

The team is growing more comfortable around being a college student by day, and being a time guardian by night.

The team had gone for a night out just to hang out and have some fun.

They went for pizza, then for some go kart races, and then ended up going back to the dorms for a video game night.

Lucas, now feeling better, felt comfortable around his team and being the leader of it.