

Saving Earth

Movies.
Books.
TV shows.
Video games.
Stories upon stories.

The aliens come.
Mankind is decimated.
Mankind makes a stand.
Earth is defended.

But stories aren't reality.
Fiction isn't real.
Dreams do not come true
and there are no more hero's.

Where were the armies
when their bombs leveled city after city?

Where was that grand defense
we were promised?

Where was our aid when the power cut off leaving us in darkness?

Where was the hero who survives
until the end to take out the alien's and free earth once and for all?

Movies always show the world
uniting as one to save the day.

They don't show them bickering like children while the innocent starve and fight like animals.

They don't show the politicians abandoning their people to save themselves.

They don't show a broken government falling to pieces in front of your eyes.

There is no help.
There are no hero's.

There is no final attempt.
There is no saving earth.

--Written April 20th, 2014