

The group, still at capacity, decided to do another video game game night at Cole's place.

Last time Willson had won it, however in a turn of events Makoto was the one to win in the end.

Slyvester and Daniel were kinda going at it silently while playing the fighting game as still no one was aware of their rivalry and their disagreement.

But in the end Makoto won this time around and Willson was the last winner and it was not until Cole had said "we should do this again for a third winner" to have a definite winner for this contest of sorts they all started.