

The conference of gaia begins, Solaris did his show to the people there and he bumped into Beverly again at the fair.

"Oh Hey Hotshot fancy meeting you here" "same to you i had no idea your family was important haha"

Solaris and Beverly had walked and talked at the fair, and during the same time the Saikou family, one of the most powerful on the planet among the most richest as well. The family had introduced more things to help the people of gaia with one boy looking to be the same age as the wolves being with the rest of his family on the main stage.

The other wolves were taking a lunch break and Akira had an uncomfortable look on his face "What's up babe?"

Akira looked to the main stage

"Something about the Saikou family is giving me a bad vibe and even if i use my future vision i can't see what would happen..."

"Or you could just pinpoint on what they are going to do with your broken future vision powers.." Zephyr snarked as Magma giggled a bit.

"Zeph you know my powers don't work that way and you know that!"

"I know but they seemed to be kinda pointless at times..."

"HEY!" Artemis screamed.

"I agree with Akira on this and I am pretty sure if Solaris was here he would agree with us also that family is suspicious but if we don't see a future or something coming our way effectively we can't see it..."

Akira sighs "Effectively my future vision powers only work if it's probable for something to happen, not by luck or random chance... and even if Marble was here he would say the same thing"

Kage had hugged his boyfriend as Akira sighed.

"Guys, I think it would be for the best we keep an eye on them and just enjoy the carnival" Dakota said holding Justin's hand.
