

Brian and Darius had a mini beast fight between each other in the area behind Moonstone castle Darius unleashing the full extent of his blood based magic as well and throughout the fight Brian was doing everything in his power to not let him in as Darius was trying his best to let Brian forgive him.

It wasn't until Brian had actually beaten him pretty badly that he realized what he was doing that he was in the wrong.

"I... Realized something just now Darius..."

"...what is it?..."

"You and I.. aren't so different as I originally thought"

Brian helps Darius up to his feet.

"I thought that if i rejected you in the same way, and treated you like you did me this problem would have been over with"

"I know that the two of us have had a rocky relationship but, I would want to work past this for the sake of the family and our friends."

Brian had healed Darius to full health and hugged him and started to cry a bit out of forgiveness for the other.

"I know that this is far from over but I would take this one step at a time... brother"

"...Thanks Brother"