

Outside of being The Defenders of Crystal the team has their own daily lives.

Cole often spends his time just relaxing at his house during the summer and occasionally calls his parents to check up on them as they are often very busy.

Willson often helps out at his part time job at the grocery store, and sometimes at his family's store in town.

Sylvester usually just spends time studying over the summer, as he is planning on being a college student at some point but wondering which school to go to in state or not.

Leo spends his free time usually working out at the gym sometimes with Willson joining him.

Isacc spends his free time playing video games, editing some videos and recording his own lets plays and friday and saturday night streams for his very small fan base.

Joseph often enjoys playing baseball with his brothers and cousins, and also enjoys just being lazy and playing video games just for fun. He often joins Isacc for his video game streams just to sometimes troll him in said games.

Makoto often hangs out with Sylvester and Cole, often being the person to be the person to be friendly and chill with everyone but likes to watch tv and play a video game or two.

Daniel doesn't do very much in his daily life other than be with family members, hanging out with friends and such.
