

A Picnic with Pikuna and Incendra

A clear blue sky. A soft wind. Young Digimon children playing near a crystal clear river not far from their home village. This is the scene of a lovely day. A day so lovely, in fact, that it was the perfect weather for a good outdoor picnic. And that was what two Digimon were doing at this very moment.

Somewhere in the middle of a meadow, walking along a dirt road with a picnic basket in tow, was a pair of Digimon that stood out from most others. One was a unique digicat who goes by the name Pikuna, which is a lovely name for a lovely woman. The other was a Flamedramon that wore armour that no other Digimon of his kind owns. He was known by all as Incendra. Besides their unique features and form, they have one other thing that makes them special: They are in love.

Yes, two young lovers that were heading to their favourite picnic spot for another day of romance all to themselves. Where they were headed was a wonderful place. Not far from where they were, is a hill with an old weeping willow tree. The path they are on is a path few take, so most of the time, they have the place all to themselves, free to do as they please without others to interfere.

"Pikuna, are we there yet?" asked a rather tired Incendra, "We must have walked for hours, and I am starting to get hungry."

"Don't worry, Incy," Pikuna said with a smile to her love, "we are almost there. Just a little longer, and then we can relax and eat." Very soon, thankfully, they made it to their favourite picnic spot. Incendra quickly plopped down onto the soft grassy ground under the tree and let out a tired sigh. Pikuna simply giggled at the sight of her exhausted sweetheart and put down the basket, opening it and pulling a picnic blanket out. As she laid the blanket upon the ground under the tree, Incendra was quick to get on his feet and help out, not wanting to be lazy and have his girl do all the work on her own. "Aww, thank you Incy!" Pikuna said in response to his helpful action, giving him a kiss on the cheek in return for helping her.

"No problem, my sweet Pikuna." He replied back. Very soon, everything was set up for a lovely meal. They sat together on their blanket close to one another, Pikuna reaching into her basket and pulling out some sandwiches she made, one with all her favourite condiments, and another sandwich made just for her boyfriend, which had everything he liked in it. Of course, this pleased him greatly, and he gave her a big, loving hug in thanks for her thoughtful action. And then they ate.

As they ate, they glanced around the great meadow that surrounded the hill they ate upon. Oh, how endless it seemed. It almost looked like it went on forever from where they were. And then they looked up towards the sky from under the tree, and saw a pair of wonderful birds together. Everywhere they looked, the beauty of nature was there, making their picnic more enjoyable. Why, what is a picnic without nature?

In time, after they finished eating, they walked to the other side of the hill and laid on their backs side by side, watching the clouds from the distance. Oh, how wonderful the imagination is when cloud watching. Such things they could see in the clouds that formed in the sky, like a windmill or a knight riding a cow into battle. As they cloud watched, Pikuna snuggled up to her lover and rested her head on his chest. "Oh Incy, isn't today the best day for a picnic?" she asked him.

"It sure is, my sweet Pikuna." He replied back, holding her close. "I'm glad we decided to do this today. It hasn't been often this month that we got great weather like this."

"Yes, I know. It was so rainy this month. I'm glad it stopped so we could have some outdoor fun like this. Don't you agree?"

Incendra nodded, and relaxed with his lovely cat girl. For a short while, they did nothing but cuddle. But then, Incendra suddenly had an adventurous idea. He turned his head to face his lover, who at the time was taking a little nap in his arms, and gave her a kiss on her soft, loving lips. Feeling her lover kiss her was certainly a pleasant way to wake her up from her nap, and she returned the kiss, unaware of what her lover had in mind. Incendra then moved himself on top of Pikuna on all fours, looking down at her with a smile. "Incy? W-what are you doing?" Pikuna asked, blushing as she watched him lean in to kiss her again, the kiss lasting a good five seconds before he pulled away.

"Say Pikuna, how about we try something daring and exciting, hm?" he asked, taking off his mask and tossing it aside.

"L-like what?" she asked, her blush becoming brighter as she started to think of some possible ideas that her boyfriend might have had in mind.

“Pikuna, are you willing to make love under a tree in the middle of a vast meadow?” Incendra said with a wink, slowly taking off her mask for her and showing her cute face. She was silent for a moment, a bit shy about doing it out in the open. But, then again, it’s not like anyone comes by where they are. So, after a little thinking, she nodded in acceptance, eager to make passionate love with her Incy in such a romantic environment.

