

The Team had fought through the Dream castle and found the entrance to the dreamstalk from the basement of the castle.

Because of the dream fighter's exploration of the light side of the dreamstalk they were able to get to the 50th basement floor easily.

"We are here on the dark side" Demetrius pointed out, "We have to fight our way through this place to reach the top"

Going through the darker side of the dreamstalk was not easy but manageable and thankful for the numbers advantage they were able to make it through to the exit of the dark side of the dreamy tree.

At the exit they saw the floating village and the castle at the center of it, with parts of the real world and the cities around the globe being sucked into the dream world on this side.

"Despite dealing with the shadows and the minor light shadows we had seen, I believe we know where this adventure takes us..."
