get to her. She needed to do something to make her escape easier. She looked back to the Soras and cast, "Stop!" She had been meaning to freeze them in time, but somehow, they were immune to it.

The original Sora smiled, "Sorry Kairi, but we're all wearing ribbons." They all held up their wrists to show her their moogles-made ribbons that granted them immunity to all status ailments.

Kairi dropped her mouth in dismay and screamed, "Nooooo!"

-----

A fly buzzed around inside a house, looking for someplace to land and taste. Suddenly, an electrified keyblade swatted at it and zapped it. The little insect fell to the floor toasted and dead. Riku dismissed his weapon as he looked at the tiny corpse and thought, 'Damn flies.' Right after that, he sensed a keyblade that was not his being used to unlock his front door from the outside. 'Who is that?' he wondered. The door swung open fast as Kairi came inside, looking like she was in a panic. She quickly closed back the door and pushed in its little button to lock it back. Riku asked, "Kairi, what's going on?"

As the girl went to get a chair to put right under the doorknob to block the Soras' attempt at coming in through the use of their keyblades, she answered, "It's the Soras. We were all having a good time until we saw that place for couples only. They literally fought each other to be the one to take me there and now they're trying to get me to pick one of them."

Riku was surprised, asking, "What?! Seriously?!"

Kairi nodded with a frown, "Yes, and it's driving me crazy."

Then Riku's father came downstairs and greeted the girl, "Hey Kairi, it's nice to have you over. How's your day been?"

Kairi replied, "Well...let's just say that-"

Then suddenly, they heard some banging on the door. "Kairi, are you there? Let us in!" "Riku, we can't open the door. Can you let us in?" "Open the door, please!"

The girl's heart jumped as she cried, "Ack! It's them!"

Riku's dad glanced at the door before he asked, "Okay, what's going on and why do all these guys sound like Sora?"

Kairi answered, "Because they're all Sora and they all want me for a date at that recreation center. They won't stop bugging me to choose. There's too many Soras; I don't know who to pick!"

-----

Outside the house, the Soras continuously kept on banging on the door as if hitting it enough times will get it to open, all while yelling at the people to open the door. Some even rang the doorbell repeatedly to catch the inhabitants' attention. Cub!Sora pawed at the door since he did not have fists for hitting. Another visitor came and it was merman!Sora, who had used his Blizzaga magic to ice-slide himself all the way here from the beach. He hobbled up the footsteps and then joined the others in the door-banging and calls.

-----

Back inside, Riku scowled from all the noise at that was being made. He said, "This is getting annoying. I'm going to put a stop to this."

Then his dad, who had been gone for a bit, returned as he beamed, "Don't worry, guys! I got the perfect solution to this!" The teens turned to him and saw that he was holding a rifle in his hands. The father continued with a smile, "My gun!"

The teens dropped their mouths open in shock. The horrified Kairi cried, "What?!"

Riku frowned seriously, "Dad, we're not killing Sora."

The father assured, "Relax, son. I'm only going to shoot his clones so that Kairi can only take the real one to the date."

But the son told, "They may be clones, dad, but they're still people."

The father replied, "Not in my book they're not. They're all imposters if you ask me."

Riku insisted, "You can't shoot them! They're living, breathing beings like us. You think Kairi and the real Sora are going to be happy about that? They wouldn't!"

The father asked, "Well what else am I supposed to do? I just want to help Kairi not make a choice on one of them."

Kairi said, "Thanks, but no thanks. You don't really have to go that far for me. Sure the clones may be..." She tried to find the right word to describe them. "Crazy and fangirlish, I mean fanboyish. Is that the right word? Oh whatever. But they're all Sora and I love them all equally just as much as I do the real one. So please don't kill them."

Riku had noticed the silence from the door as the girl was talking. "Guys, I think they're gone."

His father held his rifle to the side in one hand like a staff and said, "Well I guess we won't need this thing after all."

Kairi breathes out a sigh of relief. Now that her boyfriends were not hear anymore, she can have all this peace and time to decide which Sora she can take to the recreation center. Then they heard a bunch of footsteps coming their way inside the house from the other side. The girl dreaded this as this can only mean one thing. That's when the Soras entered the living room, much to everyone's dismay. Kairi gasped as she thought, 'Oh no...'

Halloween!Sora smiled, "Man, I'm so glad I remembered the backdoor."

Riku's dad sees how very different the clones looked from the original and said, "I knew it! They're all imposters!" He aimed his rifle at them and the Soras stared at it in shock and fright. "Get out of my house, you fakers, or I'll shoot you!"

The original cried, "No! Don't shoot them!" Then Cartoon!Sora cast Stopga on the dad and the man became frozen stiff in time. The original thanked his clones, "Thanks Sora!" Then he looked to Kairi and asked, "So Kairi, have you decided who you're taking yet?"

Monster!Sora asked, "It's me, right?" The Soras kept bugging Kairi for her response and the poor girl looked like she was about to crack under pressure.

That's when Riku decided to step in and yelled, "Everybody, shut up!"

"Huh?" the Soras said as they turned their heads to him.

The silverette scolded, "Kairi told me what happened today. You guys were getting along good up till now and then you all decided you wanted to have a competition over who takes Kairi to that stupid place. Is it really that important that you have to fight over one girl for it?"

The Soras begin to realize the foolishness of their rivalry and the damage it did to their friendship. Pirate!Sora said, "I guess not."

Riku told them, "Kairi loves you all and you don't need to go to that place for proof of it. There are other places you can go to and you can all be with her there."

Cyber!Sora said, "Hey, that's right. We've all been doing that today."

The original said, "Boy, were we stupid. Why did we ever fight over that place anyway? I'm sorry, guys."

"Yeah, me too," merman!Sora apologized. The Soras all apologized and forgave each other.

Then they turned to Kairi and bowed apologetically, "We're sorry, Kairi."

The original offered, "We don't have to go to that recreation center if you don't want to. We can just go somewhere else where all of them will get to do fun things together."

The girl smiled, "That would be wonderful, Soras."

Riku said, "See? That's what you should have done before. So now that this is over, how about you all-" Suddenly, a scream was heard outside the house. "What was that?" Everybody rushed to the window and opened the blinds to see a man being chased by a few Shadow Heartless.

Pirate!Sora asked, "Heartless? What are they doing here?" Everyone was surprised to find Heartless here. They usually did not attack this world.

The silverette said, "Whatever the case, we got to destroy them now." They all took the chair out of the way and left the house to go fight some Heartless.

Immediately after they were gone, the Stopga spell on Riku's dad ends and he continued where he left off, "Oh, I will shoot them. And believe me when I say I'll-" Then he finds himself suddenly alone in this house and asks, "Huh? Where did everybody go?"