

Some time later another person had gone missing Vince Benjamin, he is a 6ft Rhino with hazel eyes and brown hair with a chubby but buff body type, often has grease stains on his clothes with goggles in his hair.

He is from a working class family that is fairly normal but very hard working, and determined to succeed, his goal is to become a pro mechanic once he graduates.

He is known to be the hardworking and confident type but often struggles to relax.

The Next dungeon had appeared, the Frustrating Prison where Vince was kidnapped from the real world and his shadow formed the new area.

Callum Jake George Winter and Edward had showed up to the new area with Callum holding his Navigator notebook.

"Yeah This is the place... The Victim must be here" Callum had said, slipping the notebook in his back pocket.

"Alright guys..." George had summoned his sword as it was glowing a thunder yellow.

"Let's Save Vince" George had said, determined as he ran inside the new area as the others ran behind him.

They navigated the new area using their elemental powers if they were being overwhelmed from time to time.

George Edward Jake and Winter had used their own elements to take down shadow Vince as Callum like last time had opened the cage that he was trapped in.

"I know you must have been in a lot of pain because of me... my shadow self"

Vince had reached out to his own shadow and touched it, soon Vince had a Silver aura flowing around him as he was wearing a dark blue pair of overalls with black boots, with a pair of black goggles. He had gained the steel type power and was able to fight with older tools in a variety of ways.

Some time later Vince had joined the team and moved into the dorm, and was thankful that the others had rescued him.
