

Dudley- His past form was just a boring building, but now his beast form is a huge haunted house with ghosts and wisps coming from it.

-His signature move is wisp Downfall, where his beast form creates a wall of ghosts that crashes onto the opponent with chaotic force.

Solaris- He has a treble clef with two Quaver notes behind it in the fashion of Aegislash that can go from defence mode to attack mode.

-his last form being a huge music note won't fly up so high as he is a psychic wolf. His move still is music note chaos that rains down music notes in a random order.

Artemis- His form now is a dark green dragonfly with its scales glistening with flowers and other small plants wherever it flies.

-his form before was a rainbow skyscraper with still his signature move being forces of Gaia which is a rainbow colored beam that has all the powers inside of it.

Kage- His form appears like a black eastern dragon with a foreboding vibe around it, despite this it can breathe black flames.

-his last form is a huge dark oak tree with spiders and cobwebs in it. His signature move is still shadow downfall where it casts a sea of dark shadows that fall onto the opponent.

Akira- His form appears like a white eastern dragon with a peaceful vibe around it, despite this it can breathe psychic flames.

- His past form was a huge blooming White cherry blossom tree with his signature move being mirror's Illusion which is a psychic power beam that does create minor psychic illusions, his move still remains the same.

Colton- His form appears like a huge drill with 5 smaller ones floating around it all with steel tipped drills they can both break and build with the help of magic.

- His past form was a basic mountain with a waterfall flowing within it with part of the rock face missing showing geodes, his move Hardforce wall where he causes a small earthquake to create a huge rock wall that falls onto the opponent this always causes a sandstorm. However his move and the effect still remain the same

Victor- His form appears like Gigantamax Machop, but with a wrestler motif with his outfit as well.

-his form was a classic sword and a shield with his move being sandstorm chaos that creates a sandstorm that has a lot of wind flowing inside of it to damage the opponent. His beast form remains the same with the same effect.

Zephyr- His form now appears like an electric tornado with a constant light around it, it's now very fast (just like its owner) and can shoot through things like lightning.

-his last form is a raging thundercloud with his move electrostorm chaos causing a wave of electricity washing over everything remaining the same

Storm- His form appears like an ocean but in the shape of 3 whales that all can shoot water from their mouths.

-his last form is a water orb that appears like a wave rushing inside of it, with his signature move being water vortex where it's a water tornado remaining the same.

Dakota-His new form appears like a wildfire that's heavily controlled with the flames sticking straight up, the flames can be directed like water onto a target.

-His last form was a raging wildfire with his move being burning red that sets fire to the target in the form of a beam remaining the same.

Magma- His new form appears like a lava dragon that's bipedal and can breathe fire.

-His last form was a huge lava mountain with his move being hellhound fury which is a huge fire blast which remains the same.

Bodhi- His form appears like a glacier but shaped like an ice monster (although it appears bear like).

-His last form was a huge snowstorm brewing under it, his signature form is frostburn where the cloud unleashes a huge blizzard that freezes anything in its path and his move remains the same.

The signature moves still remain the same though despite their actual beast forms changing, these beast forms are much like personas they change depending on the user of them after a resolution has been met within them.
