

One of the more interesting parts of this story is people having their own counterparts in a way.

Basically the core 8 members of the group minus Kendric had to do something with their "darker" counterpart.

If it was George and Demetrius being put in a bind and them using their powers in Unison, and with Levi and Jake being the more physically stronger of the group using their actual strength and powers in unison to take down shadows.

The team like last time made it to the throne room of the king and destroyed the door to it to mean that they mean business.

"Back so soon it seems? This resistance will not be necessary as I will crush you Just like I did before.." The king had then gotten up from his throne and readed his powers just like the guardians did the same.
