

My Team the Knights of Darkness had tried to take on the King of Nightmares this week, but it did not go so well.

He kicked all of our asses badly and even had us thrown out of the castle.

We then had to run for it as he unleashed more monsters from the prison in the basement to get us off the floating village.

Martin our navigator was able to teleport us away but because of the beating from earlier he could only get us to the nightmare dreamstalk the tree that leads between both sides of the dream world.

"That... was painful"

Those were the only words I said before I passed out and the things that I remember is the shock on my teammate's faces when I passed out.
