

"But how are we going to make it over there?"

Kendric was sort of grinning to himself as he had an idea.

"Um... why are you laughing?"

"While I was recovering from gaining my memories I was able to give you all a new gadget.."

Kendric had made grappling hooks that look like large bracelets that everyone could wear by slipping it on, but sort of worked like a web slinger.

Kendric had seen a place to hook his onto the floating village in the sky as he jumped off the ledge of the tree and was able to get to the other side easily.

Soon the others had did the same thing to catch up to Kendric and ended up in Nighttime village, a place where the beaten shadows of the dream fighters had ended up.

To the dream fighters it was weird seeing their shadow counterparts, while to the knights of darkness it was weird seeing the shadows they had created themselves.

After some walking they were at the doorstep to the castle of nightmares.

"Hey everyone there is something i wanted to say..." Demetrius had spoken up as he explained that the castle has 13 floors and where the more terrifying and strongest of the shadows were in the whole world.

"If you all feel ready and up to the task... we are by your side right away"