

So Again after a concert Solaris ran into Beverly, and the two had gone to grab a coffee as this time they were in opal city's entertainment district.

Solaris was blushing a bit hard rather cutely, as he did develop feelings for Beverly but was unsure on how to go about it. The two were sitting in the empty coffee shop just talking.

"Hey Solaris your face is... really red are you feeling okay?"

"o-oh y-yeah I'm fine it's just that something has been on my mind lately after everything that had happened"

"Well I'm all ears"

"it's just for a while now i felt that i was the odd wolf out because my brother and my other friends have some sort of romantic interest or is dating someone"

"and... there is only one girl who i have recently had my eyes on"

Beverly sensed what was coming and was looking at him "and that girl is me right?"

Solaris basically felt his heart skip a beat and gulped hard "y-yes b-but I'm not expecting you to r-respicate"

Solaris had gotten up and looked like he was going to run out but Beverly grabbed him by the wrist to stop him from running.

"Solaris to be honest.... I liked you too there is something about you that's... alluring"

Solaris had turned around and held Beverly's hands as the two hugged Solaris being kinda firm.

"Your heart is beating like crazy... were you this nervous?"

"y-yeah i was... h-how do we move on from h-here?"

"I feel like we should talk things out... so that we can move together as boyfriend and girlfriend"