

The Lombax race was one of the most ingenious groups to have ever existed in the Polaris galaxy. Many knew of the tales of the last known member of their race, Ratchet, having saved many galaxies many times over - for having defeated the Blarg in their attempts to rip apart the Solana galaxy to create a new planet, for defeating the protopet menace in the Bogon galaxy, for saving the Solana galaxy from the menace of Dr. Nefarious (cheap of a name as it was), for having shut down an illegal combat sporting group that was kidnapping other heroes, for saving the Polaris galaxy from the evil Cragmite emperor Tachyon, and most of all saving the whole universe itself from temporal collapse at the hands of Dr. Nefarious.

All other members of the Lombax race were supposedly dead, but as Ratchet knew they were actually in another dimension. The Lombaxes had fled many years ago using a device called the Dimensionator. The odd piece of headgear, as the name would imply, gave the wearer the ability to open portals to and travel to other dimensions. The device was created, funnily enough, by Ratchet's father Kaden in a project of eight of the brightest Lombax minds in all of history.

One of them had been lost during the project, but his sacrifice had not been in vain. Taliel the Lombax had been the researcher and development head for the Dimensionator project, Kaden being the only one surpassing him at the time, and was unique in multiple ways - one was that he was the only member of his kind in the dimension he inhabited. He had been sucked into said dimension thanks to an unforeseen accident during the development process, but the knowledge gained from it advanced the project months ahead. Taliel didn't mind his new place of existence, and in fact he quite liked the technology he could discover there - his second unique feature was his love for an enlarged cock.

Not long after being warped to another dimension, Taliel discovered that residents of this dimension were accustomed to technology to allow growth of their genetic endowments, be it their boobs or their cocks 'n' balls. Taliel, of course, was most interested in the latter.

Recently, he had come across three devices that could serve his sexual needs quite nicely. The first was a handheld device that, when used, would increase the size of one's cock. It didn't up the level of productivity however, so a second device Taliel had found would have to make up for that. This particularly small machine was designed to be swallowed like a pill to dramatically increase the fertility of the consumer whilst inside the user's body, so much so that the user's balls would swell immensely. The final invention, the most important one of all, was more of a modification device that would amplify the effects of the device it was equipped to. Being made specifically for sexually enhancing devices, it was extremely popular and harder to get a hold of than the other two devices, but now he had it. Now it was time for Taliel to tinker with it.

The Lombax walked into his workshop, naked and with an eager, throbbing cock leading the way. As excited as he was to try these inventions out for himself, he knew better than to fap whilst in his laboratory - the poor soul had a cut ear and a damaged eye from an accident caused by masturbation in a workshop filled with electrical equipment. That wouldn't stop his cock from throbbing massively, however.

Taliel sat down on a stool and began to examine the three devices he had set out for tinkering. His primary goal was to find a way to combine the three devices into one, preferably handheld, so that he could enhance both his cock and his balls with extreme sexual power and fertility.

His first plan was to test all three devices to ensure they worked. Taliel grabbed the cock enhancer and pressed the 'grow' button. The sexual bliss hit Taliel so hard he instantly was laying against the desk moaning as his cock was engorged beyond his standard five inches. This device worked fast, his cock growing to six inches, seven, eight, nine, ten! Taliel could feel his cock throbbing hard, precum leaching out of the tip of his growing head as his cock thickened up further. Twelve inches, fourteen, sixteen, eighteen, twenty-one! A whole two feet!

Taliel forced himself to shut off the device at that point. He just couldn't hold his urges back any farther than he was already. His cock practically bounced with every fast beat of his heart, and he loved it so much! He wanted so much more! Now he needed to test the second device. Although it worked best internally, Taliel had already rigged the little pill-shaped capsule to work when touching his skin. He grabbed the device and pressed it against his balls, and started moaning again. He could feel himself producing, his fertility increasing, his balls becoming taught and full. The swelling was almost immediate. Taliel gasped and panted with each second that passed feeling better than the last. His balls were both an inch wide, then two, three, four, six, eight, eleven, fourteen, eighteen! his balls began to resemble big, heavy beach balls at that point, sagging down and growing big enough to touch the floor. He stopped at two feet, just barely able to fit under his work desk.

Next, Taliel took the third device, the amplifier, and attached it to the fertility booster. then he reapplied the booster's effects and MAN were they amplified. two feet became three, four, five, all in a matter of seconds. Taliel had to rush to shut off the device before his huge balls destroyed the lab! His urges burned in him like a fire now, his cock leaking precum like a genuine faucet! With his balls having become ten foot wide orbs of Lombax fertility, it was no wonder he was gushing like he was! Luckily he had the sense to install a drain under his desk, along with several other workplaces in his workshop, so he wouldn't flood the place... for now.

Taliel worked as best he could in spite of the extremely needy cock throbbing between his legs. First, he added the fertility booster to the cock enhancer by modifying the former to act as a modification and then inserting it into the enhancer. Then he custom carved a space for a second modification and attached the amplifier to the device. Finally, he wired up everything to rely on one power source and work all at once without interference. Taliel took a moment to marvel at his new creation, a powerful sexual enhancer that could amplify him who-knows-how-much. How big he could grow depended on how much power the device had, which was reduced by multiple objects using the same power source. As much as Taliel wanted to create a bigger power storage unit for his invention his balls refused to wait any longer, full with his pent-up load as they were. He pressed the device against his cock and turned it on.

