

Darius throughout a week was trying his best to become friendlier with Brian much to the coldness he was giving back.

"You know you should have never showed your face again after what happened"

"But"

Brian's high emotions had caused a large thorn bush to form a wall between the two as Brian walked off.

Darius had then formed his weapon, a knife to break the thorn bush up into pieces to follow after Brian.

"Leave... me alone!"

Brian then launched magic sharp thorns directed at Darius as he created a shield to block it.

"I hate you and I wish you never existed!"

Brian had then created magic vines to attack Darius before he just mulched it with his knives.

"I Don't want to fight you!"

Brian unleashes all his magic as his eyes turn dark green with a floral aura around him as he puts up a fist with a grassy energy tied to it.

"You already did"

Brian then created a large magic vine that looks like a large snake with his hands raised up ready for an attack, as the vines had done a whiplash attack.