

Name: Tiras Tivona.

Species: Zorua/Zoroark Deity Hybrid (Anthro).

Sexuality: Pansexual.

Preferred Role: Switch.

Age: 100,000,000,000.

Gender/Sex: Female.

Height: 11.3 ft. in.

Appearance: She has an appearance of both a Zorua and a Zoroark: The long red hair of a normal Zoroark, the fluffy blue tail of a shiny Zorua. Her three fingerclaws are red while her three toeclaws are blue. She has heterochromia eyes: Blue on the right, red on the left. She lacks the orb that would otherwise make her have a ponytail: Letting her hair flow. Her breasts are large (about E cups), with a voluptuous ass to boot along with having large pointy ears of a Zorua's. She has an overall mature adult look, with a black beauty mark on her right cheek and wearing a blue kimono robe that does a poor job at hiding her nudity. She also wears a black cat-eye typed glasses due to loving the aesthetic of it.

Abilities: Much like any Zoruas and Zoroarks, she has the usual Dark Pulse and Illusion ability. The major differences is that she can amplify her moves strength and Illusion capabilities, to the point of near perfection. She's also capable of changing her gender/sex on the fly and casts complete darkness over the world at will. Her deity status allows her to do the following that no other Zoruas and Zoroarks can do: Making things disappear and reappear, fly and run at high speed, control specific parts of one's body, manipulate the environment in various ways, and much more. She's also incapable of getting pregnant unless by someone she deems worthy to give her offspring.

Likes: Rammy Sonet (hence why he's infertile), being bred by Rammy, Rammy's family, her creation New Earth, Rammy's friends, some deities, canine cocks, horse cocks, canine pussies, horse pussies, relaxing at home Illusious Castle, passionate makeouts and lust, sex in general, popcorn, and corn on the cob.

Dislikes: Slipping up on keeping Rammy infertile whenever he leaves her domain/sight (this happens sometimes), some deities, New Earth being threatened, and sodas.

Personality: She's a calm and protective goddess who's willing to protect New Earth however much she can. She usually not one to throw herself into conflicts, although if she has to, she's not afraid to fight one bit. Any deity who met her considers her one of, if not, the most powerful deity in all of New Earth. And with so much great power, she does her best to not abuse it. She's all about peace, and she believes that sex and acceptance of any species can bring everyone closer to each other in this manner, wanting it to be the way of New Earth. She's aware that not everyone agrees with her ideology, which she's fine with just as long as the disagreement doesn't resort to violence. Tiras has a huge fascination for Rammy after seeing the future of what her newborns would be like if she were to have sex with him, leading her to purposefully make him infertile towards everyone except her.

Background: "The Mother of New Earth" is the title those who know her give her. She's the sole reason why New Earth works the way it does now, crafting its creation with the help of other fellow deities. Although, she's no longer friends with some of them due to their rebuttal against her sex-loving, species accepting world. This led to a war happening on the planet. One mortal Zoroark, Netson Sonet, was by her side while fighting for the planet's protection. The war lasted for many years until Tiras won, the enemy deities fleeing into another universe due to not wanting to see the outcome of New Earth. Tiras thanked Netson for aiding her during the fight, asking him if he could help her repair the damages around the planet. Netson agreed and the two began with the repairment. Once done, Netson asked one wish from her: Giving the Sonet bloodline her everloving support. Tiras accepted his offer and since then, seen the Sonet bloodline grow and grow for eons, admiring them. Nothing intriguing happened throughout her time keeping watch of New Earth, besides some few sexual activities here and there for those lucky enough to meet her. It was until she saw two Zoroarks: Steele and Raziel Sonet. She saw the future of their second child: Rammy. She saw her newborns, perfect kids carrying the fox's physique, behaviors, personality, and overall assets much like the rest of his family. Even though she doesn't want to abuse her gift, she figured to tilt it a little by making Rammy be infertile along with allowing him the ability to change his sex/gender for the heck of it. This is her way of having him only impregnate her whenever she undo his infertility. She watches everyone from her Illusious Castle in space, generally keeping an eye out for New Earth in case the war she went through ever happens again.