

One day, in the jungle, an anthropomorphic grey fox wearing a green old timey bathing suit and green swim cap was walking along a dirt trail. It was Ghostfox. "This jungle is huge," she thought to herself. Unbeknownst to her, some yellowish eyes were staring at him. "What a strange girl-cub" said a whispering voice. A while later, Ghostfox was near some bushes when she heard them rustling. She jumped up in defence. She was ready to fight when she saw a frog leap out. She let out a sigh in relief. She turned around when he saw a python slithering down a tree. Her eyes were the same ones that eyed him. It was Kaa. "Hello there, weird girl cub" said the python. She watched as the fox jumped. "Did I scare you?" asked the python. "No, you just startled me," said Ghostfox. "Anywho, I better be on my way" she said. "Before you go, i need to ask you something," said Kaa. "what is it?" asked Ghostfox. "Do I have something in my eyes?" asked Kaa. Ghostfox shrugged and sighed as she looked into the python's eyes. "I don't see anything," said the fox. "How about now?" asked Kaa as she did her hypnotising act with her eyes. Ghostfox suddenly had her eyes following the colors of Kaa's eyes. Suddenly her eyelids began to feel heavy. Kaa was coiled around the fox. "Now's my chance" said the snake. She opened her jaw wide. She put the head of the fox in her mouth. A few seconds later she was up to her shoulders. Soon up to the chest of Ghostfox she had her prey kneeling. "Why is it suddenly soft and wet?" asked Ghostfox who was starting to come through. Halfway done being eaten, Ghostfox let off a look of surprise instead of fear oddly. "This is strangely nice," she thought. As her butt disappeared from view, Ghostfox embraced the lining surrounding her. Kaa lifted her head in the air and the legs of her meal were joined with it. "Down I go" thought Ghostfox. Kaa was kinda confused because her prey wasn't moving like she was trying to escape. Later up to her meal's knees, the python looked to the sky. Soon up to her feet, the snake soon let one final motion of swallowing. Soon the toes of Ghostfox slid into the mouth as the python closed her mouth. "Whoa" said the fox as she slid down the throat of her capturer. Kaa looked behind her to see the fox was nothing more than a lump in her stomach. Ghostfox decided to take a rest in the cozy and comfortable stomach and used her mucus soaked bathing suit as warmth.