

The guardians of time against Steven Charon and his forces of darkness had clashed within the realm of time labyrinth.

After a hard fight and Lucas using more of his own powers as time went on he ended the fight by knocking down his brother.

It was then Lucas readied his own powers to end his brother before Steven snapped out of it when the time stone rolled off of him.

"Lucas...? What are you doing? Why am I here?"

"What are you talking about?, i just woke up here..."

Lucas then hesitated before backing down and lifting up the debris he pinned his brother down with his powers and helped him up before rushing to hug him.

"... I stumbled across this place on pure chance... and i felt powerful and i slowly lost myself.."

Steven had looked at the time stone on the ground as Lucas and the others were looking at it.

"Take that stone... and go onto the next labyrinth as that's where the heart of all this madness is.."

Lucas had hugged his brother again as the two both had silently sobbed.