Before they did anything, though, Incendra sat up and began to undress himself, taking off his amour and placing it where his mask was before he inched back a ways and moved his face towards her crotch, slowly pulling down her skirt to reveal her panties. He never bothered to take off her skirt completely yet, and instead grabbed her panties with his mouth and tugged them down to expose her womanhood. Then, closing his eyes, he pressed his lips against his sweetheart’s cunny and kissed it, sliding his tongue inside and moving it about, teasing her greatly and causing her to tremble from this pleasure. Pikuna couldn’t help but moan in delight at his tongue play, trying not to squirm too much as her lover orally pleased her. After a little while, he stopped, pulled out and rolled over onto his back so he laid next to her, his penis nice and hard with a drop of pre rolling down his shaft. “Ok, now can you warm me up, Pikuna?” he asked.

Pikuna was glad to repay him for getting her hot with his oral play, and sat up, crawling over to his big cock and grabbing hold of it in her hand. It felt so hard, and so warm in her grasp. It was then she began to do her part in the act of foreplay, and put the head of Incendra’s penis into her mouth, tasting his hot cock as she worked her rough cat tongue over her man’s shaft. Before long, she was bobbing her head up and down his shaft, causing Incendra to pant and moan in bliss as pre freely flowed from the tip of his cock, giving Pikuna a good helping of his precum. As she gave her boyfriend oral, she slowly slipped out of her skirt and panties, and was only wearing her top now. Of course, she was going to take that off soon, but not yet. It was only a matter of time before she stopped sucking his dick, swallowing what pre she had in her mouth, and got on top of her lover. As she sat on her lover’s belly, looking down at her lover with a smile, she began to take off her top, Incendra getting evermore excited as Pikuna finally got rid of her top, her breast free to bounce in front of her Digimon man. “I’m ready when you are, Incy.” she said in an erotic tone, inching back so that her pussy was just above Incendra’s cock.

“As am I, my love.” He replied back, placing his claws on her hips. Pikuna then reached down for his cock and held it straight as she lowered herself upon his member, soon feeling the head of his cock slide into her wet cunny. It felt good to have that big cock make its way inside her, feeling wonderful pleasure as each inch went in, until his whole penis was inside her. A soft groan was heard from Pikuna and Incendra before Pikuna began to ride his digi-cock, placing her hands on his chest to act as a support as she rode him, thrusting his cock into her pussy with good pacing that pleased them both greatly.

“Ooohh, Pikuna! Oh baby, you’re so good at that!” moaned Incendra, panting and sweating a tad as Pikuna worked her cunny over his member, working the both of them closer to orgasm. The heat between them was high, working up a sweat and panting as Pikuna continued to ride Incendra, her breast bouncing along to the pace.

“Ah, hah, hah, ahhh, oh Incy, I think I’m going to cum soon..” moaned Pikuna, who was riding Incendra harder now, thrusting faster as she worked herself closer and closer to her sweet release. It was only a matter of time before she would cum. And of course, after one last big thrust downward upon Incendra’s penis, she came. She closed her eyes and trembled from the wonderful feeling of her orgasm, groaning in pure delight. At the same time, Incendra had also experienced his sweet release into his dear Pikuna, filling her up with his hot seed. After their orgasms, Pikuna slowly laid herself against her lover, resting on top of him while his penis was still inside her. They were both panting in exhaustion, feeling rather sleepy right now. “Oh Incy, that... That was wonderful.” Pikuna said, kissing her boyfriend softly on his cheek.

“Aw yeah, it was great. It was even more fun than I imagined.” said Incendra as he blushed, hugging her and returning the tender kiss. Afterwards, they simply cuddled, Pikuna resting upon Incendra while he held her close, his arms embracing her lovely body. All was quiet around them, the only noise being the soft breeze and the swaying grass. His eyes were heavy, and were slowly becoming harder to keep open. He was tired, and it was time for a nap. It was then that he closed his eyes, and napped with his sweetheart, sleeping soundly under the old willow tree.

“Best picnic ever.” They both thought in their sleep.

The end
