

So Cole, with his parents in New Stone City, has his parent's vacation house which was a modest home near the "downtown" area of Diamond lake by himself for the summer.

The truth behind Cole is that his family has been running a manufacturing company for 6 generations now, and became close Friends with George Barnett as their fathers know each other and are business partners.

Cole practically lives alone in the vacation house owned by his parents, as his father is usually the one to manage the company out of state and his mother is constantly flying from state to state with her own business.

Cole is often the one to keep this secret with his 7 other friends as they are aware of it, and often host video game tournaments at the vacation house from time to time, making for some pretty fun Friday nights.