To say his growth was quick was an understatement. His home was instantly shattered as he outgrew the puny house, workshop and all. Taniel could only groan happily as more and more euphoria bombarded him. His cock grew five feet long, ten feet, twenty, fifty, as his balls grew ten feet wide, thirty, sixty, a hundred feet! He grew faster and faster, crushing the terrain around him in his mighty sexual wake. As his cock hit the one hundred foot length he felt his climax overtake him, sending Taniel into a world of bliss as his cock bloated with an ocean of cum and blasted it all out onto the shrinking planet in front of him! His balls were two hundred feet wide, three hundred, five hundred! They produced cum non-stop, so much so that the internal pressure increased faster than Taniel could expand. His cock began forcing cum out even faster, putting so much strain on the immense Lombax length that the belly of the shaft bloated with backed-up cum. His cock grew mile after mile as the minutes ticked by. Taniel could only moan and enjoy the ride.

His endowments began to confront cities in their expanding wake. No building was a match for his growth. The many structures pressing against his sensitive cock and his furry balls only served to tease the Lombax into further growth. His length, fifty miles and counting, was so immense that Taniel could feel the planet's curvature, though not as well as he could with his one hundred and fifty mile-wide balls, filled with so much cum that they easily sagged against the shrinking planet beneath them.

Taniel grasped the growth device with great care, not wanting to accidentally lose it and let his growth cease. In truth, he didn't know how far he could go with this enhanced technology or if he even had to stop. In the back of his mind he hoped that limitless growth was a possibility, because why stop at planetary size when he could make the galaxy but a grain of sand to him. The very thought got him cumming even harder still. His hard cock, throbbing massively and growing faster and faster all the while, bulged larger and larger with his ever increasing torrent of cum. His orgasm was so powerful his cum was reaching escape velocity, a huge white cloud forming around the planet as immense amounts of Lombax semen began to orbit the planet.

As his cock alone began to truly dwarf the planet, long since surpassing its diameter in all of its pleasurable glory, Taniel could feel his growth coming to an end. Alas, the Lombax could sense himself reaching an upper limit in his growth. Disheartened, Taniel sighed and leaned against his ever-cumming cock. He marveled as cum rocketed from his bulging length out into the depths of space. He rubbed his tail against the furry balls that sat behind him, gurgling lewdly with intense semen production. He purred in a feral manner and closed his eyes, riding in the bliss that his planetary cock gave him. Sadly, even after several days of constant euphoric orgasm his climax had to come to an end. The bloating in Taniel's urethra finally went down as the last of his climactic load left his body. Sighing, he rubbed his feet against his immense balls, which were still filled to the brim with cum. So much sensitive flesh, and yet no way to reach it - Taniel couldn't imagine how he could get himself to climax again. He took his device and opened it up; inspecting the amplifier once more. Now that he looked at it again, it was somewhat in an awkward place and moving it might increase its efficiency. He tinkered with the device a little and, with a satisfied grin, turned it on again.

An unexpected issue occurred. Taliel reached orgasm again, immediately in fact, but in his tinkering he had unintentionally created a circuit around the amplifier that seemed to overcharge it, increasing in potency the longer it was running. Taliel moaned loudly as he experienced rapid growth. His cock grew hundreds of miles every second, and his balls went way far into overdrive, pumping himself up faster than even his cock was growing. Such intense demand for release within his groaning balls could only cause renewed swelling and bulging in his cock. Taliel relished this development, and made no wish for it to stop. Taliel felt his balls collide with other planets, teasing him into further growth still! His cock, aimed directly at the solar system's primary star, collided with the solar entity and blew it to bits.

He could only grow further, his god-like endowments expanding to all reaches of the galaxy. Taliel's balls truly tore the universe apart, growing hundreds of times faster than his lombax length that hundreds of galaxies at a time were crushed in his ever-expanding wake. Soon he could feel a tightness all around him, his body meeting the limits of his dimension. His growth began to slow yet again, the device consuming the last of its battery. The universe ripped and tore into pieces as he outgrew it and slowly halted in growth, his orgasm tapering off as well.

Surrounding Taliel were hundreds of thousands of other universes. Taliel wanted to approach one of them. With some experimentation, he realized that a thrusting motion seemed to move him forward. The Lombax thrust forward until his length collided with a universe and penetrated it. It felt like a condom around his cock, though it also felt like an odd vibrator against his sensitive length. Taliel came and came into the universe, humping away at it with great strength. Like a condom, the universe filled up with his cum and ballooned outward. It filled and filled and filled, creaking ominously as Taliel worked to get all the euphoria out of it he possibly could. Finally the universe exploded in a massive wave of cum that covered Taliel. Such euphoria from filling that universe, and here he was surrounded by millions of others. He had found a new pastime to pursue.