

The extended team had a long battle with the powerful king of nightmares.

But after an hour the guardians had won as he fell over his crown dropping from his head.

George and Demeitrus had looked down at him and almost like a robot had raised their dominant hands charging with magic to eliminate him but they were stopped.

"Dad!"

"Roman!"

The Queen of dreams had rushed into her husband's side along with her kids as the guardians just stood there standing looking at what was happening.

The Queen had gotten Roman to wake up with remorse in his eyes that were visible to the others as she sort of sobbed a bit her kids comforting her.