

Lord Lion

Real Name: Unknown

Age: +30

Theme: Royal Knight

Height: ~210 cm

Gender: M

Position: Head Security and primary announcer at the Lazy Lounge

Special attributes: Sword, stun gun, modest set of armor.

Design: A fierce and slightly worn lion.

Lore:

Just like Lady Leopard, Lord Lion showed up when plans for the Lazy Lounge were planned. Being significantly more autonomous than previous robots, some people believe they are the very reason the Lazy Lounge exists.

One theory suggests the idea was to be scrapped, but these machines insisted, as if some greater plan depended on it. Management denies such theories, claiming they have too much overhead to be financially sane.

It is also to note that Lord Lion is extremely proficient with his sword, shield and stun-gun. A powerful, fast and nimble fighter, he was considered to threatening for public display. 'On his own wishes' he was assigned to manage security.

Murder Protocol:

Lord Lion patrols like most others, but is a lot less inclined to kill. Instead, he hovers around the office, keeping a close eye on you. When he does attack, one has a lot more time to stop him, as he prowls like a real male lion: slow and lazily.

If the door is closed long enough, or nothing sparks his interest, he will look for others to go after.

He also doesn't kill. His extensive and very strict bouncer protocol prohibits actual killing of any kind.

Instead, he'll subdue his victims or even toss them out of their room. During this, others may strike.

Trivia:

- Makes a clanging noise when he moves.
- Is very business-oriented and strict.
- Is a real hard-ass.
- The scars on his face and body might be real, or part of the suit. Nobody knows or care, really.
- Is known to talk slowly and with a deep voice.
- Is overly protective of female robots.
- Is least inclined to offer memberships and whatnot.
- Has his own, personal Parser.
- Goes out into town and often loafs around parks, specifically ponds and other water features.

Lady Leopard

Real Name: Unknown.

Age: +30

Theme: Royal

Height: 190~180 cm

Gender: F

Position: Promoter and quality assurance at the Lazy Lounge.

Special attributes: Silk dress, tiara, known to have a silver sceptre at times.

Design: A pitch black leopardess with a smooth body. She isn't overly sexual, but her regal attributes greatly help her appear. The hypnotic eyes might also help.

Lore:

Lady Leopard appeared, like Lord Lion, around the time the Lazy Lounge's land was purchased and prepared. Some believe she personally designed it, others say she's a product of the design.

Like Lord Lion and others after these two, she is a lot more autonomous, able to run a side-business with what appears to be a 'social life'. She's constantly monitored, mostly out of fear for a rebellion, or singularity, or the matrix. Management insists these fears are surreal as they are not economically sane decisions.

Lady Leopard DID, and this is confirmed, design the Parsers (The Personal Automated Repair Stations, and yes that's a technology joke). Parses undid the need for human engineers, and a set of ten Parses requires one once-a-month maintenance from about 2 trained technicians. This allowed the Lazy Lounge to operate almost entirely on a robot workforce, give or take the two technicians.

Murder Protocol:

Lady Leopard never loses her cool. She seduces victims, beds and courts them, or even uses 'rape tools' like chloroforms or roofies. She is a lot less strong than most robots, explaining her exploiting her strong suits. She is also shown to have advanced hypnotic abilities.

Her human-love protocol inhibits actual murder or death, so instead she has her minions do this for her. Worse yet, some victims are known to serve her as slaves or 'dates'. Those that serve well appear to earn the choice to become a robot or leave.

Because of this, it is strongly recommended to run to her if the option is present. Her means of operation are a lot less painful. Still, she's known to be VERY demanding when she really wants a victim to give up and join them.

Trivia:

- Speaks with an exotic, charming tone.
- Seems to enjoy fashion and looking good, though this might be to maintain her powerful charm.
- Has no relation with Lord Lion beyond their professional one, despite often being paired.
- Is excellent at acquiring fresh acts for the stage, especially human ones.
- Is known to sneak out and hit the town, often looking for things to spice up her appearance or the Lazy Lounge.
- Is strangely into jokes and gags, often scaring or surprising guests.