

So the group had gone out for a night out to become more acquainted with each other, it then became obvious that Felix's wheelchair would be a problem getting into one restaurant.

"Hey Felix what about we find somewhere else where we can go for the handi-"

Brian had to pick the jaw off the sidewalk as Felix's wheelchair had gone into a hover mode of sorts and floated to the entrance as the others were amazed.

"What? Brian you are acting like you have never seen a flying wheelchair before it's 2030 after all!"

After that the group began to get to know each other rather well, becoming fast friends (after a few drinks). They had seemed to develop a fast best friendship like the kind Artemis and his "wolf Harem" from back in the day.

The group had headed back home to sleep as Brian had actually had fun for the first time in a while before falling into a deep sleep.