

The first appearance of a Gaian werewolf was way back in season one when Artemis reverted into one out of stress.

These magic werewolves appear one full foot taller and a 100 pounds heavier with more canine feet exposed claws and appear more beast-like.

A Gaian werewolf is terrifying both for the regular wolf and the people around them; they can act like feral beasts or just confused and scared wolves.

The way this is triggered is if the wolf is exposed to a high degree of dark magic, feeling extremely negative or they force the transformation onto themselves through a beast trigger.

In this form the wolf loses the ability to speak for some reason, but their powers are much stronger as the bigger someone is using magic the more powerful they are Gaian magic is weird this way.

Lastly every gaian wolf is capable of going werewolf mode, some more than others even the normal ones.

There is a thing called a beast collar, that absorbs the magic required to go werewolf mode, however recently a beast bracelet or band can prevent this as the devices were invented to absorb extra magic not used.