

The kings of gaia had gone to the respective temples to ask the gods of gaia questions regarding the next monarch chosen to lead the kingdom once they step down.

They clearly knew who they wanted to choose to lead the next generation and era of gaia that was fastly approaching.

The gods themselves resembled their sons in a way but were completely independent of them personality wise.

They lastly agreed that their sons will be the next Kings of gaia and to bring everyone on the planet together after their roles as Kings was different compared to a younger person.