

Character Name: Clark
Species: Wolf
Gender: Male
Hair Color: Brown, shoulder length.
Eye Color: Blue-Grey
Height: 6'0"
Weight: 175ish
Age: 31
Feet: Digitigrades
Build: Slightly muscular, he likes to be tone but doesn't like to look like he lifts weights every day.

Distinguishing features: He has a slightly effeminate look to him, from the shape of his face to the curve of his ass. With his long hair he often gets called "ma'am" from behind. He's usually flattered by this.

Jewelry: Each ear is pierced with a simple gold ring.

Clothing: He really likes how he looks so he enjoys clothing that shows it off. Anything he wears outside of work will highlight his shape and build. If he's going out to a bar or club he will go from something really tight and revealing, wanting to feel like the clothing is almost a second skin. The fact he's well hung is a bonus.

Personality: Clark is a self-described leech and a bit of a pervert. If he finds someone attractive (and to him almost everyone is attractive) he will open look at them or proposition them if he thinks they are single. Even so he manages to have enough charisma to get his way or avoid trouble... most of the time.

During the week he is the floor manager of an upscale restaurant, working the front of the house to make sure things are running smoothly and keeping everything in line. While working he is a professional and has learned to keep his wandering eyes to himself. Outside of work he likes to hang out at bars and with friends. He's incredibly outgoing, taking with anyone and easily befriending them. He's also willing to tell people exactly what he thinks of them, usually with a pleasant smile on his face.

His grandparents were very wealthy, but his own parents were disowned before he was born. He didn't know how much his extended family was worth until he was 21 and they gave him a trust worth, in his own words "a hell of a lot more than you think". Even so he doesn't act like he has the money, and is embarrassed to have been given it instead of earning it. He mostly shows it off with his generosity towards his friends.

Contact Information:

- E-mail: theolionwinters@gmail.com

