

Name: Aosyn Malin.

Species: Shadow Demon (Humanoid).

Sexuality: Pansexual/Demisexual.

Preferred Role: Switch. (Top Leaning)

Age: 19.

Gender/Sex: Female.

Height: 5.7 ft. in.

Appearance: She has a pure dark skin with a humanoid appearance and slim body. Her body is curvy and thick, with a big ass to occupy the whole thing. She also has large breasts (about DD cups) with nipples being visible even through her clothes (if she wore any). She also has wings on her back she can form, which are as dark as her. She lacks any facial appearance, leaving her face to look like her skin. But she does have a mouth she can form whenever she wishes. Her mouth contains sharp teeth along with a very long tongue, without the fork end. She can talk without forming a mouth. Due to being a humanoid demon, she has human feet, though with dark toeclaws at the end. The only clothes she wear is just a white jacket, being partially nude on purpose to turn Joseph on.

Abilities: She can fly by summoning wings onto her back. She can also blend in with the shadows due to her species being capable of such, along with having near perfect reflexes to dodge things. Another gift from her species is the ability to send someone into a carrot state, as if they're going through sleep paralysis. She can do this by touching them or shooting a black flame-like projectile at them (though, it requires a lot of energy for her to activate). If not in too much danger, she forms sharp claws for self-defense instead. Another thing Aosyn uses for self-defense is her mouth, whether it be through whipping her opponents with her tongue or outright biting them.

Likes: Skating, jogging with Krimson and Dash, sex (mostly with those she's close to), ketchup, receiving a foot massage (Rammy takes advantage of this during sex, and Aosyn adores it), her friends, her adoptive mother, wearing not-so feminine clothing, meditating with Joseph, pork, and sleeping.

Dislikes: Extremists, being bullied/harassed, being discriminated, her friends and adoptive mother getting harmed in any way, pineapple pizza, mustard, being called any slurs or insulting words, being lied to/deceived, and hearing screeching sounds from scratching a chalkboard.

Personality: She's quite the secretive type when it comes to meeting others: On the outside, she displays herself as careless and cold towards someone she doesn't know well via avoiding them or not talking to them as much. But once she gotten to know that individual, her benevolent and sympathetic side kicks in, providing them with all the love and care they need. Regardless of how she portrays herself, her behavior can be bizarre such as drinking one's drink without their permission, or surprise hug someone from the shadows (something Joseph and Silther dealt with while living with her—they don't mind). Her unexplained behavior is mainly due to it being inherently a part of her species, thus being out of her control. She likes to go skating, hang out with her friends and next door neighbors, jogging with Krimson and Dash, and have sex. Much like with Rammy, she too enjoy the sensation of having erotic pleasures. Except, she mainly does it with someone she has a huge connection with such as Joseph and Silther. She rarely does it with someone she hardly knows, and if she does, nine out of ten it's for the money. She gets insulted and called a bunch of slurs for the latter, hence why she barely has sex with strangers.

Background: Life wasn't so simple for her. She used to live in an unstable city filled with her kind at a very young age. Shadow Demons were known for being destructive and manipulative or cold and careless towards everyone, according to the public eye. That unstable city was always the example folks uses to discriminate against her kind, which leads her and other Shadow Demons to feel rejected. At one point, a group of Shadow Demons tried to form an extremist movement to eradicate anyone that's not on their side, including their own kind. This led to the death of her parents, who refused to join those demons' cause. Aosyn was momentarily kidnapped by the group before being rescued by the authorities. Soon, she was put up for adoption at an orphanage, where she was bullied and harassed by other kids due to being a Shadow Demon. Once she was adopted by a kind, human mother, she felt so relieved to be away from those kids and never wanting to come back to that place. However, her living nightmare has truly begun once she entered middle school years later. She thought she'll receive the usual mistreatment like she did in elementary. The students pranked and harassed her, similar to her time in the orphanage. It was at that point onwards, she decided to turn on her cold and careless self. She defended herself and showed little sympathy for others for a long while. Until one day, she saw Silther getting jumped and harassed by other students in the school's back alley. She originally wasn't going to help him until she saw one of the students taking out a stake, attempting to kill Silther. That's where she knock those students out and got him to safety. After those students were taken away for attempted murder, Silther followed Aosyn around because he wanted to repay her with his friendship. After some time, Aosyn started opening up to Silther and they became close friends. The two gotten used to the slurs and insults from the students, even during their transition to high school. They'd been pretty enclosed to other students around them until they met Joseph. Aosyn and Silther were hesitant about befriending him due to their past experiences. But throughout their times spending with Joseph, and even gotten sexual with him, the two began to form a close bond with him. Though at one point, Aosyn noticed a somber look on Joseph's face, but didn't think much about it. Things were going well for the three until prom night arrived: Where Aosyn and Silther were separated from each other, thanks to Joseph's jock buddies pulling them away and tossing them into embarrassing situations. Since that night, the two wanted to stay away from Joseph, even after graduating. Afterwards, Silther decided to move in with Aosyn and her mother due to having conflicting issues with his parents. At some point in time, Aosyn received a phone call from Joseph and grimaced before answering it. After some long convincing, she agreed to moving in a house with Joseph, with Silther following along with her. From there on, the three friendships slowly began to grow back, especially after meeting their next door neighbor, Rammy, who Aosyn has taken a liking to. Life was looking bright for the Shadow Demon.
