

Name: Silther Luas.

Species: Vampire (Humanoid).

Sexuality: Bisexual. (While he doesn't mind having sex with females, he prefers males more.)

Preferred Role: Submissive. (Bottom)

Age: 19.

Gender/Sex: Male.

Height: 5 ft.

Appearance: Quite the skinny guy with pale skin and pointy ears that looks similar to elf ears. He also has a narrow, pointy nose and a dark, short hair that reaches down to his neck along with bangs covering his eyes. He can form wings that looks similar to bat wings, and two sharp fangs like every other vampires in New Earth. His eyes are blue, almost similar to that of the many lakes and oceans. He has a small cock with an average size balls and ass to boot (he's been pretty submissive in dick related sex because of his cock size, but blushed hard when Rammy is willing to let him fuck him a ton). His nails and toenails are colored black, and the clothes he wears are usually a blue dress or skirt with pockets due to feeling comfortable in feminine clothing. His feet is human-like.

Abilities: Like any vampire, he's able to run incredibly fast and turns into a bat. He can also suck on someone's blood for nutrients, which he rarely does due to blood donations being a thing (besides, he only sucks on Joseph's blood if he's too lazy to buy a freshly donated blood from a nearby store. With consent in mind). Silther is capable of having supernatural strength and forms sharp claws when in dire danger (which is where the iris on his eyes turns to slit shape).

Likes: Having a nice stroll around the beach, admiring the natural habitat, playing chess, blood sandwich, his friends (especially Aosyn), having sex, someone with a thing for small cocks, and wearing feminine clothing.

Dislikes: Being harassed, getting involved in fights, discrimination of any kind, being thrown into uncomfortable situations, any food that doesn't include blood, wearing masculine clothing, being manipulated, and seeing his friends getting hurt in any way or shape.

Personality: He's a shy, submissive individual who gets easily scared by things. He enjoys peace and serenity, not wanting to cause any problems with anyone. He also likes to have a nice stroll around the beach (while also carrying an umbrella to shield himself from the sun), admire the natural habitat, and playing chess. Sex is something he doesn't mind as it dives into his submissiveness, especially with those he's close friends with.

Background: He was raised in a defunct family, with parents willing to discipline him harshly if he screw up once on anything. He was always a yes-man towards anything since his youth, growing up to be the shy and submissive individual he is. This led him to not having that many confidence within himself, doubting his preferences in things. He was picked on and harassed a lot during school, to the point where he was about to get killed by a group of students until Aosyn saved him. Aosyn was the first person to ever defend him in cruel situations. He wanted to become her friend afterwards. Since their friendship, he felt a bit more welcome in life. The two continued defending each other, even in high school. They were aware of the world being against them, so they tried to play it safe until they befriended Joseph. Silther thought Joseph was an amazing person to hang with since he accepted him for who he is, and even had sexual relations with him. But one day, he and Aosyn were led into a big trick at prom, which ultimately soured his relationship with Joseph. Since then, his life hasn't been too swell after graduation. For starters, his parents situation got worse as they gave him a time limit to get out of their house fast. They thought of him as being "useless" and "incompetent", a disappointment they don't want to deal with anymore. Silther's confidence was shattered more since. He eventually went to go live with Aosyn and her mother, to which later on the two ended up living with Joseph after some long convincing. Since then, their friendship slowly began to grow back after Joseph proves himself to not hurt them anymore. Silther also grown a liking to his new lifestyle, thanks to his next door neighbor Rammy, who he enjoys hanging out with. Not only his friendship with Joseph was getting better, but so was his confidence. Still though, he remained in his shy and submissiveness state, but began sharing his thoughts every now and then. Pretty much being his own person.