

The Small group of heroes had begun to do some training on their new powers they got only a few days ago.

They began their training in Twisted cabin before working to dreamworld castle as Callum had joined the team as a low effort battle navigator.

George and the others had then looked at how big and vast the dream world was and the long road ahead of them to save this world and the real world.

Callum had also begun to write a journal and a map of the dream world to help out the team and other monsters and details of their adventures in the world of dreams.
